

The Evening Herald

T. B. MALONEY Editor
W. B. ENGLISH Business Manager

Published every afternoon except Sunday by The Herald Publishing Company at 102-122 South Fifth Street, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, on August 10, 1896, under act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

By Mail	By Carrier
One Year $5.00	One Year $5.50
Six Months 2.75	Six Months 3.00
Three Months 1.35	Three Months 1.50
One Month .45	One Month .50

ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE
MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use or republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein. All rights of republication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20, 1928

The Way of the Underworld

Murders are not uncommon in our larger cities. Nor is it uncommon for a shooting to be explained by the police as "part of an underworld war." The bootleggers, gangsters and racketeers have a way of settling their disputes without outside help. A business rival, an upstart gang lieutenant or a squealer is quietly pistolled on a dark street, and things go on as before.

Police seldom are able to bring the slayers to justice, as the parties—even the wounded men—will not talk. But, after all, we needn't feel so badly about it. In its own rough way the underworld is keeping its population down. Acts of violence are regrettable, of course; but the death of a beer baron or a gambling king is no loss to society.

A New Plan to End War

Lieutenant-General Frits Holm of Denmark has a new scheme for preventing war. It probably won't get adopted, but it sounds as if it might be effective.

A nation adopting it would pass a law providing that in case of war the head of the state, his cabinet, all his male relatives, all members of parliament who voted for war and all bishops and prelates in the nation's churches should at once be pressed into service as privates in the infantry of shock troops. They would serve until death or the end of hostilities, and would not be eligible for promotion.

This sounds a bit drastic, indeed. One imagines that General Holm will have his difficulties getting it through very many parliaments.

Our Young Dreams

Patrick Hurley is 13 years old and lives in Detroit. If we're not mistaken, he is a young man who is going to make his mark in the world some day.

Patrick built a sailboat the other day. It was eight feet long and two feet wide, and highly rickety. He got up before dawn, left his father a note saying, "I am going to Alpena," and embarked on his 300-mile cruise.

By luck he didn't drown. His boat was swamped in Lake St. Clair, but he managed to cling to a buoy until rescued. He returned home quite undismayed.

Every boy dreams at some time of making a boat and going adventuring. Few actually do it. Young Patrick seems to be a lad with determination. The quality should carry him far.

EDITORIALS

FROM OVER THE NATION

TOP DOG

T f me: Members of Britain's nether classes often refer collectively to those above as "Them." Evidently they know that a man child born to "Them" can take the soft path that leads through Oxford or Cambridge and then on to Place and Power. Such a scion of "Them" is David George Brownlow Cecil, Lord Burghley, 23, who ran through Cambridge as a track star, and was appointed last week a justice of the peace at Peterborough.

"What qualifications?" roared labor hecklers in the house of commons, "what qualifications has this athlete which justified his appointment as a justice of the peace?"

Clearly the under dogs were yapping at "Them." Replied Top Dog Sir Thomas Walker Hobart Inskip, his majesty's attorney general, sternly: "The lord high chancellor (Baron Hogg of Hailsham) himself is satisfied that Lord Burghley takes an active interest in public life and is well fitted to hold the office."

I consulted his lordship before making the appointment. . . . It was his opinion that a young man of standing should receive an opportunity in early life to gain experience in public affairs.

Should Lord Burghley's father, the fifth marquis of Exeter, die, the young justice of the peace would take his seat in the house of lords, inherit estates of 27,000 acres, and become both hereditary grand almoner to his majesty and custos rotulorum of the shire of Peterborough.

AND THAT'S THAT.

London Tailor: "Are you sure," an anxious patient asked a physician, "are you sure that I shall recover? I have heard that doctors sometimes give wrong diagnosis, and have treated patients

Dr. R. Phillip Giveng Famous Trudeau Medal

PORTLAND, June 20. (AP)—The famous Trudeau medal, awarded annually by the National Tuberculosis association to the person making the most important contribution to the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis, was voted here to Sir Robert W. Phillip of Edinburgh, president of the British medical society.

This was the first time the honor was ever bestowed upon a foreign physician.

Sir Robert established the first tuberculosis dispensary in Edinburgh in 1887 and developed the world-famous Edinburgh system of tuberculosis control.

The award was made at the opening session of the annual meeting of the association.

