The cause of overweight

Not due to any one food alone

THERE has been so much discussion in this country about the cause of being overweight that we decided to go to one of the leading scientific authorities on diet. We requested him to state the facts for the benefit of the public.

"It is the fashion to blame sweets for everything," he said. "Overweight is not due to sweets alone."

"If the dietary habits of overweight individuals are scrutinized," he went on to say, "it will be found that sugar is the foodstuff gorged by some, starches by others, fats and oils by others, and meats by others."

"Strictly speaking," he said, "the average increase in overweight cannot be attributed to increase in intake of sugar or any other single foodstuff."

Note that he speaks of gorging. How intelligent it would be if everyone in the United States would refrain from gorging any one kind of food, and ate in moderation a great variety of all kinds of healthful foods.

It is clearly up to the women in the home to see that all adults and all children are furnished a variety of appetizing foods and to remember that sugar is the mainstay for making healthful foods delicious and appetizing.

One excellent way to prevent gorging is to feed your family a varied and well-balanced diet. Sugar develops the inappetible flavors of cereals, vegetables, fruits and many meats. It makes vegetables taste fresher and improves their color. Nothing can take the place of intelligent cookery. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.
