(Special To The Herald)
(Velma Snowgoose, correspondent)

KENO, July 13.—The sheep of George Ager have been moved from California to the ranch located in the Plena district.

John McLaughley, blacksmith for D. J. Puckett, has returned from a visit at Roseburg.

George Trofse of Butte Falls, accompanied by Walter Zeldler of Applegate, spent the first of the week at the Snowgoose ranch.

A. W. Shell has returned from a visit in Ashland.

L. W. Anderson was a business visitor in Klamath Falls the early part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson motored over from Worden to spend Sunday at the Chester Wilson residence.

The Ross Simmers family spent Sunday at the L. Holten home.

Ben Snowgoose was a visitor at the Merle Anderson home on Wednesday.

Miss Esther Anderson is assisting at the D. J. Puckett boarding house.

Miss Vera Grubb visited at the L. W. Anderson home on Tuesday afternoon.

The road committee, composed of Roy Nelson, Ben Kerns, D. J. Puckett, Chad Gordon and Charles Snowgoose motored to Klamath Falls on Saturday to a road meeting.

Miriam Grubb spent Monday visiting at the home of Mrs. Lyle Gordon of the Worden district.

POISONING ON TULE IS DONE

The upland area May 1st and continued throughout May and June, until July 1st, countless millions hatching daily and heading for the crop land near the lake. This has necessitated constant control measures, resulting in the manufacture and spreading of nearly a million pounds of poisoned bran mash.

It is estimated that over 20,000 acres were infested with hoppers on the frontage extending entirely around Tule Lake, a distance of approximately 40 miles, County Agent Henderson said today. A large part of the hatching was done on the old lake rim, where ground cannot be cultivated and the hoppers within a few days of hatching immediately started for the growing grain crops surrounding the remaining part of the lake. The Lava Beds, Captain Jack's Stronghold, and the peninsula country, all scenes of the Modoc War, contributed the major portion of the infestation. The entire lake rim was poisoned daily for several weeks, resulting in extremely heavy kills, but the never-ending hatching process made the battle a hard one.

Fire was used to advantage in certain sections where the hoppers had congregated in dry woods in cold weather, resulting in heavy kills. Before the hatching season started, cultivation of egg beds on the lower lands also was of considerable benefit.

"Reports that all crops on Tule Lake were destroyed by grasshoppers are somewhat in error," Mr. Henderson explained, "inasmuch as the major portion of crop loss on Tule Lake was due to drought in that section. A survey of the Tule Lake at this time shows 14,000 acres of excellent grain and 4000 acres of grain hay, and an additional 4000 acres of excellent alfalfa, besides smaller acreages of potatoes and miscellaneous garden truck crops, and pasture, or about an average acreage, as compared with past years.

"During the poisoning season the following quantities of materials were used: 5500 sacks sawdust, 4500 sacks bran, 20,000 pounds arsenic, 50,000 pounds molasses, and 100 gallons amy acetate. This material was mixed with water, making a fine mash, and spread daily over the grasshopper infested area.

"It is estimated by losses that over 90 per cent of all grasshoppers have been killed to date, all egg beds remaining are being checked by field men, those on the low land to be cultivated after all eggs are laid, and those on the high, rocky land adjoining the Lava Beds to be poisoned next spring as soon as the young hoppers start hatching. All egg beds are being flagged at this time. It is believed that this pest can be completely controlled by intensive cultivation and an active poisoning campaign early next spring.

"Funds for carrying on this work have been supplied by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation and Klamath County cooperating, under the direction of the local County Agricultural Agent of the Oregon State Agricultural College Extension Service, total cost of the campaign being approximately $20,000.

"Grasshopper infestations are not a new thing to Tule Lake inasmuch as they have been occurring regularly since the lake was drained to a low point seven years ago. Inasmuch as the land is under Government ownership and leased to individuals, cooperation in the past in fighting this pest has been meager, resulting in increasing numbers of grasshoppers, until the high point was reached this year. Under the present plan of five-year leases, adopted by the Bureau of Reclamation a year ago, cooperation of lessees as a whole has been good.

