

STORMS VISIT UNITED STATES

Benson Springs: The James community was struck by the second twister and though one woman was injured and 75 persons made homeless no one was killed.

The tornadoes struck in eastern Nebraska as a blizzard was raging across the eastern part of the state. Cloudbursts occurred in some sections and two towns suffered from floods.

In Wyoming loss of life was feared from the worst blizzard in the history of the state. Communication systems were wrecked and transportation brought to a halt. Automobiles could not be driven even in the streets of Cheyenne.

The blizzard centered in Wyoming but was felt with less severity throughout the Rocky mountain states. Streams in several parts of Colorado were nearing flood stage and the Yama river was reported carrying away its bridges.

The storm struck in the lambing season and it was feared that there would be enormous loss among livestock. The property damage was impossible to estimate but it was known that it would be great. Besides the several communities that were wiped out by the twisters many isolated farms and homes were probably destroyed.

OMAHA, Neb., April 25. (AP)—Tornadoes, rain, snow, hail and sleet raked Nebraska yesterday, causing heavy property damage and injuring at least two persons.

While two tornadoes struck in eastern Nebraska the western section of the state was being swept by snow and rain. In some sections cloudbursts occurred and at least two towns suffered from flood waters.

PALESTINE, Texas, April 25. (AP)—Two tornadoes lashed three east Texas hamlets yesterday killing seven persons, injuring at least twenty-one and causing property damage estimated at $250,000.

The most severe of the windstorms roared down a path three miles wide, twisted the little town of Slocum, 15 miles east of here, into a mass of ruins and took the seven lives, then dipped again four miles to the east and wiped out Benson Springs without injury to any of its inhabitants. Another twister of less intensity hit the James community near Center, Texas, close to the Louisiana border, leaving 75 homeless and one casualty, a woman injured.

Two of those killed at Slocum, a typical Texas farming community of not more than 300 population, were school children. Approximately 150 children were on the school playgrounds during the noon recess, when suddenly the tornado appeared. The children rushed to the schoolhouse but the storm destroyed it just as they entered. Several other children were injured.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 25. (AP)—Isolated for nearly 24 hours by one of the worst blizzards in the history of Wyoming, Cheyenne today awaited reports from this vicinity over paralyzed lines of communication to learn the damage of the freak storm. Tremendous damage to livestock and other property, and possible loss of life in the blizzard were feared.

Starting as a rain storm, accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning, Tuesday, the storm changed suddenly to snow. There were severe displays of lightning.

It was believed that the blizzard would cause greater destruction than the storm of May, 1927, which claimed eight lives and caused a huge amount of damage to livestock and property.
