

MISS BURKHART WEDS SATURDAY

News Notes of Midland District Told by Herald Correspondent

(Special to The Herald) (Pauline Burnett, correspondent)

MIDLAND, Mar. 21.—Of interest to residents of this district is the wedding of Miss Myrtle Burkhardt to Sidney Thompson on Saturday. Miss Burkhardt is a teacher in the primary grades at the Midland school. The couple will be at home to their friends at the Midland hotel.

People of this community are deeply sorry to learn of the death of little Joyce Matheson who was laid to rest in the Linkville cemetery in Klamath Falls on Monday. Joyce was ten years old and leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Matheson, to mourn her passing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sutton visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Largent on Sunday.

Mrs. Winifred Corbins has returned to Midland to resume her teaching after an absence of some time with illness.

Among the visitors at the S. L. Burnett home on Sunday were Velma Lashie, Hazel Short, Ruby Holcomb, Edwin Shumire and Bernard Hooper.

Opal Hooper was the week-end guest of Miss Anna Burnett.

The farmers of this district are busily engaged in planting spring crops.

Little Charles Cathoun, small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cathoun, is reported as improving from a serious injury which he received last week.

Miss Catherine Burnett visited at the home of Miss Hazel Short on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Nelson F. Coles of Klamath Falls plans to reorganize Sunday school at Midland next Sunday. He will extend an invitation to all to attend the services.

Mr. Alexander has returned to his home at Klamath Falls after teaching at the Midland school during the absence of Mrs. Corbins, who has been ill for some time.

Anna Burnett and Opal Hooper spent Saturday afternoon at the Cathoun home.

For results use Herald Class Ads.

—A DEATH-HOUSE PORTRAIT OF THE CONDEMNED "FOX" William Hickman's Only Thought Is to Enjoy What Life Remains

He Plays Cards With Guards, Jokes and Reads Magazines

NEA Service Writer By DAN THOMAS LOS ANGELES, March 21.—The black shadow of a gallows seem to mean little to William Edward Hickman.

A card game, the way his hair is combed, a magazine story apparently mean more to him than the fact that he is to die on April 27 at San Quentin penitentiary for the murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker. His blasé manner in the face of almost certain death is amazing.

The "Fox" was very cool while he was being tried and sentenced for the little girl's murder. He was the calmest man in court. He laughed about it after he had been led back to his cell, just as he had joked with detectives when they visited his apartment the morning after he had delivered Marian Parker's mutilated body to her father.

It's all very wearying to the condemned "Fox." He doesn't care what this second jury says about his mental state, and he isn't worrying about hanging twice. It is just that much more trouble for "Jerry," young Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney, who is his defense counsel.

Facts No Remorse Hickman has believed all along, and said it too, that he would die on the gallows. But he thought hasn't bothered him any more than has remembrance of his crime. There is just one idea left now—getting the most out of the brief span of life that remains.

Wants Publicity Reading takes up—of Hickman's time; fiction brings a world of dreams; the newspapers present stern reality, tempered with what, to him, is personal glory. He still shows marked concern when his name does not appear in the daily headlines.

Hickman jokes with his guards as he washes up preparatory to the court sessions. His shirt must be spotlessly clean, his suit pressed, his shoes shined. People are going to look at him when he is led into the courtroom. He wants them to. So he straightens his tie, dons his most cheerful smile and goes with his guards.

There are few enough pleasures that a condemned man may have.

neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

Apparently troubled neither by remorse for his crime nor by the knowledge that he is sentenced to die April 27, William Edward Hickman still smiles. He is shaven, upper right, with the same broad grin he has worn since his capture. At the left, he cheerfully washes up for his appearance in court during the second murder trial. He is pictured below at a game of solitaire in his cell, his favorite amusement.

