K. F. HOSTELRY
AGAIN RAIDED

Twice within a period of less than a week's time eight gallons of moonshine have been taken from a room in a local hotel. Last night officers were tipped off that if they would enter a certain room of the hotel they would find a cache. They did so and this morning another four gallons and two pints were poured into the sewer. A week ago, four gallons of moonshine was taken from G. E. Adams as he attempted to deliver it to a hotel room. The cache was concealed in a straw suit case. Officers were unable to give any clue as to who owned the liquor.

THINK VICTIMS ARE NOT TRUE

wife, Mrs. Theresa Alfano Molloy, 25, the mother of his three children and Mrs. Leona Lee Molloy, 28, his brother Joseph's wife and the mother of three. The bodies were found in trunks, packed down with the severed heads, arms and lower limbs placed around and on top of the torsoes. With the body of his wife, the slayer left his weapon, a knife, two feet long and two inches wide, used in hacking sugar cane stalks. The bodies were found by two insurance agents called to the scene by the negro scrub woman who found traces of blood. Joseph Molloy surrendered to police yesterday afternoon and expressed the belief that his brother had killed the women through jealousy. Joseph declared both he and his brother had been having difficulties with their wives because of attentions they accepted from other men. Joseph said he took his children and left his wife Tuesday, after a quarrel. Henry stayed on hoping for a change. Joseph said the last he saw of Henry was when he appeared at his room late Wednesday night with his three children and asked that they be allowed to stay. He had been drinking heavily Joseph said. Frank Kimmell, whose name was found pencilled on a wall in Mrs. Theresa Molloy's room, was arrested and is being held for questioning. He admitted being intimate with the woman, police said. The boss is inclined to dislike the bookkeeper who can't make the books show a profit.
