Let's Have It

The McNary-Haugen bill has passed the senate. That either means the bill is good or else the senate is passing the buck. Let us assume that the United States senate is composed of big men who will insist on examining every measure thoroughly before appending their names to its passage. Then, the question arises as to changing a policy. Many think the McNary-Haugen principle is not sound. In answer, let us ask what is sound in business? If the tariff has been right, and all republicans think it has been, then let us have the McNary-Haugen bill and try it out in order that farmers may have the benefit of an inverted tariff principle.

We have heard so many times that the country would go "hay-wire" if certain things were done, and we have found after those things happened the country keeps right on as formerly, that we have ceased to listen to standpat alarmists—or wild-eyed reformers.

Coolidge—Yes

Now and then something trickles out to indicate that Calvin Coolidge will consent to run again if the party gets into a jam or if there is a wide and universal demand for his services.

Why shouldn't he?

Mr. Coolidge is a citizen of this country as well as its president. Nothing could be more unthinkable than for a man who has been honored to the highest point by the people refusing to serve them again if in his own mind he is convinced that the demand for his services is sincere and pure.

The right kind of a demand for Coolidge will get him, but he will not enter into political schemes or games and we do not see why he should. His duty is to serve his nation as it commands him after having been honored as he has, and Coolidge will not turn down his duty.

The Bombing of Kings

Italy's king is in danger of losing his life from a bomb, indicating that the king business is still rather unsettled and not entirely safe for the crowned heads.

As the story is read of the bombs falling close to the royal head one sees the outline of the popular premier, Mussolini, on the horizon. Whether a popular premier cannot exist alongside of a popular king, we do not know, but history has many times stated that it is very hard to do.

Popularity, so enjoyable to royalty, is the key to jealousy and jealousy sometimes begets bomb-throwing or other kinds of drastic crime. King Emmanuel escaped this time but there may be danger in the future if some arrangements are not made to popularize the king and the premier equally.

When The New York Stock Exchange Goes Rampaging

The floor of Stock Exchange as Artist George Clark of NEA Service saw it during hour of trading.

By George Clark

A frantic place is the New York Stock Exchange when the bulls are on the rampage—as they were when I sketched it.

A great room a hundred feet high and blocks around, it seemed. Like the Grand Central Station with all trains pulling out at once, in noise. Like a grid-iron in activity.

Running, shouting, gesticulating, red-faced men. Groups of portly business personages in football huddles here and there. Bald heads. Acres of ticker tape. Scrap paper in littered profusion.

The huddles break. Then signals, a great hubbub of called numbers. Broken field running. Collisions. Arms waving, fingers darting in code—now three, now four and a thumb. Hurriedly scribbled messages and memoranda.

At a thousand telephones, and hurrying to and from them, a myriad of clerks. Young college men with brokerage ambitions. As dignified and self-important

FORMER STATE CASHIER FREED

Clarence Thompson is Granted Conditional Pardon by Governor

SALEM, Ore., April 13. (AP)—Clarence Thompson, who three and a half years ago was sent to the state penitentiary for embezzling $5000 state funds while holding the position of cashier in the state treasurer's office under Treasurer O. P. Hoff and Jefferson Myers, was freed yesterday under a conditional pardon from Governor Patterson. One of the conditions is that Thompson live outside the state, and it is said he will live in the state of Washington.

FILM LUMINARY SERIOUSLY ILL

LOS ANGELES, April 13. (AP)—Richard Dix, film actor, operated on three days ago for appendicitis, was reported from the Roosevelt hospital here today to be in a critical condition.

Dix' operation was an emergency one to prevent rupture of the appendix. He had a severe cold at the time and since the operation peritonitis and lung complications have set in. He is reported to have had a "very poor night—didn't rest well, and coughed all night."

WOOL PRICES FIRM; MARKET FAVORS BUYER

Shearing Spreading; Price Quotations Are Announced

BOSTON, April 13. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The wool market, generally speaking, has been very quiet this week. Prices are very firm on medium wools, which readily find a market for all available stocks, while fine wools, which are in comparatively fair supply, find the market slow and rather in favor of the buyer. Reports from the goods market indicate a slow market.

"In the west shearing is gradually spreading. Contracting is at a minimum, with growers generally holding above the level of what dealers are at present willing to pay.

"The foreign markets are all quieter and Bradford is no more than steady.

"Locally there is little or nothing being done in mohair. The Texas market is locally cleared."

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following wool quotations today:

Scoured basis, Oregon: Fine and P. M. staple, $1.15@1.18; fine and P. M. clothing, $1.00@1.05; valley No. 1, $1.00@1.05.

Mohairs: Original bag average 12 months, Oregon, 55¢@60¢. Graded stock: First combing, 75¢@80¢; good carding, 45¢.
