SENATORS WIN SERIES; STARS WIN 2 SUNDAY

Portland Beavers Make Miserable Showing Against Sacs

By The Associated Press

The Senators took the series 6 to 1 from the Beavers after dividing a double header. Jack Knight, Portland twirler, won 4-2 in the opener. He had the Senators to eight hits and collected three hits himself. Four Portland moundmen were used in the nightcap. Batteries: Knight, Tomlin and Whitney; Kallio, Goid and Severid.

Second game: Bonelli, Knut, Grandall and Koehler; Fullerton, Oriman, Tomlin, Ponder and Whitney.

After taking the count in five straight games from Los Angeles, the Hollywood stars came back to win 13 to 2 and 7 to 2 Sunday. Six runs in the fifth gave the Angels the second tilt after the Angels had led for several innings. Gordon Rhodes and Hugh Jickup led home runs. Batteries: Kinney and Bassler; Cunningham, Chesley and Sandberg for first game; Rhodes and Agnew; Weatherly, Wright, Cunningham and Warren.

Missions Capture Series

Seals divided a double header with the Missions which took the series 4 to 3. The Bella led the afternoon game to the eighth when the Seals chased over three runs and the eventual tenth proved the Bella's downfall for Gus-a-Subr, Seal first baseman, got a circuit clout with the bases full. The morning game was close, the Seals scoring in the sixth. The game ended 4-4 for the Missions. Batteries: Krause and Brenzler; Thurston and Vargas; second game: Jacobs and Sprinz; Holling, Pillett and Baldwin.

The Indians divided the Sunday entertainment with the Aorons. The morning game was close and not decided until Seattle ran over the winning tally in the last inning for a 5 to 4 score. The Oaks piled up five runs in the eighth inning of the afternoon slugfest, 11 to 2. Batteries: Graham and Borraani; Shee and Lombardi; second game: Boehler and Read; Edwards, Cole, Teacout and Cox.

Spectators Step In Where Angels Fear to Tread

HEY-DO YA WANTA GET KILLED?!

By AL DEMAREE

Former Pitcher New York Giants

One of the most amazing things about golf tournaments is the unlimited confidence that the spectators in the galleries repose in the player's ability to drive his ball exactly where he wants it to go. Lanes hardly wide enough for an automobile to go are deemed quite adequate for a full drive. Many serious accidents would occur if the players were rash enough to attempt to navigate the openings marked out for them.

Bobby Jones told me at Olympia Fields, during the recent National Open, of an incident that illustrates this boundless confidence of gallery followers.

"Jesse Guilford was driving from the sixteenth tee at St. Andrews," said Bobby, "and was pressed closely by the crowd back of the tee. Testing the distance of his back swing, Jesse swung his club back slowly, stopping it an inch below the nose of a spectator. Without moving otherwise, the owner of the nose withdrew it sufficiently to allow Jesse's club to pass and stood waiting for Guilford to drive."

Newspaper photographers have a charmed life. I have seen them take chances with themselves and their cameras in trying for good action pictures that you couldn't have hired a ball player to take. The players knew the danger they and their machines were in from line drives, but I never knew one of them to be seriously hurt.

New York Gains Half Game on Philadelphia Athletics

By Herbert W. Barker (A. P. Sports Writer)

A shadow, dark and menacing, hangs over the St. Louis Cardinals and their hopes of another National League pennant.

The shadow is cast by the bulky figure of John J. McGraw and his New York Giants, almost yearly factors in any pennant chase. The Giants now are playing the kind of baseball that wins pennants.

If they can keep up their present gait on their swing through the west they should return for their final home stand either leading the league or close enough to the top to make them the most dangerous of contenders.

Cubs Beat Athletics.

Without swinging a bat, the Giants shaved another half game off the Cardinals' slim lead yesterday, or rather the Chicago Cubs performed that service for the clan McGraw.

