

ROTARY HEARS H. D. NEWELL

A very exhaustive review of the United States Reclamation service was given by Herbert Newell, superintendent of the Klamath project, Friday at Rotarian luncheon. Mr. Newell is a veteran in the reclamation ranks, and the data that he offered was the work of careful analysis and compilation. He took the service as it was when organized and traced it down to the present date giving the advancement and the acreage it handles, together with the various other cities. The work of the government department is gigantic when once it is known into how many realms it functions.

George Walton and Bert Hall, Rotarians of the social event at Ashland Thursday night when the district Rotary convened, Klamath's civic club took a decided part in the program and Hall's "show" girls offered fine amusement for Rotarians who had gathered from various cities. Mr. Hall said he was pleased to know that this city now is looked to take part in such events and that the part it takes is always of interest and well received.

LUTHER BAKER HANGED TODAY

WALLA WALLA, Washington, March 29. (AP)—Luther Baker was hanged on the gallows at the Washington State penitentiary today for the murder of Sheriff Lester Wood of Vancouver in May, 1927, during a liquor raid. The trap was sprung at 4:34 a. m. and Baker was pronounced dead by Dr. J. W. Ingram, prison physician, 11 minutes later.

The condemned man went to death calmly and was outwardly unmoved during the proceedings, as well as during the last night in the death cell with J. Morgan Lewis, prison chaplain, as a companion.

On the scaffold Baker thanked prison officials for kind treatment since he was brought to the penitentiary on January 29. His thanks were his last words.

JURY INDICTS CONGRESSMAN

hours to surrender and file bond, pending a hearing of removal proceedings. He was charged with possession and transportation of liquor without payment of revenue. The latter charge is a felony and carries with it a minimum penitentiary sentence of 2 years and a fine of $5000 in case of conviction.

CHICAGO, March 29. (AP)—Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson, of Chicago, indicated on charges of violating the national prohibition act at Jacksonville, Fla., has been backed in his political career by the anti-saloon league and he has voted for several laws favored by the league, including the Jones law.

Michaelson was first elected to represent the seventh Illinois district in 1920 with the backing of the organization headed by Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson. He had served two terms as city alderman.

completely when shown his mother's statement and with tears running down his cheeks, sobbed out a confession.

The boy claimed his father, as on many occasions, had come home intoxicated and attempted to abuse the family. He said the father started throwing dishes at his mother and attacked him with a bread board. He claimed he killed in self defense.

LOS ANGELES, March 29. (A. P.)—Police today were investigating three angles in the mysterious slaying late last night of Jack Crawford, 42, a former Los Angeles policeman and father of Donald Crawford, 26, scheduled to appear today as a witness in the Councilman Carl I. Jacobson alleged frame-up arrest case.

Crawford was shot twice, once through the head and then through the heart, while standing at a telephone in his home. His wife and two sons told police that his life had been threatened by a man named Evans who is alleged to have told Crawford that unless he "kept his kid off the stand they would see him."

Donald Crawford told police a man offered to give his father $5,000 if Donald would leave Los Angeles.

Jacobson Doubtful.
Councilman Jacobson, after visiting the scene of the crime, expressed his opinion that the killing was not connected with the Jacobson "frame-up" case, in which a woman, five policemen and a politician are on trial.

He believed that any bullets designed to stop Donald Crawford's testimony would have been directed at Donald and not at his father.

Police were working on one theory that Crawford met his death as the result of having been mixed up in a bootleg war. A third theory was that he was shot by some one in the house. According to Mrs. Crawford, she was in the next room and the two sons, Donald and Jack, Jr., were in the front yard when they heard the shots. Officers said the kitchen gave evidence of a death struggle, while blood stains were found in four rooms.

It is possible, officers said, for the shots to have been fired either from within or outside the house. Both sons said they heard three shots.

A loaded .22 calibre rifle was found in the kitchen.

FORMER LOCAL NEWSPAPERMAN PASSES AWAY

SALEM, Ore., March 29. (AP)—Paul Payton Farrington, brilliant newspaperman, was found dead in bed in his room at Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon. Death is believed to have been due to natural causes superinduced by a nervous breakdown.

Farrington was a native of Eugene. He had been employed by newspapers in Eugene, Salem, Portland, Klamath Falls, Butte, Mont., and Brooklyn, N. Y. He was 31 years old.

His ability as a stylist and feature writer brought him important assignments, particularly while he was in the employ of the Brooklyn Times. His last employment was with the Salem Capital Journal.

SCHICK TESTS ARE CONDUCTED IN 3 SCHOOLS

Schick tests were continued in Klamath rural schools today by Dr. G. S. Newson, medical director of the Klamath county health unit, who, with the aid of County Health Nurses Lydia Fricke and Hazel McClelland, treated 86 children.

Purpose of the tests is to determine whether diphtheria immunization inoculations had "taken".

