MUSICAL BANDITS ESCAPE UNDER COVER OF JAZZ
LONDON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Musical bandits who gained a measure of fame with a single street performance are being widely sought for a return engagement. Smashing in the door of a music store in Liverpool Road, burglars loaded themselves with drums of assorted sizes, one trombone, and a music cabinet. Then they executed a retreat under unusual cover.

When the Broadway Limited Left the Rails

Here's what happened when the Broadway Limited one of the Pennsylvania lines' fastest express trains, left the rails at Bennington, Pa., near Altoona. The train, about thirty-five miles an hour, and climbing a steep grade. The fireman and engineer of the lead engine were killed and nine passengers taken to hospitals.

With a boom and a blast of jazzy enthusiasm, the band marched down the street in the early morning hours. Residents along the line of march, aroused by the ill-timed serenade, grumbled but never suspected that the noisy instruments were stolen property. Escape was easy.

The proprietor of the victimized shop counted his losses and laughed. "When I heard of it," he said, "I felt like sending them a plane to complete their band."

top of this came a mysterious poisoning case which affected nearly 200 persons.

Most of the victims had eaten ice cream bought from a modern hokey-pokey man who went about the countryside on a motor-cycle. The epidemic dealt a serious blow to the ice cream business. The big manufacturers, at a special meeting in London, decided to inaugurate an advertising campaign to offset the bad effect on business. Scientists were unable to identify the poison.

One of the largest ice cream vendors in London, which had 1,000 boys selling ice cream in the streets of London last summer, was forced to reduce its staff more than half this year.

THAT'S ENOUGH

"Why? There's a chicken dinner place just up the road."
"That's why!"—Life.

At the Pine Tree

One of the poppiest programs ever seen at the Pine Tree Theatre will hold the boards at the popular playhouse next Tuesday and Wednesday with a great picture program in support.

A big time acrobatic dancer with a sparkling personality and undoubted talent in the art of terpsichore, Tina Tweedie will start proceedings with her snappy stepping. This dainty Miss has just completed a long engagement over a California circuit.

Parrell and Caprice, a comedy sketch team offer a little skit entitled "Yes, I Have Brains" and this couple make merry with smart repartee and several song numbers in keeping with their skit.

Gene West, the well known song composer of such hits as "Broadway Rose," "Jane Night" and "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else" and many others of more recent vintage will be heard in a cycle of hits assisted by Itaby Bird. A song cycle that will please the most captious of critics.

Martin and Mayo, another stellar attraction billed as "Two Nuts Left Over From Xmas" are two young Broadway performers with a comedy offering that is somewhat different. The boys feature some eccentric dancing which is original in its conception. A great act.

A real addition to the program is Miss Hazel Thorp, talented harpist, who will entertain with
