

NEWS IN BRIEF

D. A. R. Manuals Distributed

Mrs. Fred Glover, chairman of the distribution of the manuals for the Daughters of the American Revolution has been requested by the state chairman to place a manual in every business man's hands. It is the plan of Mrs. Glover to place the manual in hotels, court house, schools, public libraries and all public houses. It is the hope of the Daughters of the American Revolution that each house will receive these favorably and study them. In March questionnaires will be sent out to be answered to test the best citizens of the city and county. Few people are able to pass the test given newly naturalized citizens and it is the plan of the D. A. R. chapter to further this study among all citizens to help make better educated voters and citizens. The quota of manuals for Klamath county is one thousand. Anyone wishing a manual that is overlooked, may ask any member of the Daughters of the American Revolution or may call at the Glover Jewelry Store, 211 Main street.
