Be Watchful and Loyal

With orders issued by both city and county that children under fifteen years of age must stay at home, it should be apparent to everyone that the situation relative to a harmful disease is certain, for the authorities would not excite people unless there was cause.

It is plainly incumbent upon every citizen to do his part. By that we mean, he should be loyal to the orders issued and be watchful for the good and safety of his own household. Unified action is the only kind that counts. Police and sheriff's office should not be forced to drastic measures to enforce the orders given by their superiors.

Always think of the satisfaction in being watchful of your household. First, being careful; second, using common sense, and third, being loyal to any order issued by the law enforcing officers. You may not agree with the powers-that-be in issuing these orders but you must remember that America is America because of her obedience to law and the will of the majority. Don't quibble or "argue" at a time when quarantine is demanded in its strictest sense and children are ordered to their homes.

Harmonious, united effort will overcome this condition in a very short time and it will pass away, so be watchful and be loyal at this time when those two things are essential in the general scheme of society.

Let the Public Have Protection

New York has a law making it a misdemeanor for taxicab drivers to carry their fares to wrong hotels and to extort from their passengers by taking circuitous routes to their destinations.

In New York City the statute is derisively known as the "rural protective law." It was sponsored by rural members of the New York legislature for the perfectly obvious purpose of protecting the stranger in the big city.

This is a curious attempt to protect the unsophisticated visitor from the "city sharper"; an attempt predestined to prove as futile as its many predecessors. The New Yorker who is learned in the ways of the taxi and the taxi driver has long been convinced that the only way to safeguard the furlite's purse is to forbid him to come to town.

There would be fewer men and women in the cities preying upon the stranger and country sight-seer if there was less carelessness among the latter. One of the mysteries of the age is that the persons who think the cities are alive with confidence men, piratical taxi drivers and other members of the crooked and unscrupulous gentry, ever prove the most gullible and careless. It has been said that the man who carries his purse in his palm is the first to lose it.

The pedestrian who is struck by an automobile in Paris is considered guilty of negligence until he or she satisfies the gendarme of the recklessness of the driver. A similar policy might be effective in large American cities in handling the cases of strangers who get "done" while "doing the city."

The Failure of Class Politics

As president of the American Federation of Labor William Green has announced that this labor organization proposes to adhere to its old policy of political non-partisanship. His statement amounts to a prediction that the present administration of the federation will make no attempt to marshal the labor vote in support of a third party or other independent movement.

If any significance can be attached to the proclamation it is that the LaFollette fiasco convinced labor once more of the futility of a labor party and of the benefits which have ever accrued to labor from bargaining with one of the two major political parties.

President Green showed much wisdom and unusual unselfishness in his suggestion to labor that it should "select the candidates and parties it would support on the principle that those which the most could be expected for the common good would provide the most benefits to labor."

Labor has no interests separate from those of the whole people so there is no need for the government to discriminate in her favor and against the public interests. One class has no right to be raised above another and no political movement founded upon the hope of class government can succeed in this country.

FLASHES

JERSEY CITY.—John Joseph and Thomas are the latest arrivals in the family of Daniel Davis which now number 12. "We named the triplets after Jack Dempsey, Tom Mix and Joe Dugan," explained Daniel, who earns $45 a week as an employee of the county highway commission.

ATLANTIC CITY.—Because she must "fulfill her duty to the country" as her mother expresses it, Miss Lois Delander—Miss America—has consented to make some sort of an appearance on the stage and in the movies. But it will be only during her reign as queen of beauty. She is intent upon a career as an illustrator.

NEW YORK.—It will be much more difficult for young folks to marry in a hurry in this state after the first of the month. Under a new law all under 21 must wait five days before getting licenses and must present birth certificates. And they cannot be married by city clerk. The law is expected to decrease marriages at the New York City chapel by 6,000 annually.

IRVINGTON ON HUDSON, N. Y.—John W. Jaffray, 29, heir to wealth and Anna Di Chara, 16, clerk at a soda fountain, have eloped. Jaffray's grand uncle was a partner of A. T. Stewart, a pioneer in New York department stores. Says Jaffray's grandmother, Mrs. Howard S. Jaffray, with whom he lived: "I am too old to worry or try to look after the present generation." The girl's father, who runs a candy store, says he had picked a husband for his daughter—a taxi driver, the son of friends he knew in Italy and that he kicked Jaffray out when he asked for Anna's hand.