"Total damage attributed to the depredation of grasshoppers is rather difficult to estimate, due to annual loss by drought and frost, particularly in the upland districts, although it is perhaps safe to say that around 1200 acres of good crops were destroyed by grasshoppers this year, resulting in the loss of many thousands of dollars. Also loss of pasture and hay on the uplands was considerable.

KRASSIN SAVES FIVE FROM ICE

May 25 and constituted the main part of the Italia's crew for which hope had been held out.

A full report of the rescue of the Viglieri group was received in Moscow today from Prof. Samoilovitch, leader of the Russian rescue expedition. His report follows:

"Within three miles from the Viglieri group, the Krassin sighted the remnants of an airplane, the abandoned machine of the Swedish flier, Lieutenant Lundborg, and the red tent of the Italia from which was coming smoke signals in response to the deafening siren blasts continually sounded from the Krassin.

"The Krassin then drew up close alongside of the ice field which was harboring the victims. I climbed down a trap ladder which was lowered from the boat and found myself in the outstretched arms of the rescued men who embraced and kissed me as they wept tears of joy. They said that throughout they had pinned all hope on the Krassin but did not expect it to come so soon.

"All those rescued and taken aboard were well save Cecconi who has a broken leg, but his condition is not grave."

Soon after the Viglieri group had been rescued, a heavy fog came up and immediate progress of the Krassin was made impossible, but as the fog lifted it was able to continue its battle with the ice floes.

The first intention of the ship is to proceed to Foyu Island where several persons were slighted who as yet have not been identified. These men signalled to the Krassin and the ice breaker signalled back that she would pick them up on returning from the Viglieri rescue. Prof. Samoilovitch expressed the belief that the men were Alpine chasers who were sent in search of Nobille's men six weeks ago. These men were the Italian Alpine chaser Captain Sera and the Norwegian guides Varmin and Vandogen.

No word had been heard from this little group which started out for Foyu Island for many weeks and they were virtually given up for dead many days ago.

After this group is picked up the Krassin will continue back to the group of the Russian flier, Chukhnovsky, who with four members of his crew is stranded along Northeast Land. Chukhnovsky on Tuesday first sighted the Italia's walking party, whose leader, Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meteorologist, had died and notified the Krassin of their position.

Chukhnovsky, on his return flight to the Krassin, became lost in the fog and made a forced landing near Cape Platen. His landing gear was broken, but he and his men immediately set up a camp and by wireless urged the Krassin to rescue the two members of the Malmgren group who were in a starving condition.

Would'st Be Success? Be Social Lion

CHICAGO, July 12.—The fellow who dances every dance has a better chance of becoming a success than the fellow who is constantly a wall flower, in the opinion of Prof. J. A. Tobin, of De Paul University.

"It's good-fellowship, the art of getting along with fellow men and the traits common to a social lion, is a requisite that must be in the repertoire of a young man who hopes to be a success.

In history, the Prof. points out, nearly all the great leaders of men, the artists and doers are men who attained prominence because they were social lions. They gained the confidence of their king and comrades because they knew "their armor" and could take more baths and live through more than any other man in court.

However, social grace alone, according to Prof. Tobin, cannot raise anyone to the pinnacle of attainment. It takes honest ability combined with social traits to make a real man, he says.

LUMBERMEN OF LAKE ANNOYED AT RAIL RATE

LAKEVIEW, Ore., July 13.—Although Lake county timber is not shipped out of the country on ocean carriers, local lumbermen and others were interested this week in a new tariff schedule received from San Francisco showing that Klamath Falls is given a rate of 13 cents for ocean-going lumber shipments as against 31 cents from the Lakeview district. Even Sprague River, Dairy, Hildebrand and other points on the O. C. & E. line are given at 21-cent rate, as against the 31 cents for Lakeview. The new freight schedule on this class of lumber ships will become effective August 15.

Mrs. Taylor Passed Away—Mrs. Ella Taylor, a recent arrival from Puyallup, Washington, passed away on Thursday night while visiting with relatives near Merrill. Funeral arrangements will be made following word from relatives. Mrs. Taylor was 57 years of age. The remains are at the Tracy Mortuary on Pine and Eighth streets.