NEW FEATURES OF STAR FOUR ANNOUNCED

Longer Wheel Base and New Body Lines Are Very Attractive

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—Longer wheelbase and entirely new body lines are among the features of the new Star four, to be shown for the first time on the Pacific coast at the San Francisco auto show.

The production of this new model is by far the most important step taken by Durant motors in the effort to build a high quality car at the lowest possible price, since the first Star four was brought out in 1922.

There are three models in the new Star line, a four-door sedan, coupe, and two-door sedan, ranging in price from $495 to $570 F. O. B. Lansing, Mich. They are mounted on a new 107-inch chassis. This is the longest chassis that has ever been offered by the Star four.

The longer wheelbase of the Star chassis permits the use of larger, roomier bodies, and the designers have taken advantage of every inch. The result is quite evident even at a casual glance. Sweeping lines from the radiator to the rear of the body and from the front fenders to the tire carrier accentuate the long, low appearance of the new Star four.

SCHEDULE FOR KLAMATH CLUB FILM IS TOLD

Seven film of motion pictures featuring boys and girls club activities in Oregon will be shown in several communities next week. One of the films was taken at the Klamath County fair last year. All parents who have children in the county clubs are asked to attend, and there will be a charge of 20 cents made for adults to cover expenses. All children will be admitted free.

H. C. Seymour of Corvallis, state club leader, is expected to arrive here to attend several of the meetings when the film will be shown, but the exact date of his arrival has not been announced.

The schedule of the showing of the film at community halls: Mallin, Monday, March 26; Merrill, Tuesday, March 27; Henley, Wednesday, March 28; Bonanza, Thursday, March 29.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO HELP FIGHT BEETLES

Word that the bill designed to give Klamath and other Oregon counties funds for the control of the pine beetle menace, had passed the house, was received by the chamber of commerce here Tuesday from Senator Chas. L. McNary.

The measure allows a much larger appropriation for control work than was given last year, it was pointed out in a wire from Senator McNary, who predicts added funds for this activity out of the forestry appropriation. The senator from Oregon believes the bill will remain intact as it passed the house.

His wire follows: "The Bureau of Entomology received $51,740 from engineering and agriculture and for approriation bills for pine beetle control. An increase over last year's appropriation. Also will receive an allocation out of the appropriation for forestry service. Am now holding hearings on the bills and this statement was made by Colonel Greeley. It is my opinion that the item will remain as it passed the house."

"(Signed) Charles L. McNary."

THE ORPHEUS TODAY 'BY WHOSE HAND' with RICARDO CORTEZ and EUGENIA GILBERT
A dynamic drama of Baffling Mystery

BUICK

Outsells any other 3 cars in Buick's field

Motorists like you invest almost as many dollars in Buick motor cars as in any other THREE CARS in Buick's field
Faith means something when it is backed by dollars

SEDANS $1195 to $1995 COUPES $1195 to $1850
SPORT MODELS $1195 to $1325

BUICK GARAGE

NASH

One of the finest

5-passenger Sedans at a NEW PRICE, AMAZINGLY LOW

Nash—long the leader in fine-car value—now increases its margin of leadership by new reduced prices.
Now at a new low price you can buy this big Special Six 5-passenger 4-door Sedan—a car built to the highest standards of quality and style—brilliant in performance—one of the finest.
You can have this Sedan in an option of colors—done in the new Nash deep-lustre finish.
The interior is upholstered in first-quality mohair velvet, with inlaid walnut paneling and period interiorware to heighten its charm and luxury. Cushions are deep tufted and form fitted.
This Sedan, like all Nash cars, is powered by the great, Nash-type 7-bearing motor, has Nash 2-way 4-wheel brakes, the Nash straight-line drive, Nash extra easy steering, and all the other luxuries of performance which belong exclusively to Nash.
Wire wheels and side-carried spare wheels and tires are optional at slight extra cost.
Save your money, and at the same time enjoy a finer mode of motoring. Buy this 7-bearing Nash Sedan!

