

OPPOSITION TO TAX MEASURES FAILS TO SHOW

Three Commission Bills Win Strong Support in House Yesterday

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 12. (AP)—Expected opposition to three of the property tax relief commission bills failed to materialize when the bills came up for third reading Tuesday afternoon. House members approved H. B. 199 which creates a three-man paid tax commission to replace the present commission of governor and secretary of state, serving as ex-officio members, and the one commissioner; they voted unanimously for H. B. 198 which gives the state tax commission general supervision of administration of assessment and tax laws for the state and power to equalize assessments between and within counties; they offered no opposition to H. B. 239, the assessor's bill which provides for additional compensation for clerical assistants and special assessors when so ordered by the tax commission.

Carl K. member of the house from Jackson county, and one of the members of the interim tax relief commission which drafted the bills, claimed that these bills contain the best features of property relief measures now in effect in other states.

The three paid tax commissioners as provided for in H. B. 199, will be appointed, according to this bill, by the state board of control. The board will also designate the chairman of the tax commission.

URGE CHANGES IN COLLEGES

some of its features and refusal to join in others from Senator H. J. Elliot and Representative H. W. Johnson, was filed with the clerk of the ways and means committee this morning. It is expected to figure prominently in the public hearing upon college and university appropriation bills before the committee tonight.

Expressing the belief "that the institutions of learning in the state should not be in competition with one another either in curricula or for students," the report of the majority asserts it is their belief "that there should be a plan adopted by the proper authorities eliminating any competition in these respects and eliminating duplication of courses except in minor essentials. Examination, by your committee, of the catalogues and reports of the institutions shows that there is a considerable duplication which could and should be eliminated at a considerable saving to the state."

Who wants a white collar job, anyway?

Ability counts

IT'S a joy to meet a craftsman who'd rather be a first-rate workman in overalls than a tenth-rate man in a white collar job.

If you were to ask him his rules for success, he'd probably tell you with a twinkle in his eye, "Same as for any other job, I guess. Hard work. Steady plugging. And good health. I've never missed a day's work from illness. I made sure of that years ago. Whatever your line of work, take a tip from my experience. Keep fit with Nujol."

Nujol is not a medicine. It is a pure natural substance (perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Avenue, New York). It not only prevents an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them), but aids in their removal. It's these poisons that sap your strength and energy, kill ambition, make you old before your time.

Start Nujol today. It can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. Contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. Worth a try, isn't it? You'll find Nujol at all drug stores in sealed packages. Get a bottle today.

Weary Aimee Will Return To L. A. Soon

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 12. (UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, wearied by the strain of her campaign here and apparently upset over the reported confession of Ben Getzoff, last night announced she will be unable to give revival services in Portland on Tuesday.

From Vancouver she plans to return to Los Angeles by way of Salt Lake City, stopping there for a few days to finish up some routine business. She plans no more revival meetings after she ends her Vancouver campaign Sunday, until she has returned to Angelus Temple.

The strain of the Vancouver campaign has been very heavy, Aimee said. She has still $14000 to be raised to meet expenses but believes she can meet this before the campaign closes.

Rev. Willard H. Pope of the Portland Four Square church arrived here today to confer with Aimee, his chief pastor. Only routine business was being discussed, he said.

Tonight the evangelist would up a day's work, which included three "red hot" illustrated sermons.

TWO OFFICERS ARE DISARMED

Policemen Wounded by Bandits in Telegraph Office Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 12. (AP)—Two bandits held up a branch office of the Western Union Telegraph company in the Mission district Monday night, shot two police officers who were waiting in the place on an advance tip, took the officers' weapons from them and escaped. The policemen were only slightly wounded. The policeman, George Brown and Mike Conroy were in the rear of the office when the bandits entered and commanded Miss Margaret McNitt, the clerk, to turn over the cash. Aroused by a noise from the rear, the intruders dashed back and shot Brown in the hand and Conroy in the leg. Then taking the weapons of the injured policemen they ran to the curb without waiting to take the cash, and escaped in an automobile driven by a woman.

either by way of Portland and the Columbia river, through Pocatello to Granger, or south to Sacramento, then east to Granger.

