MISTAKE GIVES GEORGIA TECH GRID VICTORY

Captain-Elect Riegels Runs Toward Wrong Goal in Classic

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2. (A P)—One monumental mistake by Captain Riegels of the California Golden Bears cost the University of California the mythical championship of the United States and brought back the east's prestige in the gridiron world. The final score was 8 to 7 in favor of Georgia Tech.

To make a long story short, Riegels ran 66 yards but in the wrong direction. He was stopped on his own one foot line by Benny Lom. A few minutes later, Lom's punt was blocked and California recovered behind the line for a touchdown, scoring two points for Georgia.

It happened in the second period, Riegels, snatching up a fumble of "Stumpy" Thomason, Tech halfback, started for the Tech goal. After he had taken about 15 steps he suddenly reversed, and headed for his own goal line. He was stopped on the one foot line by a teammate, Benny Lom, who had chased him the entire distance. Before Riegels could retreat his steps a half dozen Tech players were upon him, and he was smothered to the ground.

Riegels, once he understood what had happened, was simply too crest-fallen for words. He dropped to the ground, took off his head-gear and gave vent to expressions of dismay and consternation. Riegels was taken out of the game a few moments later. The consensus of opinion was that Riegels who was opposing Pasadena, the Georgia Tech all-American center and who had taken a ferocious beating on the Tech line plays was simply befuddled momentarily, and was more or less groggy when he picked up the ball.

At the end of the half Riegels was again started at center and soon after he displayed his calibre by blocking a Georgia Tech punt and recovering for California.

The California team simply took the play as a matter of course. Standing with his back almost even with the goal posts, Lom attempted to punt out of danger. It was the only thing to do, but it proved the Bear's undoing, for as the sterling halfback swung his mighty right foot, Vance Craese, Tech's outstanding tackle, marched through the wanted Bear line to block the punt. Stanley Barr, California halfback, fell on the oval after a made scramble, and Tech had two points.

Demoralized by the unusual "break," the Bears fell victim to a yellow jacket score in the following quarter.

The Stalwarts of California suffered to hold in check on their own one yard line a Tech drive, but the tornado returned with even greater fury a few plays later to swoop across the Westerners' goal line. Brilliant Warner Mizell, halfback ace, galloped 30 yards to plant the pigskin on California's 15 yard line, and "Stumpy" Thomason, his squat running mate, packed it across on the next play.

A touchdown in the final minutes of the game was sweet fruit to California's gridirers who faced a shuntout defeat, although they had outgained their foes about three yards to one, and out-tangled them virtually throughout. Lom, who had been the backbone of the California offensive, passed with uncanny accuracy and terrific force in this last hope drive of the Bears that carried 80 yards. Two passes to Captain Irvine Phillips, on one of which the star end scored, and one to Lee Eisan, slippery quarterback, accounted for most of the gain. Barr's lofty kick for the extra point was successful. Tech had a fast charging, hard hitting forward line—one of the most consistent forward walls that ever has performed in a Rose Bowl classic. It was an aggregation of veritable ball hawks, taking advantage of every break that came their way, and fighting to the last.

"Hub" Puzzled the Pitchers When Batting

BY AL DEWITT. Former Pitcher New York Giants President Heydler's suggestion that a substitute or "companionate" hitter, bat in place of the pitcher pitch the game, would have been a bitter pill to the pitchers if the rule had ever gone through.

If there is one thing a weak hitting pitcher loves to do, it is to walk up to the plate and take his swings. There is an old saying in baseball that "whenever you swing you are dangerous," and every pitcher imagines while he is pounding the air out of the park with his futile swings that he may connect for a three base hit or home run.

"Hub" Purdie, the old Boston pitcher, was one of this type. George Stallings once told "Hub" to go up to the plate and "cross up" the opposing hurler. Purdie took one strike hitting right-handed, switched over to the other side of the plate and had a strike called on him left-handed and took the third straight strike hitting right-handed again.

As he came back to the bench he casually remarked to Stallings, who by this time was frothing at the mouth, "Well, George, I sure crossed him up, he couldn't tell which way I was goin' to strike out!"

Kitzmiller Romps 15 Yards Through Tackle For Score

HONOLULU, Jan. 2. (AP)—A crowd of 10,000 spectators saw University of Oregon football eleven win a hard fought battle here New Year's day from the University of Hawaii by the close margin of six to nothing. Bright sunshine prevailed.

Numerous fumbles marred the contest, but the breaks were evenly divided. Oregon's score came as the result of a fumble in the second period when Archer, Oregon end, picked up Whittier's fumble and raced to the 15-yard line before being halted. On the next play Kitzmiller went over through tackle. The try for point failed when Gould fumbled the pass from center.