TWO AVIATORS FORCED BACK

HAVANA, June 20. (UP)—Lieutenants Robert J. Douglas and James E. Parker, U. S. aviation corps, who took off at 7:55 a. m., yesterday for Tela, Honduras, in their Boeing pursuit planes, returned here at 9 a. m. because of a faulty gasoline feed.

The aviators had attempted to leave at 5 a. m. but returned when one of the gravity tanks failed to function properly.

G. B. Shaw's Last Literary Testament Disappoints

BY THE NEA BOOK SURVEY

George Bernard Shaw has written what he pleases to call his "last will and testament."

Since it occupies some 500 pages of type, and took him six years to prepare, it is evident the celebrated Irish playwright and wit intended to be generous with his economic bequests. We feel there is likely to be some little contest over the exact size and importance of his estate. For our own part, we would far rather be left a single preface, such as introduced "Androcles and the Lion," "Joan of Arc" or "Pygmalion." And the penetrant and masterly satire of half a dozen of his plays we look upon as a far worthier monument.

What Shaw has done is simply to sit down and write, in his inimitable fashion, a very thorough outline of Socialism. This he has done thoroughly. But the question may be raised, is he telling us much that we don't already know? The arguments for Socialism have been pretty generally broadcast. The importance of this "last will and testament" lies, it seems to us, in the Shaw manner and style. Even then, he is a bit garrulous and more direct than satirical.

His first typically Shavian crack may be found in the title, "The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism" (Brentano). Note, please, that the book is addressed to the ladies, "God bless 'em!" In a special preface to American readers, Shaw whams the male members of society most unkindly.

"The United States could not possibly carry on were there not some sort of practical intelligence back of them. By this book I shall get at the American men through the American women. The average man is ashamed to admit the depths of his ignorance by asking elementary questions and I dare not insult him by supplying the missing information."

Wherefore, says Shaw, he will speak to the wives, fully anticipating that the husbands will overhear what he is saying.

To a large extent, his "last will" turns out to be little more than a primer. We read the oft-printed information that capitalism is doomed to die of its own greed, that Socialism is the universal panacea, that Socialism will clear the earth of the social cancers, that distribution of wealth and labor is far from equal—and all the rest. He takes milady to the market place and reveals to her that when she buys the evening's eggs and cabbage she is maintaining a middleman and paying an added charge into his pocket.

All this, and more, most of us read in our teens—or should have. Shaw himself once wrote something to the effect that "if a man is not radical by 21, he is a moron."

Never an Iron on My Hair

Wherever my theatrical engagements happen to take me I could have a marcel, but I never do. I prefer my own method—waving my hair with my Wave and Sheen.

I always keep my hair clean by shampooing once a week. I apply Wave and Sheen with a comb. You can use a brush or just your hands.

I dampen the hair with it—insert the comb in the direction I wish the waves, tie a veil over my hair and keep it on for about an hour. Some types of hair require more time, some less.

The result is a soft, lovely, undulating wave. Most people in my audiences think I have it marveled. Many ask whether it is a natural wave. It is not.

You can have this same sheen no matter what method you use to wave your hair. Get a bottle at any toilet counter for 75 cents. One trial will convince you as it has thousands of others.

25 ARE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

MEXICO CITY, June 20. (AP)—Twenty-six bodies had been recovered today from the ruins of four buildings destroyed by the explosion of a boiler in a bath house. Thirty persons were known to have been injured. The bath house was in one of the poorer quarters of the city.

An American, H. Kenneth Forsgren, employed by the Mexican Telephone company, was among those injured. His condition was not believed to be serious.

The force of the explosion was so great that the bath house and a building adjoining it and two other buildings across the street were reduced to debris. Rescuers feared that other victims might be buried beneath the ruins.

A part of the boiler, hurled across the street, knocked down a dwelling, killing a mother and her two children. Walls along the street collapsed and many passersby were caught beneath the falling bricks, mortar and wood.

DICTATOR NEEDS REST

MADRID, June 20. (UP)—Primo De Rivera, Spanish dictator, will leave July 1 for Escorial for ten days complete rest. He has been in ill health for several weeks.

George Bernard Shaw, whams the male members of society have to take the place of slow evolution.

