SHORT RIGHTS SPELL DEFEAT FOR EMANUEL

Mickey Walker Wins by Knock-Out Route in Seventh Round

By Russell J. Newland
(A. P. Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (AP)—The middleweight champion went hunting for bargains in the light-heavyweight division and got what he wanted because that tremendous thud and thump heard last night in Recreation Park was Armand Emanuel hitting the canvas for the full count.

With the same spectacular attack that helped him win and hold the welterweight and middleweight titles in turn, Mickey Walker punched Emanuel out of the 175 pound class, temporarily at least. He dropped the San Francisco boy for the first time of Emanuel's career. In the seventh round of their ten round battle.

Two short right handers did the trick. The first time it landed, Armand reclined on the canvas for nine seconds. He got up groggy, and during a hard exchange in which he tried to remain ground, bumped into another right to the jaw that put him out for the full count.

Handlers had to help him to his corner and he was dazed some after reaching his dressing room.

First Knockout

It was the first knockout ever chalked up against the 22-year-old lawyer-boxer and his second defeat in more than thirty fights. A few months ago he gave Tommy Loughran a great battle, losing a close decision. The first four rounds were tabulated in favor of the middleweight champion, who ripped over enough lefts to the body to offset Emanuel's two-for-one blows to the face. On the short end of the battle Armand rallied in the next two rounds. He carried the attack to Walker and piled up sufficient points to gain a margin in the sessions.

The seventh opened faster than any of the previous rounds with Emanuel out in front when Walker's right sailed over. It clipped the San Franciscan flush on the chin, but he staggered to his feet at the count of nine. Instead of sparring for a time or going into a clinch, he rushed his lighter opponent and for a few seconds had the better of the milling. Walker waited for an opening and as Armand bored in, drove over a right that sprawled his rival in the middle of the ring. Emanuel's head bounced up and the count of ten was only a formality by Referee Bobby Johnson.

20,000 See Fight.
Approximately 20,000 persons paid around $50,000 to see the bout.

Foggy and cool weather held down the attendance.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, announced that he was negotiating for a title match with Loughran. He said it would be held either in Chicago or Los Angeles.

TRAVEL INCREASES
LIVINGSTON, Mont., Aug. 28. (AP)—Tourist travel to Yellowstone National park has passed the 200,000 mark this season, figures compiled by the park authorities show. The total to date is 208,050, or 25,000 ahead of last year at this time.

THEY'RE EVEN GOING TO PUT GENE IN THE SOCIAL REGISTER, PROBABLY!

Gene Tunney's name is likely to appear in at least one edition of the Social Register, as an appendage to that of his wife, whereas the Register not only frowned on including the name of Irving Berlin but even dropped that of Elin Mackay, following their elopement.

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A mysterious, all-powerful "committee" will meet in New York some time within the next few months and determine whether the name James Joseph Tunney—or perhaps just plain Gene Tunney—is to go into the Social Register.

If it does, the main art of pugilism will have moved up in ten short years to a pinnacle of social recognition that the originator of the punch-swapping diversion probably never even dreamed of, much less hoped for.

On His Own? Hardly

It's hardly likely that Gene, following his wedding to Mary Josephine Rowland Lauder, will crash the Register's ultra-select columns "on his own." It's much more probable his name will tag along in brackets after that of his wife—indicating that so far as social standing is concerned, as the Register sees it, Mrs. Tunney will be the real goods and Gene an accident of marriage.

But even that will be something for both society and the prize-fighting profession to think about. It's not at all a rule of the Social Register Association that every time a lady registrite marries, the name of her spouse is given space in the haughty volumes.

Irving Berlin's Case

There was the case of Irving Berlin, for instance. Social eminence higher than that enjoyed by the Clarence Mackay family is not to be had. But when Elin Mackay eloped with the song writer, did Berlin get a line of Social Register type? He did not! On the contrary, Elin Mackay's name was eliminated.

The Social Register Association issues no statements to the newspapers, no official or unofficial communiques as to its plans for including new names in or excluding old names from the Register. But Tunney is well-sponsored in his matrimonial invasion of society, and that disposition of his case will be in any way akin to the disposition of Irving Berlin's is very improbable.

One Big Difference

Clarence Mackay was bitterly angered by his daughter's marriage. Mary Lauder's family seems well-pleased with Gene.

If Tunney is led into the Register by his wife, his name will appear in but one edition, thus: "Lauder Miss Mary J. R. . . . Married at Greenwich Conn Tunney Mr James J." Thereafter Mrs. Tunney's name would be unaccompanied by that of her husband.

If the Register goes to the length of listing Tunney for his own self-gained worth, which is improbable, the entry will be a bold "Tunney Mr&Mrs James J (Mary J R Lauder)." Miss Anne Morgan was responsible for society's first warning up to pugilism and pugilists. This was when she promoted a light-weight championship fight between Benny Leonard and Ritchie Mitchell as a wartime Liberty Loan benefit.

Since then, the social elite have turned out to one big boxing match after another—notably the recent Tunney-Heeney matter.

Abroad, this social trend has been even more distinct. This year, for instance, a bout between Viscount Knebworth, son of the Earl of Lytton, and Constable Bone of the London police, was a society attraction of the first water.

TENNIS BOARD SCORCHED FOR TILDEN TRIAL

BOSTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Samuel Merwin, author, today issued a statement criticizing the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association for barring William T. Tilden, 2nd, for violating the player-writer rule. Merwin is a friend of Tilden's and a close follower of tennis. His statement follows: "It seems to me high time for somebody to speak up with a little plain sense on this Tilden business. 'The spectacle of an over-soldemized body of tennis officials in conclave, charging, fulminating, spreading personal calumny like nothing on earth but a school of cuttle fish emitting sepia, is disturbing to honest sportemen and distressing to the sense of humor.'"

