Murder Trial Record

WITHOUT comment, the Evening Herald submits to its readers a summary of Klamath murder trials during the years 1928 and 1929, to date. This summary does not include the murder of Johnny Ansil on the last day of 1927.

Orville Davis, Indian, was convicted in federal court of first degree murder, for the murder of Lawrence Walker, Indian, near Beatty in January, 1928. The case was appealed to the United States court of appeals. The appeal is still pending.

Alberto Ortiz, Mexican, was convicted in Klamath circuit court of second degree murder, on the charge of killing Bonaficio Loera, Mexican, in Algoma last July. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Dean George, Indian, and Bill Clements, were charged with the murder of Archie Barkley, Indian, on a ranch near Beatty last November. The charge against Clements was dismissed by federal authorities. George pleaded guilty before federal court to the charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to serve three years on McNeill's Island.

Bill Thomason, charged with the murder of Velly "Buck" Pearson, was found not guilty in Klamath circuit court. He pleaded self defense.

Fern Morley, charged with the murder of J. H. Randall in Bly last November, was found not guilty in Klamath circuit court. He pleaded self defense.

Perry John, charged with the murder of William "Whitey" Ward last February was convicted of second degree murder in federal court and sentenced to serve ten years on McNeill's Island.

Fred Swan, charged with the murder of Ned Connolly last January, was found not guilty in Klamath circuit court last night. He pleaded self defense.

Ted Captain, Indian, is charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Morris Lotches, Indian, on the Captain ranch this month. His trial in federal court is pending.

A Lake Of Gasoline

DURING 1928 the citizens of the United States burned upwards of 14,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline. A speaker at the recent meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers in New York, pointed out that this would make a lake five miles in diameter and nearly four feet deep.

Putting it in terms like that helps one to realize the tremendous importance that oil has in modern American society. It also emphasizes the difficulties that would lie in the way of adopting gasoline substitutes. Benzol, for instance, can be made from coal; yet if all the soft coal mined in the country last year were made into benzol, it would only make a lake a tenth as big as this one.

We have a gasoline civilization, obviously; and one of our greatest problems is to insure a steady, cheap supply of the all-important fluid.

YOUR FRIEND—THE DOG

Philadelphia Bulletin: In New York city a "Dog Hero" reception and entertainment is scheduled "to advance popular appreciation of animal intelligence." It forms part of the metropolitan program for "Be-Kind-to-Animals week," and the honored guests will be four-footed.

The announcement of this unusual event carries the information that these guests will include a French bulldog that "talks," a group of canine actors and actresses who give a playlet, and a shepherd dog whose intelligence quotient recently amazed a number of professors at Columbia university.

All this will be highly interesting, and doubtless the persons who see the entertainment will be amazed at the skill and intelligence displayed by the dogs. But right here in these very parts is one dog who can do all the things above mentioned, and several more.

I'm not going to mention his name, for that might expose me to the charge of parental prejudice. Nor am I going to reveal his breed, for that would not be possible. Suffice it to say that he combines the best qualities of a large number of different breeds, and these qualities are followed by long generations of added breeding.

Can he talk? Why, his eyes can speak volumes. They can look furtive and traitorous and love. They can say things beyond the power of words to express. And with his tail he can—and continually does—say such things as few human beings have the grace to say, and with a persistence which no human being could practice. In this particular he has almost solved the problem of perpetual motion.

Can he act? Did Calvini or any other great actor ever do anything finer than his imitation of a super slow-motion rheumatic when he is found under the bed along about midnight? Could there be any better or more appealing simulation of despair than that given by this unpedigreed one as he painfully drags himself from the coveted shelter?

No. Is his intelligence quotient high? No professors or charts are needed to settle this point. Just ask any member of the biped portion of the family. And if you think this is idle boasting, what about your own dog?

KNIGHTS WILL INITIATE SIX ON WEDNESDAY

A special session of the Knights Templars has been called for Wednesday afternoon, April 24, at 2 o'clock. Six candidates will be initiated into the Temple degree at this time.

Wednesday evening a banquet will be given in courtesy to the candidates at Masonic hall at 6:30 o'clock. The night session of the order will open at 7:30 o'clock.

QUILLEN'S QUIPS AND QUIRKS OF AMERICA

Pointed Satire Intermingled With Broad Humor Gives Conception of the Best and Worst Sides.

THOUGHTS ON U. S. AFFAIRS

who wants irrigation projects settled and put into production.

WHILE those Illinois legislators are so anxious to have an investigation over the recent killing of a woman by prohibition agents, and such investigation is highly proper, they should also include a thorough investigation of the city of Chicago with its gunmen and racketeers.

