STARS IN LEAD, PORTLAND WINS

Hollywood Leads League by One Game; Beavers Win Two

(By the Associated Press)
After losing six straight games to San Francisco the Angels came back in the second of a doubleheader to win 12 to 4. The morning game was dropped to the Seals six to four.

During the nine innings of the second game the Los Angeles club collected 21 hits, including a homer, triple, double and a couple of singles by Schulmerick. Batteries, first game: Jacobs, Jones, Moudy and Sprinz; Barfoot and Warren.

Second game: Pillette and Sandberg; Reuther, May and Sprinz, Reed, Vargas. Sacramento grabbed the series with Oakland by winning both sides of the doubleheader, the first 13 to 12 and the second 11 to 3.

Batteries, first game: Bonnelly, Rachac, Flynn and Koehler; Shea, Craghead, Boehler and Lombardi. Second game: Gould and Sevcord; Cooper, Baglia and Lombardi.

Hollywood still leads the pack by a single game after splitting the doubleheader with the Beils, the first game, 12 to 6, and the second 11 to 0. The Stars drove over eight runs to sew up the first game in a frantic fifth inning, knocking three pitchers from the box.

Batteries, first game: McCabe and Agnew, Hughes, Didier, Pillette and Baldwin. Second game: Nevers and Sypheer; Kinney, Murphy, Melchay and Bassler.

Twelve innings were required by the Beavers to win the night cap from the Indians, 5 to 4, after they had taken the first game, 3 to 1. Johnny Couch held the tribe to six hits and one run in the first game.

Batteries, first game: Couch and Rego; House, Cole and Borrahn. Second game: Tomlin, Yerkes, French, Ponder and Whitney; Colard and Borrahn.

Games this week: Hollywood at Los Angeles. Sacramento at Portland. Oakland at Seattle. Missions at San Francisco.

NAILS GORMAN MEETS CRILLEY IN MAIN EVENT

In what promises to be one of the best bouts ever staged in Klamath Falls, Nails Gorman and Jack Crilley will battle in the main event tomorrow night at the hall on Sixth and Klamath avenue. The boys wound up their training campaigns last night, and both are declared to be in A-1 condition. Gorman will weigh in at about 185, while Crilley is expected to raise the beam to about 194.

Gorman and Crilley are well known around Klamath for their ability to give and take punishment. Chiloquin Indians will turn out en masse for this bout, and it is said they are betting heavy on Gorman, who has won numerous bouts in the reservation city from some tough boys.

Johnny Francis and Jack Davies also finished their training, and are all set for their match.

The Hottinger-Frost go promises to be a second main event. These boys are tough and ready mixers. They are fighting, winner take all, and each declares that someone is going to get hurt in their match.

Many ball players who inherited four or five syllable names take compassion on the sport writers or the poor fellows who set up the box scores and shave them down.

Boley and Simmons of the Athletics are much easier to spell and pronounce than Boboleky or Szymanski, their real monikers. One of the most complete changes of baseball names I remember was Lee Magee, the old Brooklyn infielder. His real name was Leopold Hornsbejer.

Speaking of names reminds me of one the late Larry McLean pulled when he was catching for the Giants.

Larry went over once to one of the island forts in New York to visit a military friend and was abruptly halted by a sentinel. "Who goes there?" demanded the soldier. "Why, me, of course, who didja expect?" answered Larry.

"Advance and give the counter-sign," called the guard. "Counter sign?" queried Larry. "Why, this ain't no department store. Gangway, there, I gotta see my pal."

"You can't pass," insisted the soldier, "without the word. Back up there!" And his bayonet glittered menacingly.

Larry came right on, and the guard introduced him to the weapon. McLean was about to slay him, but he remembered just in time that he represented the flag. "Legally," shouted Larry, "I can't slam you, but I'll get you. I'll give the Colonel, who's my pal, an careful about you, young fellow."

"Did you get his name?" asked the Colonel, later. "Sure I did," answered Larry. "I never overlook a detail like that. Yep! The big Swede—I saw his name right on his gun—it's Krag-Jorgenson!" Copyright, 1928, Publishers Syn.

Hooks and Slides

CLOUDY DAYS AND OLD SOL.

All these many years this column conductor, and probably a great many others, have labored under that age-old belief that cloudy days tended to decrease a batter's effectiveness and at the same time make the pitcher a bit more the master of the situation.

However, this belief is all wet, according to Dazzy Vance, the star Brooklyn righthander. He says it is just the opposite.

Vance's best games, says he, were pitched on days when Old Sol was bearing down in all its glory. And here's the why of it: "On a cloudy day, the batter has nothing to do but watch that ball and he naturally has a better chance to see it because of the slate background.

