Chromium Plan of Plating is Used by Studebaker Concern

Chromium plating has been adopted for all exterior "bright metal" parts on Studebaker cars, according to an announcement made by the Studebaker corporation. As a result of the use of this new metal Studebaker owners are assured of bumpers, headlights, radiator shells and other plated parts which are free from rust or tarnish, and which in addition are virtually wear proof.

Chromium is even brighter than nickel when polished, and is harder than the hardest tool steel. It is rust proof, impervious to salt and all but two acids, and resists heat up to 3,000 degrees. It is practically unscratchable, and so hard that even a thin film of it on other metal will cut glass. Finally it can be plated on almost any other metal, giving a coat of complete and lasting protection.

While this last quality would make it possible for Studebaker to apply chromium direct to the polished metal, thus making a short cut to reduce production costs, the corporation's research engineers found that the most satisfactory results were obtained when the surface to be plated was first polished, then copper plated, then nickel plated, and after a final polish, given its lasting coat of chromium.

At the first of a series of dances which the Fort Klamath Community club is sponsoring to finance the annual Fort Klamath ski race, held last night at the community hall, more than 100 couples were present. BRAD WILL BE TRIED IN LAKE CITY, RULING

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Jan. 28.—C. H. Brad, former under cover agent for federal prohibition agents, will be tried here in Lakeview instead of getting a change of venue to Jackson county, says the Lakeview Examiner. This was the decision announced by Circuit Judge O. M. Corkins after a careful consideration of all angles of the case.

Brad is under indictment here on two charges. One accuses him of personating an officer and the other alleges he accepted money for aiding a felony. He had sought to have his case transferred to some other county on a change of venue, but the order entered by Judge Corkins today bans such a plan.

The court announced that Brad will come up for trial at the next term of court on February 20th.
