

DRYS TO BOLT AGAINST PARTY

making plans for a determined fight on the floor for a "bone dry" plank when the platform is reported but by the committee. How acceptable the tentative draft will be to the drys is problematical.

Former Governor Sweet of Colorado presided over the meeting today and with Daniel Roper of South Carolina led the march of delegates to the convention hall.

The following resolution, presented by J. A. Hartness of North Carolina, was adopted:

"At a mass meeting of more than 1,000 people including delegates from many states attending the democratic convention, it is resolved that there shall be no changes in the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and that the platform committee is instructed to endorse both and to declare for strict enforcement of both."

However, virtually all speakers seemed to take it for granted that Smith would be the party's nominee and their attention was centered on the fight for a dry plank.

Senator Harris declared if Smith ran on a wet platform he would lose Georgia by 50,000. William D. Upshaw, dry crusader from Georgia, also declared that the "Tammany Tiger" will never get in the White House. Other speakers included Cone Johnson of Texas and Clifford Walker of Georgia.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 28. (UP)—The wet and dry sham battle got so hot late today that a fight between Senator Carter Glass of Virginia and Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, had to be forcibly averted by other members of the platform committee.

Tydings advanced toward Glass and was within two feet of the slight Virginia senator when Senator Gole Blease of South Carolina stepped in. Tydings scrambled with Blease, trying to move past him to get at Glass.

Tydings had protested that Bishop James E. Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal church south was insulting the state of Maryland in saying Maryland was shipping liquor into West Virginia. Tydings accused Cannon of making a misstatement and then compounding it.

Chairman Pittman ruled Cannon's remark out of order.

Glass rose up, protesting. Glass said Tydings was out of order in his characterization of Bishop Cannon. Cannon repeated his statement.

"That's a —," shouted Tydings. "If you had an ounce of fairness in you, you would not make such a statement."

Glass kept moving menacingly toward Tydings, shouting he was out of order. Tydings thereupon started for Glass. All the time Bishop Cannon was shouting: "Have you got an enforcement act in Maryland?"

"No, we have honest citizens there and don't need it," Tydings once replied.

Chairman Pittman, who had no gravel and was using a carpenter's hammer instead, was pounding in vain for order.

It took five minutes to restore peace. Tydings was escorted back to his seat and Glass was persuaded to retire to his.

Pittman told Cannon he would have to confine himself to remarks concerning the platform.

Glass had made the point Tydings was out of order. Tydings made the point that Bishop Cannon was out of order, and Pittman agreed every one had been out of order.

Unanimous consent was sought to permit Cannon to continue in order but Tydings and other wets objected.

Senator Wagner, Tammany representative on the committee, then moved that Cannon be permitted to proceed and the motion was adopted amid applause.

With peace restored, Bishop Cannon proceeded to denounce New York state for repealing its state enforcement law. When he concluded, he introduced several other speakers, including Mrs. Neil G. Berger, a dry from Missouri; Wayne C. Williams, of Colorado; M. E. Burton, north, and Dr. A. J. Barton of the southern Baptist church.

Southampton Greets "Lady Lindy and Her Crew"

This NEA and Evening Herald photo, which was flashed across the Atlantic by radio, shows the crew of the trans-Atlantic seaplane Friendship as they landed at Southampton, England, after the hop from Hurry Port, Wales. After landing in the harbor, they were brought ashore in motor launches. Left to right, as they stood on the dock, are Mrs. Frederick Guest, backer of the flight; Louis Gordon, navigator; Miss Amelia Earhart; Wilmer Stultz; Mrs. L. M. Welsh, Lady Mayoress of Southampton.

Club Women Re-elect Entire Personnel 1927-28 Officers

To facilitate the final day of the Federated Women's Club convention when many business matters will have to be disposed of, the election of officers was held yesterday at the afternoon session with all the present office holders re-elected.

The following officers will preside for the next two years: Mr. G. J. Frankel, Portland, president; Mrs. George T. Cochran, La Grande, first vice-president; Mrs. A. Y. Myers, Marshfield, second vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Wells, Hillsboro, treasurer; Mrs. Ray W. Logan, Seaside, auditor; Mrs. George Gerald Root, Portland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles N. Bilyeu of Dallas, recording secretary.

The remainder of the afternoon was given over to annual reports from various departments of the organization. Mrs. Ronald M. Hopkins, chairman of the press and publicity department told of the interest which is being brought out in club work through the columns of the daily press.

Mrs. Ida B. Callahan, chairman of the Department of International relations gave an interesting report, stressing the point that this is more of a department of understanding than action, and that all other departments in the federation are closely related to this one. Included in the department of education were the following reports: Rural schools, results of adult education, reports of motion picture committee, report from library extension division, report from department of birds and wild life, and report from conservation of forests division.

The final night session of the convention was enjoyed last evening in the new banquet hall at the Willard hotel, which was the first meal to be served since the completion of the hall, and was enjoyed by about 300 guests.