"On days when the ball is coming up through a bright atmosphere, the ball blends into this white atmosphere and gets lost. That makes it tougher for him to hit. The batters lose the ball while it's coming up to them. They hit at where they think it is—but it isn't.

Well, plenty of people may disagree with this, but these reasons will do until somebody better as a pitcher than Dazzy Vance comes along to disagree.

MAY AS WELL PAY OFF

Long before the season opened, Goose Goslin of the Senators and Bill Terry of the Giants met and talked about their batting and each wagered the small sum of five dollars on his ability to compile a better average than the other this year.

This is just early July, but Terry may as well pay off now. The Goose is hitting far above the .400 mark and Terry is down around the .300 figure. The Goose won't stay up there until the end of the year, but it is doubtful whether the Giants' first-sacker will raise his average more than 30 points and the Goose won't fall that far down.

PERSE, THE HARD GUY!

When Pat Malone, the Cubs' young pitcher, was a youngster and thinking about being a big league ball player, he had to take a lotta razing because his name is really Perse and not Pat.

And he decided to make himself a tough baby because it was a time when you had to be tough to get along in the big leagues.

He likes to be thought a tough guy even today. He chews about a pound of tobacco every time he pitches. He sticks fast ones close to the batter and when they yell at him he sticks another about the same spot to make them like it. He says "make them back up!"

Malone once tried out with the Giants. Perhaps that is where he learned about this matter of being tough because he had nice playmates in Cozy Dolan, Johnny Rawlings, Shuffling Phil Douglas, Pancho Snyder, Fred Toney and others.

MAYBE THIS IS THE REASON

Ty Cobb, the ball players say, is having the laugh of his life over the plight of the Detroit Tigers. And the time he was at the head of the Detroit club, Cobb had it thrown up to him that his nagging and riding of the players was ruining the chances of the ball club. But, according to gossip, Moriarty is giving his Tigers more "hard" than Cobb ever did and the team is in a much worse moral state.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

- Collegiate boys must not chuck roundhouse curves any more. At least, Bruce Caldwell can't hit 'em. A big curve got him the first two times up for the Indians. Red Barnes with the Nats got married a few days ago. The missus was from the old home town in Alabama. They're blaming pitching weakness for the showing of the Tygers. And Lu Blue would help if Moriarty hadn't sent him away. Some of the wisers say the Reds' slump isn't a slump. Just down where they belong. Pigeas claims to be able to throw Wilkey Moore's sinker. And Wilkey can't throw much of anything this year. Most ball players have pet superstitions. Eddie Farrell makes a little cross in the sand. Critz rubs his left elbow with the right paw. Joey Sewell never uses cuss words. not even when he talks about a guy he hates. Wats Gunn is looking for a job. and his golf ability won't hurt him in grabbing a nice one. Too bad he's not a lawyer like Bobby Jones.

Brannon Is Getting Praise Now

OTIS BRANNON THE PART OF THE KRESS-BRANNON COMBINATION YOU HAVEN'T HEARD SO MUCH ABOUT...

Last spring in the southern training camp Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, was asked where he was going in the American League pennant race.

He pointed out in the direction of second base and answered—"If those two kids out there come through we're liable to be going some place."

The two youngsters around second did come through for him and Kress and Brannon came through so well that the Browns not only were one of the big surprises of the season but became one of the most promising future prospects in the league.

Because of his spectacular hitting, Kress has been given more notice than his partner at second base, but the ball players figure that Brannon is just as valuable and may develop into a bigger star than Kress.

Brannon will have the advantage in growing into a reputation while Kress is burdened with the mental hazard of foreing himself to keep up to his early fame.

ATHLETICS GAIN ON N. Y. YANKS

League Leaders Now Only Three and Half Games in Lead

By The Associated Press
The uncanny antics of a fast ball as served up by a young right-hander and a not-so-young southpaw have chopped another full game out of the once imposing American league lead of Miller Huggins' high priced New York Yankees.

Staggering and stumbling about in hostile western territory, the Yankees were humbled yesterday by the speed and courage of young Ed Walsh and the Chicago White Sox, who won, 5 to 4.

Taking full advantage of this opportunity, Coggie Mack's Athletics, with pennant fever racing through their veins, trounced Detroit 5 to 1.

The Yanks' once proud lead of 13 games has been reduced to three and a half. Pitchers dominated the other American league battle in which the Boston Red Sox trimmed the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1.

In the first game of one of those well-known "crucial" series, the St. Louis Cardinals stretched their national league lead to six and a half games by turning back their closest rivals, the New York Giants, 6 to 4 in 15 innings. Doubles by Holm and Hafey in the 15th gave the Cardinals the game.

The Athletics beat Detroit, 5 to 1, thanks to the huriling of Robert Moses Grove, and Dazzy Vance and Brooklyn turned back the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 2.