The Cubs pounded Flint Rhem for three runs in the first innings of their game with St. Louis and eventually emerged with a 4 to 2 decision over the league leaders who now have lost five of their last eight games.

The Cincinnati Reds clouted three pitchers for 15 hits and romped off with an easy 6 to 3 victory over the Phillies.

Safe --- By a Split Second

Yes, it was lucky for Thompson, of the Phillies, that the throw to Drossen, Cincinnati third baseman, was a little wild. This unusual action shot during a game at Philadelphia the other day shows Drossen, the ball already in his mitt, on his way down from a high leap for the throw. But the Phillies' second-sacker, in a cloud of dust, has just arrived safely.

Johnny Cooney and Brooklyn defeated Boston, 3 to 1.

Taking advantage of the fact the Philadelphia Athletics were washed out at Washington, the New York Yankees added half a game to their American league lead by trimming the Boston Red Sox for the fourth time, 8 to 0. Herb Pennock granted only three hits.

Cleveland Wins.

Three runs in the ninth gave Cleveland a 3 to 2 decision over the Detroit Tigers.

Alvin Crowder granted the Chicago White Sox only four hits and the St. Louis Browns won by the shutout route, 7 to 0.

STORM WRECKS THREE PLANES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—The navy department was advised today that three navy airplanes, one each from the battleships Utah, Arkansas and Florida, anchored in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, were wrecked by a hurricane Saturday. The planes were being used in connection with the annual cruise of the Annapolis midshipmen and were staked at Hicnal Beach.

PASTOR WILL NOT MEET AL

Sunday in which the governor was called the "deadliest foe of moral progress in the country."

Dr. Straton's refusal to meet the governor in debate in the pulpit from which he made his charges was made in a statement read to the congregation in Calvary last night by his son, the Rev. Hillyer Straton, of Philadelphia, who conducted the evening service in the absence of his father who is at his summer home in Greenwood Lane, N. Y.

"I stand ready to meet the governor at any time, except the Lord's day, and in any suitable place," Dr. Straton wrote, "and I sincerely hope that he may be led to take my acceptance of his challenge at its face value."

Dr. Straton said that his previous statement that he would meet Governor Smith "face to face" in Calvary church if the governor would also debate him on the same question in St. Patrick's Cathedral was in the nature of a joke, and for the sake of a bit of humor to relieve the rather tense situation.

HOOVER WILL EXPLAIN IDEAS

farm relief, foreign affairs and the development of natural resources.

While the candidate himself has not disclosed the line he will take in amplifying his declaration on the wet and dry question, some of his confidential advisors have stated that he will make clear his position and that the searching investigation he proposed in his speech will extend to the subject of the Volstead act itself as well as the abuses which have surrounded its enforcement.

These same advisors state specifically that Mr. Hoover has by no means closed the door on the modification of the first enforcement act passed under the eighteenth amendment if all of the facts obtained by the investigating commission point to this as a constructive method of carrying forward what he has characterized as "a great social and economic experiment."

In this connection, however, they emphasize what the standard bearer himself said in his acceptance speech; that modification to permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification, which American people will not countenance.

Hoover's views as to farm relief are to be amplified in the address he will make at his birthplace at West Branch, Ia., on the evening of August 21.

In his next speech, that is to be delivered at a home-coming celebration in Los Angeles next Friday afternoon, he will touch again upon development of water resources and probably will speak briefly regarding the Boulder Canyon Dam project, which he has endorsed and which is of vital importance to all the people in the southern portion of his home state. In order to complete this address and the one he will make at West Branch, Ia., the nominee has abandoned the idea of making a motor trip to the California Sierras before leaving here next Thursday night for Washington. He may be able to get in one day of fishing, but most of his time will be spent at work in his study.

NARROW ESCAPE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 13. (AP)—Warned of a fire in their two-story garage building, Frank Ballagie, his wife and small child, narrowly escaped from the flames early today. The fire destroyed the building at East 52nd street and King road, east of Milwaukee. The fire department was handicapped by lack of water supply.
