ONE KILLED IN BOOZE BATTLE

DETROIT, June 29. (AP) — Warfare between factions fighting for control of the Detroit river liquor traffic broke out last night. August Nykiel and Michael Dipisa, rival leaders, were shot dead. A policeman and a woman bystander were in hospitals today suffering wounds received during a pistol battle.

Police were told that Nykiel was called out of one of his string of riverfront saloons and cut down by a fusillade of pistol shots fired by Dipisa and an unidentified companion, posted behind an automobile in front of the place.

Edward A. McPherson, a constable who was serving a summons at a house nearby when the shooting occurred, ran to the street and opened fire on the pair as they attempted to enter their car. Dipisa was killed during the exchange. McPherson and Mrs. Catherine Krolzyck, a passerby, were wounded. McPherson seemed today to have little chance of recovery. The woman was not seriously wounded.

Heavy furniture, curtains and rugs and bric-a-brac merely provide places in which dust can accumulate and are of little value to the sick. All unnecessary furniture and ornamentation should be removed.

Flowers may be placed in the room but even these are frequently distasteful to patients and should not be urged upon the sick who do not care for them. Particularly distasteful are faded or dead flowers.

No medicine should be given which has not been prescribed by the physician. Medicine should always be given at the specified time and in the amount prescribed. The patient's own judgment in this matter is certainly not to be trusted, but even his judgment is better than that of the untrained attendant.

Few people without training are able to take care of the patient's bed. Everyone apparently is anxious to make the patient feel comfortable, and adjust his pillows. The patient may prefer to be let alone.

If such happens to be the case, he probably will be fully competent to manipulate his own pillows. If a person is sick, the sheets, pillow cases and bed linens must be laundered frequently. If the patient has a communicable disease, these should be washed at least every second day.

The night gown or pajamas also should be washed often, certainly at least once every two days.

Communicable diseases are spread by people who carry the germs of infection from one person to another. When infectious disease is present in the home, room the hands and face should be washed by every person both on entering and leaving the sick-room.

Here Are Useful Tips On Care Of The Sick

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In their interesting guide on home problems, Miss K. W. Kinyon and Prof. L. Thomas Hopkins devote one chapter to a discussion of the manner in which sickness should be controlled in the home.

The systematic outlines that they present are safe guides to healthful living. For instance, one statement gives briefly and succinctly the elementary facts for the control of the sickroom. The room must be clean and simply furnished, and be provided with plenty of fresh air and sunshine.