By making women economically independent, they would cease being looked upon as man's property—is it possible that Shaw is not keeping up with his times? He has no patience with eugenics and feels that, even under Socialism, the State might have to inaugurate compulsory birth control if the populations began to get out of hand.

One thing is certain—it cannot be said that Shaw's is a case of sour grapes. He has built himself into a mighty figure and doubtless has accumulated a goodly amount of world's goods. And he has left the world so much that however he draws up his will, he estate is going to be divided to suit the tastes of his followers.

Rexall

HARMONY BAY RUM

One-half Pint

50c

Made from the finest distilled oil of Bay. Full strength and highest quality. Makes your face tingle—The real thing. Also an excellent toilet water for general use. Refreshing and invigorating to the body, especially during the hot summer months.

STAR DRUG CO.
The Rexall Store
Klamath Falls Oregon

Roads to Summer Playgrounds Reported in Good Condition

Dominant note in this week's highway report on roads leading to summer playgrounds, is the fact that one and all are now open to automobile traffic.

Following is the report:

Mount Hood Loop.

Opened on June 15, and in good condition. Screenings have been placed over fresh oil and practically all surface oil had dried before road was opened. The Cooper Spur road to Cloud Cap Inn is open for 7 miles from main loop highway. A snow drift of 15 feet blocks highway at the north end of Ghost Ridge. Motorists can walk by trail from this point three-fourths of a mile to Cloud Cap Inn if they so desire.

Crater Lake.

Crater Lake Highway, Medford-Crater Lake Park, Klamath Falls is open all the way. The spur road leading from Anna Springs to the lake is also open. The Dalles-California Highway is in especially fine condition and practically all roads leading from it are in good condition. The road from Beaver Marsh to Diamond Lake is in very good condition, no dust or mud, the weather is quite cold at the lake. Roads to Odell and Crescent Lake in good condition. The pumice foundation on which this road is built give the road a very smooth surface.

Redwood Highway.

The Redwood Highway, due to construction work, is not recommended at this time as underground springs have been encountered which make a bog hole

VISIT

THE NEWEST AND MOST MODERN

BARBECUE PIT

In Southern Oregon
Seven miles north on The Dalles-California Highway.

BARBECUE LUNCH
CHICKEN DINNERS
ON SPECIAL ORDERS

Popular Prices

Phone—
Shady Pine Camp for special reservations.

FLY-TOX PROTECTION NEEDED

Thirty Different Diseases Are Transmitted By Flies.

Flies are the filthiest insect known. They deposit germs in three ways. By contact, vomit spots and excreta. They taint everything they touch. Fly-Tox kills flies. It is safe, stainless, fragrant, sure. Simple instructions on each bottle (blue label) for killing ALL household insects. Insect on Fly-Tox. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. Fly-Tox brings health, comfort and cleanliness.

HERALD CLASSIFIED ADS BRING RESULTS

A Real Snap

Two Lots in Industrial District—50x140

Close to S. P. Round House

Write Box 942, Herald

Whose fault . . . when love fades?

Strange, what little things so often kill romance. Careless little things! Unconscious slips that creep in to part treasured illusions. So unsuspected, the guilty one rarely guesses the truth . . . until it is too late.

Can anyone afford to risk body odor?

BODY ODOR is a fault that not even love can excuse or overlook.

Before this tell-tale offense, the most ardent affection may turn cold and fade away. In both our social and business life, body odor may be a serious menace to happiness.

And yet—not one of us is safe from body odor. To live, we must perspire. Even on cool days, our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

Body odor betrays—without warning the offender

This body moisture, whether visible or invisible, is always odorous. And it spurs no one. Men or women—regardless of occupation or position in life—all may offend unless they take precautions.

And very often we may be guilty—without knowing it. For, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. This misleads many people, even fastidious ones, into thinking they are safe—when actually they do offend.

Why take chances?

But there's no excuse for this unpardonable offense now. Just wash and bathe often with the delightful toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

The same gentle and abundant antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Lifebuoy's mild purity makes it ideal for complexion, too. It keeps skins clear and glowingly fresh. Millions use Lifebuoy for every toilet purpose.

What a clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

LEVER BROS. CO., Cambridge, Mass.

LIFEBUOY

• FOR FACE • HANDS • BATH •

STOPS BODY ODOR PROTECTS HEALTH