CYCLONE TAKES TOLL. NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 13, (A. P.)—Many persons are reported to have been killed, hundreds injured and thousands left homeless by what is described as one of the most destructive cyclones and tidal waves in the history of the Mexican west coast. The storm occurred last Wednesday, first reports reaching the Herald here today.

Obituary

GOTTFRED OLSEN. Gottfred Olsen, formerly a resident of Bend, Oregon, where he was engaged in the manufacture of bricks and general contracting, entered into rest in this city at an early hour this morning. He was a member of the Bend B. P. O. E. and the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The remains have been entrusted to the care of L. A. Towse, local mortician, who will announce the time and place of the funeral after the arrival of word from a number of relatives who have been notified.

MRS. NELLIE ALLEN. Nellie May Allen, wife of Henry Allen, 236 Michigan avenue, passed away in this city at a local hospital today following a brief illness. The remains are in care of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home, Pine avenue at Sixth. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

RALPH ROW WEAVER. Last rites for the late Ralph Row Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Weaver, who passed away at the family residence, 1322 Mitchell street on Sunday evening were held from the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home this afternoon. Rev. Fred Kimsey officiated. Interment was made in the Linkville cemetery.

CHARLES KENNEDY. The remains of Charles Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Shannahan of Newberg, Oregon, will be forwarded to the family home at Newberg on this evening's train. Arrangements were under the direction of the Earl Whitlock Funeral Home, Pine avenue at Sixth.

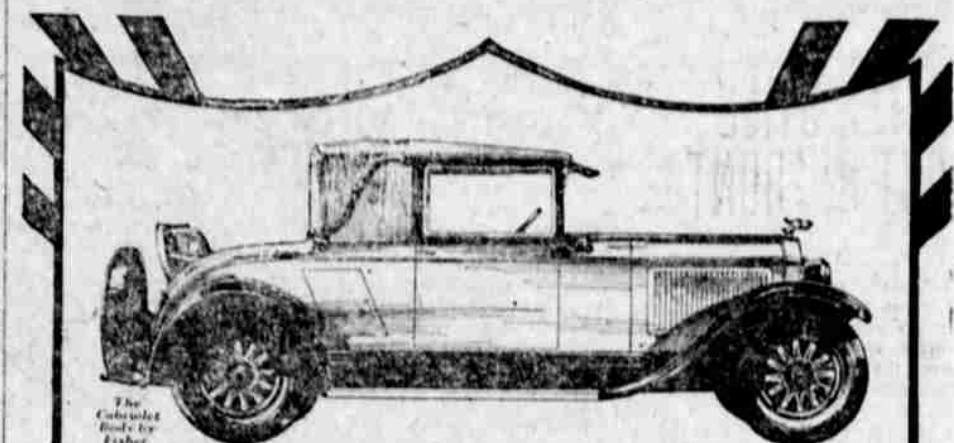

Letters From the People

The Evening Herald, Klamath Falls, Oregon.
Mr. Editor:
I noticed your very creditable article on our grand display of livestock and in fact everything that a coming country could offer for a fine display of our varied resources, and there was one booth that I think needs special mention. That was the one from the Klamath Indian Reservation. I think I can say without any doubt that it could not be surpassed by any display offered in this state and I think I would be safe in enlarging on my territory and I want to say that the Indians deserve great credit for their display and they should be encouraged to come again and make it an annual event. One other thing I would like to have in the annual event and that is the beauty contest for the girls. I would suggest that every community pick out their most beautiful girl and have her here for the big parade. As you say some people enjoy giving money, and I am the cowboy that enjoys handing it to the prettiest cowboy girl. Commence now to pick your girl from each community and have her dressed in her best cowboy rig for the big parade and I will furnish some of the saddle horses. Not only furnish them but I will also give one to the girl chosen as the most beautiful in the parade. J. FRANK ADAMS.

A New American Car For All-America

No need of wasting a lot of words. No need taking a lot of time. Your eyes alone will tell you it's the new American car for all America.

Length, grace and lowness in the new body creations by Fisher. A fashionable air of fleetness—an environment of luxury and richness. Distinction on the boulevard. Mastery on the road.

No magic, of course—and no untold engineering innovations. Just a big brute of an engine that laughs at hard work. A longer, stronger chassis. And months of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground.