THE world is one constant conflict. Note the recent decision of the L. C. C. examiners who state the differential rate of 10 per cent in favor of Portland should be abolished.

It was only a short time ago that Portland rested easy and happy over a decision giving that city a ten per cent differential over Puget Sound points on interior freight because of the heavy mountain haul to the Sound.

It was presumed that the decision would stand and Portland built her structure of that basis. Now, comes the reaction and possibly a reversal of that decision. It is a fight—a constant skirmish.

MAUSOLEUM TO BE ESTABLISHED

A modern mausoleum, to be located on the south slope of the Linkville cemetery, has been announced by the Klamath Falls Mausoleum company, 1170 Pine street.

The structure planned is one of simple beauty, and will be built to withstand time. A modern crypt entombment will be provided. A perpetual care fund will be founded for the permanent care of those interred within the mausoleum.

The crypts are being sold in advance of construction, and the company has asked for early reservations. A sketch of the building planned is being displayed in the window of Stilson's studio on Eighth and Main street.

De Molay Boys Will Journey to Convention

Headed by the newly uniformed Drum Corps, thirty young men of the Klamath chapter, Order of DeMolay, will leave Thursday evening for Bend to attend the seventh annual state convocation of the order.

The convocation will be in session on Friday and Saturday.

In addition to the business sessions, the Bend DeMolay's have planned an elaborate program, to include patrol competitions, a caravan to the head of Metolus river, banquets each evening at the high school, exemplification of the Initiatory Degree of Sunnyside chapter of Portland and the DeMolay degree by Medford chapter. A farewell dance will be held Saturday evening.

Professor W. J. Kerr of Oregon State College will deliver the main address. Professor Kerr is the grand deputy of the order in Oregon.

Mayor George P. Cove of Bend will also speak.

The convocation will open with a special meeting of the advisors of the various chapters in Oregon.

Twenty-nine chapters in Oregon will be represented.

DEATH NOTE OF REPORTER SAYS FLIER STUNTED

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—The notes of a young Phoenix, Arizona newspaperwoman who fell to her death in the air crash that took six lives in San Diego Sunday have been salvaged from the wreckage and will serve as mute testimony against the army flier whose plane struck the passenger ship in which she rode, Maddux air lines announced tonight.

Four words jotted in the notes of the girl, Miss Cecilia Kelly, a feature writer for a newspaper, record the fear she held as the army plane neared the commercial ship, Maddux officials said.

Among other words were found "army plane", "stunting" and, last, "near".

Gas Stations Plan Fight as Price Changes

PORTLAND, Ore., April 23. (UP)—On grounds that they had been "double-crossed," service station operators belonging to the Portland retail gasoline dealers' association met last night to take steps toward breaking their contracts with major oil companies.

Several legal actions are said to be pending and probably will be filed soon against the companies, it was said.

"The retail gasoline dealer no longer can make a profit on the margin allowed him," A. Townsend Kirtz, president of the association, said. "With gasoline being sold as low as 12½ cents to commercial accounts, it is impossible for the gasoline retailer to make money on gasoline sold to him at 16½ cents a gallon."

Meanwhile gasoline sold to motorists from 15½ to 23 1-2 cents a gallon. The official association price, however, remained at 20 cents a gallon.

J. A. THOMPSON JOINS FIRM OF DALE-HOSKING

J. A. Thompson, one of Klamath county's successful farmers has joined the firm of Dale and Hosking, realtors, to have charge of the land settlement department.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson returned home early this spring from an extended trip throughout the east. They were gone for close to seven months.

While engaged in farming, Mr. Thompson operated one of the largest ranches in the Midland country.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson are now residing at their home, 491 Jefferson.

THIEF STEALS 39 CENTS; GETS LONG SENTENCE

Woman Also Gets Long Sentence for Theft of 11 Chickens

REDDING, Calif., April 23. (UP)—Five years to life in prison for theft of 39 cents was the sentence ordered by Peter Stone here today.

Stone was convicted after a short trial on the charge of holding up a gasoline station here April 11. He found only 39 cents.

OAKLAND, Calif., April 23. (UP)—Theft of 11 chickens from a former neighbor's coop brought a sentence of from one to 25 years in prison for Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 64, here today.

When Judge Fred V. Woel ordered the woman to San Quentin state prison she broke down and had to be carried from the court room. Her mother, aged 96, also collapsed.

J. OVERSTREET SENT TO JAIL FOR 5 MONTHS

PORTLAND, April 23. (AP)—John Overstreet, charged with selling liquor to Indians on the Klamath reservation, was sent to jail for five months by Federal Judge McNary, today, and fined $100. Gay Russel went to jail for sixty days and was fined $100 for selling liquor to Umatilla Indians.