The third period was scoreless and at the opening of the fourth Hawaii sent in a complete new line. Oregon's offensive however, continued effective and the Webfooters worked the ball to Hawaii's 20-yard line, losing it when Rusty Holt intercepted a pass from Kitzmiller. Hawaii took the air in the final minutes of play in a desperate effort to score. An incomplete pass over the goal line gave Oregon the ball three plays before the game ended.

A fumble by Kitzmiller, Oregon halfback, after he had signalled for a fair catch, was recovered by the Islanders and allowed them to keep the ball in Oregon's territory for the greater part of the first period. Hawaii attempted many passes but completed few of them. Two runs for 18 and 21 yards were made by Rusty Holt, Hawaii halfback, to feature the period.

Despite the brevity of the fight there were three knockdowns in one of which Stribling was on the receiving end. Stribling blocked one of League's right handed punches and was down for the count of four, but returned to dispose of his opponent quickly with a knockdown, followed by the knockout.

Blue Howell Runs Wild In Grid Contest

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Blue Howell, Nebraska fullback, the big six conference's 1928 leading scorer who gained all-American recognition, wound up his collegiate gridiron career in brilliant style here yesterday afternoon by leading a picked team of stars to a 14-6 victory over southwest conference stars in a charity game.

Only three days after he contributed the Lion's share of touchdowns on the East's 20 to a victory over the West at San Francisco last Saturday afternoon, Howell ran wild against the best the Southwest had to offer, and recorded both of his team's touchdowns. He likewise scored two touchdowns at San Francisco.

Although he was forced to travel part of the way by air to get there on time for the New Year's day game, Howell appeared fresh and ripped the Southwest stalwart line to shreds in the first two periods, in each of which he crossed for a touchdown.

Johnny Lamar Loses by Kayo To Fast Negro

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 2. (A P)—Johnny Lamar, Hollywood, was no match for Wildcat Carter, Everett, Wash., in the main event on yesterday afternoon's card. Referee Grubman awarded the match to Carter during the intermission between the fourth and fifth rounds when Lamar apparently was unable to continue, after absorbing much punishment from the flashy negro fighter.

The semi-windup between Al Kouze and Sam Warren furnished the real show of the card. Kouze was awarded a close decision after both boys had given all they had. They are light heavyweights. Willard Norton, Eugene, took a good four-round decision over Ted Rogoway, Portland. Olympia Kid Johnson took an easy decision over Joe Blackwell, Eugene, in another four-rounder. Johnny Topaz defeated Johnny Snell in the curtain raiser.

ALL SHOULD HAVE PLENTY OF MILK

Bones and Teeth of Children and Adults Need Milk in the Diet

Two famous nutrition authorities emphasize the need of the human body for the calcium and phosphorus found in milk. Children and expectant or nursing mothers should have from three-quarters to one quart of milk a day, according to these authorities, and other adults should have from three-quarters of a pint to a pint of milk a day. These authorities point out that too little calcium in the diet retards bone growth, causes rickets, may result in bone deformities, produces poor quality of teeth and lowers vigor and vitality. Whole milk also is rich in phosphorus.

Unfortunately there are many people who do not like the taste of milk. For all such people, a delicious milk drink should be made. One mother makes her children eager for milk by giving it to them in milk-shaker. "They call one drink a chocolate froth," she says. "I take a level teaspoon of cocoa and 1 1/2 teaspoons of sugar, mix in the bottom of a glass with a few drops of milk until it's smooth, add a drop or two of vanilla flavoring, fill the glass with milk and shake it with an ordinary tin shaker. The youngsters are crazy about it," she goes on to say. "They like it sometimes without the chocolate, just the vanilla and sugar."

SANGOR NOSES OUT CHAMPION IN HARD FIGHT

Title Not at Stake, However, in Junior Lightweight Fight

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2. (AP)—Little Joey Sangor today held decisions over two titleholders and yet remained himself no champion.

Knocked out two weeks ago in a "warming up" fight with Armando Santiago, Joey yesterday punched and boxed his way to a clearest newspapermen's decision over Ted Miram of Seattle, junior-lightweight champion, in a fight that went ten rounds. Wisconsin law, prohibiting decision fights, was all that saved Morgan's title.

Up to the fourth Morgan was going well enough to win, had he maintained the form throughout. A low punch in that round dropped Morgan to his knees. He refused to claim the fight on a foul, and after a short rest was able to continue. He went to his corner unassisted.

The blow seemed to affect Morgan, for from that point on his boxing and punches lacked the fire he had shown before.
