BECAUSE A FENCE GOT IN THE WAY

This plane didn't quite clear a barbed wire fence on taking off, and here's what happened. The two British aviators in it escaped with minor bruises by jumping into the river, but the plane, which included engine, was wrecked. The fliers had set out from Whitechurch, England, to spend the holidays at North Derga and when they almost hit a church spire in a heavy fog, they landed. It was when hopping off a second time that the accident pictured above befell them.