Altamont, Summers and Henley schools were visited.

OIL SHIPMENT ARRIVES TODAY

With the arrival of the first shipment of road oil, state highway maintenance authorities of Klamath are preparing to start outfitting the first segment of state highways in Klamath to be treated.

Other sections that will be oiled include 1.6 miles on the Klamath Falls-Lakeview highway from the junction towards Glene; 11 miles of the Ashland-Klamath Falls highway from this city to Keno; and a section of The Dalles California highway between La Pine and the Decatur National forest boundary.

SLANDER SUIT IS UNDER WAY

"Chief" he was right and that Brown "would prove it."

Ashurst's opening statement was interrupted time and again by Myers, who complained bitterly to Judge Duncan that Ashurst was trying his case before the witnesses were brought on the stand.

"The jury can disregard Mr. Ashurst's remarks if they see fit," replied Judge Duncan.

Duffy was the first witness for the plaintiff this afternoon. He said he was a member of the Klamath tribal council and had been appointed on a committee to clean up the reservation of stray horses. He said his orders were to get rid of the horses.

Duffy testified he asked Brown to cooperate with him. It was during the prosecution of these duties, Duffy said, that he and Brown had an argument in which Brown referred to him as a "horse thief."

The jury is composed of R. H. Sewell, Byron Teed, Roscoe Largent, Mike P. Lavenik, R. T. Baldwin, Lawrence Ezell, Fred C. Murphy, Frank Savage, Fay Watters, John C. Yaden, Earl J. Templar and J. D. Grimes.

Mr. Napier and W. P. Myers represent the plaintiff; C. F. Stone and E. B. Ashurst the defendant.

J. H. MULCHAY, S. P. OFFICIAL, CITY VISITOR
J. H. Mulchay, assistant freight and traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, with headquarters in Portland, and Garnett King, assistant passenger and traffic manager, headquarters in San Francisco, are paying Klamath Falls an official visit today.

JURY DECLARES SLAYER GUILTY

him to the ground. Bryant plunged a long pointed butcher knife into Dickerson's side, puncturing a lung. He died four days later.

The verdict brought to a close one of Oregon's outstanding murder trials. Bryant, reared in Corvallis, a little Willamette valley college town, was well known as well as Dickerson. The case created considerable excitement in the town and each day of the trial found the courtroom crowded with onlookers.

After the court had announced that sentence would be passed next Monday at 10 a. m., Bryant was led back to the jail. Only after he was inside did he show any emotion. Tears came to his eyes but he quickly regained his composure. He slept soundly until late this morning.

Prosecution attorneys, who had held out during the trial for death of the defendant, today said the verdict was satisfactory. In that it established premeditation and vindicated Dickerson who had been pictured by the defense as the aggressor when Bryant sought to "protect" his former sweetheart, Miss Mae Troxel, town waitress.

Whether appeal for a new trial will be made is uncertain. While defense counsel had hoped for more leniency at the hands of the jury their closing arguments indicated that their main object was to save Bryant from the gallows.

Dickerson was stabbed by young Bryant after midnight on December 17, as the athlete was accompanying Miss Troxel to her home. He was waylaid by Bryant and his friend, William Gates, less than a block from the Troxel home where the girl lives with her mother and four brothers. Dickerson was stabbed through the side and lung, and died four days later.

It was a story of a small town love affair. Testimony brought out at the trial indicated Bryant and Miss Troxel, a pretty brown-haired waitress, had "kept company" for several months. They became engaged. Bryant went to work and letters followed from Miss Troxel.

When he returned, testimony indicated, he started drinking and more than once the pretty waitress remonstrated.

One night when Miss Dickerson to accompany her home. That night Bryant armed himself with a butcher knife and waylaid them. He contended the knife was to be used at a picnic, but Miss Troxel said the knife, according to Bryant, was to be used to "kill somebody's back."

Bryant accepted the verdict stoically. His mother collapsed. Sentence will be passed at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

GRADE SCHOOL POSTERS MADE BY CHILDREN

Grade schools of the country are again making health posters in observance of child health week, which occurs the first week in May. This year the posters made by children throughout the country will be judged separately from those made by students in the city schools.

An exhibit will be placed in the Loomis building on May 4. Members of the educational committee of the Klamath County Health Association, Mrs. D. N. Clemens, Mrs. Bert Hawkins, Mrs. C. L. Harvey, Miss Hazel McClelland, Miss Lydia Fricke and Miss Helen Canfield are working together for the success of the annual event.

ROGUE VALLEY SALMON RUN ON

Salmon are running in the Rogue river, according to reports received here at the chamber of commerce.

Because of the murky condition of the water, fishing has been poor the past few days. With clear weather for a few days, fishing should be good. Hundreds of California sportsmen are reported ready to visit the Rogue River valley for the salmon run.