A six-course dinner was served with Mrs. F. W. Bochtel presiding as toastmistress, and the following program was held:

Music by Les Sailing's orchestra; presentation of Mrs. G. J. Frankel, state president and also newly elected director of the convention in Texas; presentation tion of Mrs. G. R. Lindley, local president; reading by Ann Elsha Knutsen; The Midgets by Mrs. F. H. Olds; general Federation reports from Mrs. Ronald M. Hopkins, Mrs. Charles F. Wells and Mrs. G. J. Frankel.

Much comment was heard for the banquet room which was rushed to completion in time for last evening's program. The room, 65x47 feet in decorated in Indian designs which stand out against the deep brown of the wood work. The walls which rise high to a paneled ceiling are of cream, making an effective color scheme. At one end of the hall is a small stage which may be used by musicians or other programs.

Double skylights with an electric light between provide an unique lighting effect.

Dr. Lee Vincent, speaker of national fame, head psychologist and assistant director of the Merrill Palmer nursery school of Detroit, addressed the convention Wednesday forenoon on the subject "The Nursery School."

Throughout the entire hour the speaker held her audience with interesting facts and her charming personality and ability to bring out important points. She outlined her talk by taking the different ages in the life of a child, and stressed the point that personality and character building can be taught a child from as early as one year.

So interesting and instructive was the address that many of the mothers in the audience asked permission to present problems to her, which she graciously answered as she would deal with them.

The final day opens this morning at 9 o'clock with Mrs. Frankel and Mrs. Sallie Orr-Dunbar presiding. Most of today's program will be given over to the remaining annual reports and unfinished business.

EXTORTION CHARGED
SAN FRANCISCO, June 28. (UP)—Accused of attempting extortion, Sherman K. Sanborn, 23, of Springfield, Mass., was arrested here today. He said he was a cousin of the Rev. W. J. Sherman, pastor of the Central Methodist church here.

SQUABBLE AT CAMP REVEALED

It is in a place designated for officers' cars. The Telegram's report continues:

"During the altercation, it was reported, an officer who outranked Captain Forester appeared suddenly on the scene, his identity unknown to Forester, who is said to have upbraided him for meddling in the affair."

Forester discovered only too late that he was addressing a senior officer, who is said to have been a colonel, in his night shirt. The officer of the day later ordered Captain Forester to his quarters under arrest and General White was informed.

"General White then named a board in review."

"Meanwhile, word of the disciplinary action reached the ears of company A 116th engineers, commanded by Captain Forester, when time for duty came they refused to participate in maneuvers."

"The entire company was placed under arrest at Gen. White's orders but later was released when matters were patched up. Meanwhile, the board of review returned its finding to General White who is said to have requested Forester's resignation 'for the good of the service.'"

"The resignation is now in the hands of Gen. White at Salem."

COPCO STAGES PICNIC SUPPER

Some 75 employees of the California Oregon Power company enjoyed a picnic supper on the shores of Upper Klamath lake last night. Weenies, beer (near) limberger cheese, etc., formed the main portion of the refreshments.

The supper was had at the expense of about two-thirds of the crowd; one third were guests.

Early in the season, the company employees divided themselves in three, even as ancient Gaul, and called the three divisions ball teams. They then played ball, with such vim that two or three men were badly crippled. The winning team, which went under the proud name of Mugwumps, was the guest of the losers at last night's weenie roast.

HOT PUPPIES!

CLEVELAND, June 28.—"Sul-eide John" Pummer is the undisputed flapjack eating champ of this metropolitan area. And that isn't all. Less than 24 hours after winning the "Stack o' wheats" crown from "Dough-boy Joyce," Pummer engaged in a duel for winner eating honors and won six up with a total of 13 hot puppies under his belt. "I could have got away with more," said Pummer following coronation ceremonies, "but I had a steak a short time before and there was no reason to keep on."

Klamath Float Is Commended

A letter was received yesterday by the chamber of commerce from the Berrians, booster organization of Newberg, complimenting Klamath Falls on the splendid float which was entered in the Rose Festival parade at Portland. The letter follows in part:

"The Berrians gracefully bow out of the picture when it comes to handing you first place. Furthermore, the float was gorgeous and in the minds of some of our organization you deserved to be runner-up for the Grand Sweepstakes prize."

"The Newberg Berrians, for many years have captured first place in competition with cities outside of Portland, and received the grand sweepstakes in 1925. We therefore appreciate the pride you hold in your recent achievement, bringing, as it will, valued advertising and favorable comment about your city."

PROGRESS MADE ON ROAD JOBS

Quartz Valley Section, However, Will Not Be Open July 4th

LAKEVIEW, Ore., June 28.—

The new highway over the Quartz mountain section of the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway will not be ready for public travel by July 4, according to autoists who have arrived here from Klamath Falls this week. Instead, it will be closer to the middle of July inclusive.

before the gravel work is entirely completed and the new highway open for traffic the full distance, it was estimated.

Dunn and Baker, contractors, are working at top speed to complete the work as quickly as possible, but there is still much graveling and smoothing of the highway to be done before it can be used for steady travel.

The work on the new Devil's Garden section of the highway is progressing rapidly and this will be ready for traffic by early this fall, it is generally believed.

Local residents are hopeful that the Devil's Garden section can be finished before the date of the Railroad Jubilee and annual Round-up on September 1 to 3, inclusive.