"The route via Portland and Pocatello is 240 miles and to Granger 450 miles longer to Granger than a cross state road would be, which this organization is working for from this district through a point near Klamath Falls up to Ontario."

"To this end we intervened in the hearing before the interstate commerce commission. This hearing was started by the public service commission of Oregon and is a request for an order to build a road from Crane, Oregon, to Odell lake district.

"In other words, an intersection of the line between Bend and Klamath Falls. This would give western Idaho a short haul into northern California and San Francisco.

"We are also interested in a road practically parallel with this from the Yellowstone park, west through southern Oregon counties to a point near Crater Lake connecting with the Dalles-California highway.

Mr. Harvey spoke of the interest people of Idaho displayed in the organization and its plans and displayed an editorial from the Boise Capital News in which the editor, H. A. Lawson, told of the interest Idaho, especially western Idaho, should show.

In part the editor said: "The development of a port to Crescent City, California, in the northern part of the state is of more than passing importance to this interior section. And a direct line to it is not so visionary as it appears."

Boise and all western Idaho and eastern Oregon should interest themselves in the plans of Northern California and Southern Oregon Development association."

C. H. Denary, director of the organization of Grants Pass, told of the purposes of the organization and of the importance of all counties concerned of taking an active part in the organization and getting behind developments sought by the organization.

Thomas Peacock, chairman of the board of supervisors and vice-president of the Northern California and Southern Oregon Development association, from Crescent City told of the need of the harbor at Crescent City. The importance of the completion of the harbor would have to southern Oregon was stressed by the speaker.

Glen Ireland, president of the chamber of commerce at Crescent City delivered a splendid address on the joining of southern Oregon and northern California.

H. Saltmarsh, publicity director of the association, gave a short but to the point address on the benefits to be derived by northern California and southern Oregon through the cooperation of all counties concerned.

The richness of this southern Oregon country, the urging to leave jealousy aside, the painting of a new day for southern Oregon were told by the speaker. He urged the influence of every citizen.

Judge F. R. Goddard, an officer of the association from Klamath county, spoke briefly on the purposes of the organization. He warned northern California and valley town representatives that we in turn would expect them to help us when the time was ready, for the cooperation they are assured from this community.

Walter West, also a member of the association, presided as chairman.

The girls quartet of Klamath Union high school rendered three numbers which were well received. Mrs. Eloise McIntyre accompanied the girls at the piano.

Crescent City, Medford and Grants Pass visitors in Klamath Falls today to attend the first general meeting of the Northern California-Southern Oregon Development association included: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. H. AT THE THEATRES

AT THE PELICAN
Junior Orpheum Vaudeville and "Excess Baggage." The happy combination of vaudeville talent and picture entertainment at the Pelican the last times today offers a good diversified program, that includes music, acrobatics and games. On the screen William Haines in "Excess Baggage" gives a fine version of life backstage.

Paul opens tomorrow for three days. Charles Farrell, for the first time in his motion picture career, wears a moustache in "Fazio," the Howard Hawks production for Fox Films, which is coming to the Pelican theatre for three days commencing tomorrow. He is seen opposite Greta Nissen, who proves the one enduring love in the life of an Arabian prince. There are many exotic love scenes between the dark and romantic Farrell and the blonde, fascinating Greta. Those who have seen the picture during its New York premiere maintain that Farrell, in this picture, eclipses his magnificent work in "7th Heaven."

"Fazio" is adapted from the play, "L'Inconnu," by Pierre Frondaie.

AT THE LIBERTY
A street urchin brings the key to success to a partially blind architect whom he claims as his father in front of a soup kitchen on the East Side of New York and together they begin a great adventure in "Little Mickey Grogan." FBO's first starring picture for Frankie Darro, 18-year-old actor, which closes its local run today at the Liberty theatre. "Little Mickey Grogan" has met with much praise during its run here and sets a new standard for cinema portrayals of boy life. "Beauty and Bullets," to run this week.

The feature, "Beauty and Bullets," starring Ted Wells, which missed showing last week will show tomorrow and Friday at the Liberty.

AT THE PINE TREE
BARRY NORTON IN "ELEKTWING." The desert story, "Elektwing," starring Barry Norton (the mother's boy of "What Price Glory?") plays the last times today at the Pine Tree. We are soon to see Barry again in "The Legion of the Condemned."

