MRS. BABE BEWILDERED AS HUSBAND LAMS OUT LONG FOUR-PLY SWAT

By Frank Getty
(United Press Sports Editor)
(At the opening game with Mrs. G. H. Ruth, a blushing bride.)

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., April 19.—Mrs. Ruth, carrying a bridal bouquet and a paper bag containing weenies for the Babe's supper, enters a box back of the Yankee dug-out during the Red Sox turn at bat in the first inning, and gazes anxiously out towards right field with one of those wifely "I-wonder-if-he-shouldn't-be-wearing-his-rubbers-in-that-wet-grass" sort of looks.

Mrs. Ruth: "My, don't they make George stay a long ways off?"

Col. Rupert (blankly): George? Oh, yes, heh-heh, well, you see, Mrs. Ruth, your husband is a very expensive player and we keep him away out where he won't get hurt.

Mrs. Ruth: "Now, I think that's real nice of you. But I do hope it's not too damp out there. You know George always has been troubled."

(Reeves rolls an easy one down to Gehrig who tosses to Pipgras at first for the third out, and the Yankees come in off the field).

Mrs. Ruth "Ooh-hoo! Oh, George!"

(George Pipgras doffs his cap and grins fatuously at a blonde three rows to the rear).

Mrs. Ruth: "Why, George went right into that cabin place without even coming to kiss me hello!"

(Earl Combs goes up to bat and strikes out. Mark Koenig takes his turn, with the Babe squatting on three big bats nearby).

Mrs. Ruth (faintly in the storm of rooting): "Now, George, you'd better not sit there on that damp ground. You know how you——"

(Koenig lifts a long fly to Flagstead and the Babe goes up to bat).

The crowd: "Yea, Babe. Hit it over the fence!"

Two blondes in the next box: "Ooh, Babe is up. Isn't he darling. Look, he's waving his hand right over here at us. Yoo-Hoo! Oh, Babe!"

(Mrs. Ruth favors them with one of those "hands off, you hussy" looks which she learned under F. Ziegfeld and just then the Babe slaps one into the far-away left stands for a homer).

Pandemonium. Wow!

Mrs. Ruth (turning around just in time to miss it): "What on earth are they yelling about?"

Col. Ruppert: Wow!

The Blondes: Whee!

The fans: Whoopee!

Mrs. Ruth (appraised of the situation): "There now, I think that's just too mean. George might have waited until I was watching. He told me he was going to do something about home, but I didn't think it would be over so soon."

The Babe, lumbering over to the bench, doffing his cap to the thunderous applause, leans over the rail of the box and grins at the little woman.

Babe: "Honey, how'd ya like it?"

Mrs. Ruth: "Why, George, it was lovely I guess. And now I've got to start home and put those frankfurters on the stove. So do try not to be late, dear. Ask Col. Ruppert to let you off a little early so I won't have to keep dinner waiting, and we can get to the pitchers on time."

Good Health and a Happy Home Life.

Healthy people usually get along well together and enjoy a happy home life. Tired, ailing, nervous people are not so fortunate. Mrs. Black of Virginia says: "Life is worth living again, and I no longer feel blue and discouraged since Foley Pills diuretic drove away those dreadful pains and made me a well woman." When oppressed with backache and rheumatic stiffness, worn out with kidney and bladder weakness, take Foley Pills diuretic. Satisfaction guaranteed. Underwood's Pharmacy.

Miss Morgan Through With Whoopee Club

NEW YORK, April 19, (AP)—Helen Morgan, actress and entertainer, acquitted by a federal jury of maintaining a common nuisance by the sale of liquor in a night club is through with night clubs forever.

After hearing the verdict which ended her trial last night she said:

"I don't want ever to think of it again. I have been through such a terrible day that I want to forget all about it. I am through with night clubs forever."

She was pale and trembling when the jury came in at 9:30 after having been out four hours and fifty-five minutes. When she heard the verdict she seemed about to faint. She partly regained her composure but began to weep softly and finally broke down and cried without restraint.

Her acquittal was the second defeat suffered by the government in two weeks in cases against Broadway night club hostesses. Last week Texas Guinan was found not guilty of maintaining a nuisance at the Salon Royale. In each case a special prosecutor came from Washington.

Among the treasures of York Minster is an Anglo-Saxon copy of the Gospels; this is the oldest relic in the cathedral.