TEMPLAR MOTOR CO. INC.
Repair Specialists
11th and Klamath Phone 1010

Sell Your Car for Cash

The quickest and best way to sell a used car is to insert a thoroughly descriptive Want Ad in this paper for a short period of consecutive insertions. Now is the time to sell your car, as the approach of spring creates the desire to buy one. Want Ads assure you of the widest possible distribution of your sales message to the very people you wish to reach. It is the surest and most economical way to get quick results.

THE COST
2c per word per day

HERALD WANT ADS

DR. SCOVILLE LASHES WETS

Whatever Else Happens America Must Stay Dry, Says Evangelist

"Few Americans know," said Dr. Scoville in his revival meeting at the Christian church last evening, "that the Declaration of Independence was written on a Masonic altar and on a lambskin apron as the original document, and signed by a congressional representative, John Hancock, a Christian and a Mason. Fifty of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence were Masons and Christians. When George Washington called to gather the 13 original colonies he called 13 Christians and Masons. He also had 29 major generals and 20 were Masons as well as Christians."

Borrowing his figure of speech from the bible text the evangelist said that God needs to draw a plumb line over the political, social, industrial, economic, religious and domestic life of the world today. God drew a plumb line over Israel because of her sin and the same thing is necessary in the world today.
The speaker used dramatic language in condemning the wet forces that are at work in the United States today saying that the wets are making a determined effort to gain control of the political situation in the hope that the 18th amendment may be repealed and the damnable cursed saloon brought back. Too long was America entranced by the saloon and the rum gang and whatever else happens America must stay dry until the world goes dry.
Tonight the Scovilles will appear in their army uniforms for the patriotic service which they will conduct. Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Scoville served in the World War serving in eight army camps. Out of his war experiences the evangelist wrought an address entitled "The Curse of Kaiserism and the Blessings of Christianized Americanism," which will be the topic of his lecture-sermon tonight. Mrs. Scoville will entertain in song by singing a number of patriotic solos including "Have You Seen Him in France" and "The Phantom Legion." Mrs. Scoville sang 43 times in 22 wards to the sick and dying soldiers.

In announcing his subject for tomorrow night the evangelist said that he was going to preach on "The Unpardonable Sin," one of the great neglected cardinal doctrinals of the church. "The Bible Hell" is the subject announced for the Friday night service.

AIR DESIGNER HURT IN FALL

LONDON, March 21. (AP)—The London Daily Express says that Captain Geoffrey De Havilland, air craft designer, after making a series of successful tests in the air of a device intended to prevent a plane from crashing, crashed but escaped serious injury.
A Moth plane fitted with a slot ed wing safety device was put through a series of tests at Stag Lane airfield which demonstrated its power to check its plunge when in various dangerous positions.

NEW CHEVROLET IDEAL CAR FOR EXTENDED TOUR

While most of the east and middle west and parts of the south have been pumeling from cold snaps, faws and sleet storms, motorists of the Pacific Northwest have an excellent opportunity to see Mother Nature actively engaged in primping up for spring and giving the hills and meadows their annual garment of wild flowers.
The enclosed car is the ideal type for spring travel, as in fact it is for the greater part of the year. The possibility at any time of wind or fog makes the convenience of movable windows a decided advantage even in this favored country, where bad roads seldom interfere with touring and sunshine for a good part of the year is the rule rather than the exception.
The Chevrolet Motor company last year sent out an imperial launch to visit the various National parks of the west in order to demonstrate to the motoring public how really easy it is to make such a trip—and, if taken in a Chevrolet, how economical. During this tour elevations up to almost 12,000 feet were reached, and at some points snow was encountered on the trip, which covered a distance of approximately 12,000 miles in less than three months.

The New DURANT-STAR

Largest closed car for the World's lowest price

HERE

SATURDAY

Deliveries start at once

HAMAKER MOTOR CO.
"Service Worth While."
Phone 1040 8th and Klamath