Dix in Medical Comedy. Although Richard Dix rejected

Laughlin, W. A. Williams, J. R. Harvey, C. H. Denary, Isaac Best and L. R. Conklin.

The visitors were special guests of the chamber of commerce today, arriving by motor from Crescent City, Medford and Grants Pass just before noon.

PRESIDENT GIL TAKES ACTION

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12. (AP)—President Emilio Portes Gil today answered disturbances of the last three days in Mexico with announcement of economic warfare against elements antagonistic to the present government.

He blamed Catholic elements for disturbances and a seditious atmosphere in the nation, and said that property of "authors or accomplices" of future movements against the government would be confiscated and divided among peasants and workers who had remained loyal to the regime.

The announcement was in the form of a stoned statement to Mexico City newspapers. It followed closely orders from acting Secretary of the Interior Canales to all Catholic priests in the nation to send their addresses to the government within two weeks.

The president said he acted "for purposes of public security," and "in view of the subversive conduct of the high Mexican clergy." He gave warning that all those who failed to comply with the instructions would be considered accomplices to rebellious elements and civil action would be instituted against them.

LOGGING LINE TO OPEN TRACT

the survey cut off two miles. The Sawmill Engineering and Construction company of which F. Hill Hunter is president, has the contract for this difficult work which entails filling in a solid and substantial railroad grade over the marsh.

In most places, solid bottom is from seven to nine feet deep, but there are a few pot holes where it drops down to 12 and 15 feet. With such an obstacle to overcome, it has become necessary to assemble a floating diesel dredge which is now being assembled on the edge of the marsh.

Work will begin on the marsh section about March 15. If present plans mature, the project will be completed by August 1 and logs will be hauled from the 600,000,000-ft. tract owned by the Lamm Lumber company in the Yamsey mountain territory, to Modoc Point, early this fall. Although the first four and one-half miles of grading has been completed and also the grading for the interchange tracks at the junction with the Southern Pacific, steel will not be laid until the construction of the grade across the marsh is well under way.

The last unit of construction is 12 miles from the east edge of the marsh to the Lamm Lumber company unit. In a general way, it was said, this segment is fairly easy construction although there will be several 25 and 30-foot cuts. The marsh section is the only one under contract.

Steel, and ties for the logging line have already been ordered and will be delivered late this spring or early in the summer. The Lamm Lumber company acquired the 600,000,000 foot tract from the Long Bell Lumber company last year. It was one of the largest single transfers of privately owned pine timber in the United States.

The construction of the logging line across the marsh and on into the Yamsey mountain section, is regarded as one of the biggest pine logging undertakings in the history of the western pine industry.

TWO CRUSHED BENEATH SLIDE

Father and Son Killed in Avalanche of Snow and Ice in Colorado

CREEDE, Colo., Feb. 12. (AP)—Two lives are believed to have been lost in the snowslides which have deadlocked traffic in southwestern Colorado and left several mining camps winter bound.

Apparently buried under tons of snow, the bodies of James Wolfe and his 17-year-old son, James, trappers, were sought by searchers today near the wreckage of their cabin which was crumpled to ruins under the great weight of the slide.

The father and his boy left the Roy Powell ranch, near here on February 5, saying they would return within 48 hours after inspecting their traps in the Sulphur Bed district. On Monday they failed to return.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Feb. 12. (AP)—Reports received here today told of the death last Sunday of Andrew Lindell at South Beach, near Winchester Bay, who bled to death after having injured himself with an axe while chopping wood. He lived alone.

Lindell was found dead by E. A. Shircliffe, storekeeper, who investigated when Lindell failed to come for his newspaper.

BRANCH BANK BILLS ARGUED

"Banks have three duties," said Schulmerich, "first to secure its deposits; secondly to give service; and third, to offer a reasonable compensation for investment. The greatest problem facing the banks of Oregon today is the lack of knowledge for the proper investment of surplus funds. More banks have gone to the wall because they haven't known how to invest surplus funds than for any other reason. My bill offers a means of securing expert advice on investments."

Schulmerich opposed Malarky's bill for branch banking largely because "the city banker does not know rural problems" and he opposed a bill which would permit a city bank to establish rural branches.
