Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hill entertained Tuesday evening with a 500 party in honor of their sons, Clarence and Ralph, who are home from the University of Oregon for the Christmas holidays.

Seven tables were in play throughout the evening. High score was held by Clinton Barkhurst and the consolation prize was awarded to Millie Gordon. Those who enjoyed the evening were the Misses Marjorie Reeder, Millie Gordon, Bonnie Propst, Lucille Dawson, Mary West, Wilma Dawson and Olive Hill. Martin Ashby, Clarence Guber, Robert Faus, Herbert Wilson, Cecil Halter, Clinton and Roscoe Barkhurst, Cecil Whitley, Jay Manning, Clint Myers, Paul and James Hess, Nick Birk, Charles Booth, Clem Icenbice, Glenn Delinger, Max Records, Clarence and Ralph Hill, the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver N. Haley, and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Roney returned from a visit at North Bend.

Miss Bernice Dawson of Bly spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Dawson.

The Henley girls' basketball team defeated the Henley alumni team 21 to 16 in an exciting game Thursday evening. The Henley boys were defeated by the community team with a score of 24 to 16.

Miss Mary McComb of Klamath Falls spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McComb.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Icenbice and family were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Schriener Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hill entertained New Years with a dinner for the following guests: Evelyn Propst, Olive Hill, Max Records, Clem Icenbice, Ralph and Clarence Hill, and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Brown were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kaylor Sunday.

James Mark spent the Christmas holidays with his parents in Poe valley.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. West were host and hostess at a dinner on Christmas. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Griffith and daughter Carolyn, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lintz, Dale West, and host and hostess.

The Henley student body was increased Tuesday morning by the addition of Clarence Roney to the sophomore class.

JUDGE SPEAKS BEFORE ROTARY

"A reign of terror exists in Oregon," said Judge L. H. McMahan, better known as "Old Mack" as he addressed Rotarians at their luncheon on the lawlessness of law-enforcing officers.

Judge McMahan suffered from physical and mental strain because he and Mrs. McMahan had scarcely reached Klamath when they received a wire stating that Mrs. McMahan's brother was at death's door in Salem. News early the judge's speech was short in order to start for home in answer to the message, but he said enough to make every Rotarian give serious thought to conditions which permit law-enforcement officers to shoot at people at will. He enumerated many cases in the state where officers had killed people who at the worst could only have been convicted of minor offenses and in each case the judge said no district attorney would move against the offending officer.

He promised to return to Klamath Falls in a few weeks and talk to a general assembly of people of the city and county who feel concerned about lawlessness in its different phases.

Wilson Wiley was in charge of the five minute talkers today at the luncheon. Introducing Andy Collier who spoke for five minutes on the progress being made by the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, he then called upon Dr. E. D. Johnson who spoke for a like time on the Southern Pacific railroad company and its work in this city.

Earl C. Reynolds, the new chamber of commerce secretary, addressed Rotarians in a most friendly manner and asked their assistance in his work. He was followed by George Collins, a former wholesale grocer of this section who is now located in California in the sub-division work. Mr. Collins gave some reminiscent stories of this county when he was here and how his finds it today.

Rotarians sent a message of sympathy to Hank Manning, district governor, in the loss of his wife a few days ago.

taking a claim check," the sheriff said. "He told an attendant in the garage that he was going to catch the 11:15 a. m. train south. We have no trace of him after he left Redding."

Realizing that Meek had a 38-40 caliber gun, and being informed that there were only three such guns in the county so far as records show—the sheriff's office Monday called up Meek at his lonely cabin at Odessa on the Charles Wampler ranch, and asked him to come to Klamath Falls for questioning. Instead Meek went to the Ford garage, paid an installment of $29.94 to Vernon Moore, garage employee, and then, on Monday night, after buying a tire at the R. K. garage, left Klamath Falls. He apparently drove through the night arriving in Redding early Tuesday morning.

According to the sheriff's office it was from a 38-40 caliber gun that the fatal bullet was fired. At first it was believed to have been a .45 caliber gun, but later investigation proved otherwise.

Failure of Meek to come to the sheriff's office as he had promised over long distance phone, combined with his sudden nocturnal trip south to Redding have heightened suspicions of the sheriff's office.

Chief of Police Keith Ambrose and Assistant Fire Chief Oak Boggs today made a second trip through mud and mire to Meek's cabin on the west side of Klamath lake, 30 miles from this city. It was these two men who discovered Wednesday night that Meek had gone.

Meek was well known in Klamath and was an acquaintance of Ansel. He frequented the Gun Store and the O. K. barn when he came to Klamath Falls.

His trips were usually infrequent, in which he bought supplies, but, according to police information he came to the city often just preceding the murder of Ansel.

While he was making his payment to Ford garage employee, the chief topic of conversation among employees was about the Ansel murder.

The trapper had little to say. He peeled off necessary money for the installment from a roll of greenbacks and walked out. He did not appear to be disconcerted during the conversation.