CARDINALS AND YANKS HOLD ON TO 1ST PLACE

Cards Have Won Four Straight Games; Yanks Take Double Bill

By Herbert W. Barker
(A. P. Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees at last can take time out for a breath without endangering their hold on the leadership positions in the two major leagues.

Boostered by the return of "Sunny Jim" Houston, who totes a mighty powerful bat to the plate, the Cards have won four straight games, their last triumph coming at the expense of the contending Chicago Cubs yesterday, 11 to 3.

The Cards now lead the National procession by four games but that advantage may dwindle considerably or disappear entirely during the next 18 days when St. Louis' position comes not only from the Cubs but from the other two western contenders as well—the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds.

While the Cards thus were consolidating their position at the top of the senior circuit, the Yankees were doing exactly the same thing in the American. A double-barrelled triumph over the Detroit Tigers sent the world's champions four full games ahead of the Athletics who were forced to sit idle at Philadelphia and watch the raindrops patter down.

In the only other National League battle, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Cincinnati Reds in easy fashion, 9 to 4, paired an even break in the two-day series and advanced to within one game of the Reds who hold fourth place in the standings.

The Corsairs beat the Reds by bunching their ten hits in effective fashion. Fred Fussell, young southpaw, gave Cincinnati 11 hits but was practically unhittable in the pinches.

The double triumph of the Yankees was featured by the first appearance of the veteran left-hander, Tom Zachary, in a Yankee uniform. Pitted against him in the opener was Earl Whitehill, another southpaw. With better control Whitehill might have bested Zachary but four walks in the fourth inning gave the champions two runs and put them in a position to win, 4 to 3.

George Pipgras showed a return to form when he pitched the Yanks to a 5 to 2 victory in the night cap.

At Boston, the St. Louis Browns beat the Red Sox twice, 8 to 6, and 4 to 0.

George Uble's effective pitching gave the Cleveland Indians a triumph over Washington, 5 to 3, and an even break in the four game series.

Babe Couldn't Kid Lad About Marksmanship

By Al Demaree
(Former Pitcher N. Y. Giants)

Babe Ruth was telling me a short time ago in the clubhouse an amusing incident that occurred while he was on a hunting trip last year.

Babe, who is always a great favorite with the youngsters as he is really a big kid himself, was kidding one of the boys on the trip about his marksmanship.

"Tell you what I'll do," said Babe to the young hero-worshiper. "I'll bet you two bits I can hit your hat if you throw it up in the air and that you can't hit my hat when I throw it up." The youngster agreed and Ruth took careful aim and intentionally missed the cap.

"Now it's my turn!" said the youngster and he took careful aim and blew the Babe's $18.00 hat to smithereens.

You never can tell what a boy will do. They are seldom hypocrites and usually say what they think.

Fred Snodgrass, who made the $100,000 maff in the Giant-Red Sox world series of 1912, found this out.

Snodgrass was invited to be present at a Y. M. C. A. gathering one night shortly after his famous faux pas and was called on for a speech.

"I can't make a speech," said Fred, "but I'll try to answer any questions about baseball that the boys will ask me."

"How did you happen to drop that fly ball in the world series?" piped up one kid in the audience, and Snodgrass almost fell off the platform and left the party flat.

DWIGHT DAVIS WILL CAMPAIGN FOR H. HOOVER

SEATTLE, Aug. 28. (AP)—Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis announced here last night that he will take the stump for Herbert Hoover through the middle west.

"It will be a hard fight, but I am sure we will win," he said. "The campaign will be decided on Hoover's qualifications and his strong appeal to the women voters."

JONES IN GOOD FORM FOR TEST

Sets New Course Record on Chicago Golf Club Course

By Dixon Stewart
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO GOLF CLUB, Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 28. (UP)—Not satisfied with the new course record which he set in the previous day's practice round, Bobby Jones, captain of America's Walker cup team, walked out on the Chicago Golf Club links today and hung up a lower one.

The young Atlanta lawyer came in from his first 18 holes with a card of 67—one stroke lower than his Sunday record—and then, to assure himself that he could stick to the pace, he did another 18 in 68.

Jones' brilliant playing demonstrated almost conclusively the edge which the United States team will have over the British amateurs in the matches Thursday and Friday. No member of either team has approached the game which the Atlanta has been shooting in the past 1 days, with the possible exception of T. Phillip Perkins, British amateur champion, who went around with Jones today and scored a 69.

A girl was severely shocked while using an electric vacuum cleaner in Philadelphia the other day. Most of 'em nowadays are severely shocked just by mention of it.

Men's Singles Match Won by H. Robertson

Harold Robertson won the men's singles division of the first city tennis tournament last week when he defeated Leo Carter 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 in the finals play.

Interest in the various matches leading to the finals was maintained, and many spectators crowded the sidelines at the courts in Mills Addition, where the tournament was held. With the tournament this summer, many old players here are realizing the fruits of their constant efforts in the past few years to obtain suitable courts in Klamath for those who wish to play. Now a court has been completed on Alameda Drive and others are to be built in the future, thus assuring ample courts for all.

In the semi-finals Carter gained the right to compete for the trophy by defeating Jim Floyd in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, and Robertson eliminated Doug Halentine of Modoc Point, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. A beautiful loving cup, symbolic of victory was donated as the prize by J. A. Lawson of the Klamath Sporting Goods Store.

The men's doubles will start play-offs next week and the tournament is open to all players. Those desiring to compete should get in touch with C. Richmond at 357 East Main or leave their names at the Klamath Sporting Goods Store. An entry fee of one dollar a team will be charged to defray the expenses of the tournament.