Official posters were sent out to sheriffs' offices and police departments on the Pacific coast by Sheriff Hawkins. Description of Meek was as follows:

Aged 28; height, five feet nine inches; weight 150 pounds; eyes, gray or blue, very large; hair, brown; complexion fair; prominent scar over one eye incurred from kick of horse; has very red cheeks; features, prominent nose; talks slow, low and very little.

The trapper is regarded as one of the crack revolver shots in the country. He devoted his spare time to practicing at targets. He was inclined to be silent and had few friends.

REDDING, Calif., Jan. 6. (A. P.)—Shasta county officers today were engaged in a man-hunt, with John Meek, wanted in Klamath Falls, Ore., for murder, as their object. Meek was believed to be in this locality.

Packard Lines To Remain The Same For Coming Year

With its factories already working overtime in an effort to keep pace with demand, the Packard Motor Car company again has done the unexpected in a big price cut on all of its own custom models of the Packard eight. On some types the reduction runs as high as $700, this amount having been slashed off the price of the two passenger convertible coupe, the seven passenger sedan and the seven passenger sedan limousine.

No change is made in the car, each model remaining identical with that which Packard has been building since the improved Packards were introduced last summer.

The action taken by Packard was altogether unlooked for by the automobile industry and by the public because of the volume of business the company is doing. For several months it has been breaking all records in production, sales and net profits for its entire history of more than a quarter century.

"The future is bright," said the announcement of the company, "and it is but good business for Packard to share its prosperity with those who buy its products."

Equipment on the cars, Packard says, will be continued as before and there will be no change in the offer of an unlimited choice of paint and upholstery. New equipment made in effect, a big price reduction last summer as cowi lamps, two spare wheels and tires, mounted in fender wells, and many other features were added. Normally many items of equipment installed on the Packard custom models of the eight together with unlimited choice of color and trimming make a very considerable addition to the price of a car.

One of the longest wheelbase cars built, the Packard eight, besides other honors bestowed upon it by the public both in this country and Europe, has been christened "the restful car."

Packard apparently has been striving constantly to make this name even more fitting for, besides restfulness of body, ease of mind has been sought with many pioneering mechanical features for the car.

$85,000 CASE IS LOST BY ENGEL

had failed to allege improper treatment. He objected to all evidence of this nature and his objection was sustained.

The firm of Myers and Napier represented the plaintiff. It was one of the biggest malpractice cases that has ever been tried in southern Oregon.

Such outstanding specialists as Dr. Walter Schaller of the Stanford university medical school and Dr. H. M. Greene of Portland were called to Klamath Falls to appear as witnesses for the two local physicians. Both doctors are recognized as outstanding men in their profession in the west.

Dr. E. D. Johnson, Dr. H. D. Lloyd Stewart and Dr. Paul Sharp, local physicians appeared for the doctors, as well as a number of other witnesses.

Dr. Rodgers of the Klamath Indian reservation appeared as a witness for William Engle, plaintiff.

EAGLES DEFEAT LEGIONNAIRES

Legion Quintet Fails to Overcome Early Eight Point Lead

In an exciting basketball tilt last night at the exhibition building, the Eagles nosed out the American Legion team with a victory of 29 to 28.

The Legionnaires seemed to experience the difficulty of getting started. The first quarter ended with the Eagles ahead 8 to 0. Although the Legion gained in each succeeding quarter they were unable to overcome the eight point lead.

The game was cleanly played and showed a marked improvement in the style of basketball being played now and that of previous years among the independent teams. Nearly all fouls committed were entirely due to the slickness of the floor.

These teams will meet again at the Legion hall on February 9. The lineup follows:

Legion (28) Pos. Eagles (29)
Gillenwaters (2) McDaniel (12)
Bradley (4) G. Mulkey (2)
DeSpain (5) G. Arnold (4)
Irwin (11) F. Wright (4)
Molatore (6) Benson Johnson (6)

Dedication of Langel Hall Drawing Many

Formal dedication of the Langel Valley Community club this evening will be attended by many local business men, who today declared their intentions of making the trip to the prosperous and thriving community.

Several carloads of local people plan to leave early this evening to attend the opening which will be in the nature of a dance and welcome to people of the surrounding country. Several brief speeches will be given and the ladies of the community have prepared a dinner.

While a number of business men hoped to make the trip some were not positive as The Herald went to press. Among those who definitely decided to make the trip were: John C. Boyle, J. P. Duke, Will Lee, C. A. Henderson, R. C. Groesbeck, Judge F. R. Goddard, Bruce Dennis, H. N. Moy and E. M. Bubb.

Bessler Here on Visit.
Tom Bessler, brother of William Bessler of the Evening Herald, has arrived in Klamath Falls for a visit of several weeks with his brother and family before returning to his mines in California. Mr. Bessler has been spending the past few months in Lakeview where he was employed with the Lakeview Examiner. He was formerly employed with The Evening Herald and has many friends in this city who are glad to learn of his return, if only for a short time.
