

The Evening Herald

T. R. MALARKY, Editor
P. H. ENGLISH, Business Manager

Published every afternoon except Sunday by The Herald Publishing Company at 162-163 North Fifth street, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, on August 26, 1896, under act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

By Mail		Delivered by Carrier
One Year	$3.00	One Year	$4.00
Six Months	2.00	Six Months	2.50
Three Months	1.00	Three Months	1.25
One Month	.50	One Month	.65

ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE
MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION

Member of the Associated Press
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use or republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein. All rights of republication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1929

Traveling In One Spot

CAPTAIN WILLIAM FROST, who has traveled by water about as many miles as any man alive, has retired and will end his days on a pension.

During his years as a skipper, Captain Frost has traveled upwards of 460,000 miles.

There is a catch to it, however. Captain Frost's command has been a ferry boat in New York harbor—and his huge mileage was run up entirely in trips back and forth between the New York and New Jersey shores. Not once has his craft poked its nose outside to the open sea.

What a difference that makes to us! If this skipper had put his 460,000 miles end to end, so to speak—if he had compiled them by traveling all over the world in a seagoing ship—we would envy him greatly. There we would say, is a man who has had rich experience; he has roamed mightily and has gone to distant lands.

But, as it is, we dismiss him with a few words. He has traveled a long distance, but it has all been in one spot. Instead of envying him we feel sorry for him.

There is more to this business of traveling than appears on the surface, however.

What the traveler sees depends largely on what he has to see with. If he has the right kind of eyes he can make a trip on a ferry boat a genuine experience; and if he hasn't, he can travel all the way to Singapore or Capetown and remain totally uninterested.

People are much alike, wherever you find them. So is scenery. The ocean, after all, is only a great deal of water, sloshing around in a some times disconcerting way. A mountain is only a mountain, and a city—be it Pittsburgh or Samarang—is only a collection of houses.

If, in other words, travel means nothing to you but a lot of strange sights, you might as well stay at home—or travel on a ferry boat. For you won't really see anything so terribly startling.

But if you can travel with your mind as well as your body—if you have eyes that can see beneath the surface of things—then travel can enrich you, even if, like Captain Frost, your traveling is all done in one spot.

A street car trip from your home to your place of work can be highly significant, if you can see through the externals. There is a whole unexplored world right at your feet; a world that has marvels in it, dragons and demons and magnificent vistas and breath-taking spectacles, waiting your inspection.

It is the world of every-day human beings, each one of whom has an epic concealed about him.

If you can see that world—and you can, by developing sympathy and understanding—your travel will be fruitful, even if it is confined to ferry boats.

The "Meanest Man"

ONE can not help but wonder at the mental background of the man responsible for the death of three horses in a deserted barn west of Bonanza.

The trusting beasts were led into the barn, securely locked up and left to die of starvation. One can easily imagine the stark terror, the gripping fear of these friends of man, as hour after hour passed and no help arrived.

What kind of person could do such a thing? What is it that perverts the mind of a man so that he receives satisfaction over giving pain to dumb animals? Could a normal person deliberately starve horses to death or poison dogs? We doubt it and for that reason we believe that persons apprehended for such crimes, should be examined to see whether or not an unbalanced mind was responsible for such acts.

EDITORIALS

From Over the Nation

Christian Science Monitor: The government of Spain has opted that after-dinner speeches, aside from any tendency they may have to strain hitherto pleasant relations between the speaker and his audience, may be steeped in political intrigue. In consequence, it has decreed that a new and somewhat strange form of dinner, the speechless banquet, shall obtain henceforth.

After-dinner speaking, in both the raw and finished product, has been associated not only with the development of the great political parties, but also with the introduction and promotion of many of the institutions which have played an important part in the activities of the United States. It flourishes in every community, no matter how large or small. It is the openly expressed aspiration of the small boy and the secret hope of many a man.

Much as the United States has suffered from after-dinner speaking, however, probably it never would consider its abolition. Indeed, though Spain may be

QUILLEN'S QUIPS AND QUIRKS OF AMERICA

Pointed Satire Intermingled With Broad Humor Gives Conception of the Best and Worst Sides.

It might be worse. Suppose you had to work up a lather before barbering the lawn.

Similar for today: As dismal as any town's main street at dawn.

Perhaps the ultimate in good manners is for the man in the electric chair to offer a lady reporter his seat.

Alas! By the time people outgrow Santa Claus, they get the notion that a cedar chest will keep out moths.

An optimist is one who had bad teeth and reflects that he may die before it is necessary to get a plate.

A husband is like your breath. Your breath doesn't distress you until you try to hold it.

A normal wife is one who feels defrauded when her husband spends money to support his own people.

Vanity is the quality that prompts a man who is getting bald to feel cheated because his wife is getting fat.

Comforting thought. The public prints in other countries complain that the other governments are foolish, too.

Americanism: Choosing a wild and lazy life; choosing a banker and a president who are dignified.

If all the world seems jazzy and flappy, perhaps it's because you aren't invited into a better atmosphere.

If travel has a treading influence, perhaps it's a good thing to let congressmen bring in baggage without examination.

The governor of Louisiana once took a three-year college course in seven months, but he has learned even more in the last seven weeks.

The best reducing exercise consists in placing both hands on the edge of the table and pushing back.

Brief history of a prominent citizen: He dodges cars; he dodges jury service; he dodges taxes.

The triumphs of the hardy pioneers suggest that some essential vitamin may lurk in eating tobacco.

A lick town is a place pointed criticism of a public servant's public acts is taken as a personal insult.

The percentage of illiteracy in Mexico is decreasing rapidly. Those being butchered are the ignorant ones.

Correct this sentence: "He is making my living," said the wife, "so I never say or do anything to handicap him."

THOUGHTS ON U. S. AFFAIRS

(Continued from Page One)

lyze who are the masters who still reign, and in answering the question it says: The masters of fiction remain the masters throughout the world, and Charles Dickens still leads all the rest according to a poll recently taken by ballots of London. Voting lists were sent out to the remotest corners of Christendom and London book sellers distributed 400,000 lists among the people of England. Of those who returned a marked ballot 142,956 voted for Dickens. Second to Dickens, as he usually is in similar contests, was the immortal Sir Walter Scott. While those who followed Scott in order of preference were George Eliot, Stephen Dumas, Thackeray, Hugo, Kingsley, Austin and Mrs. Wood. Of non-English writers Hugo and Dumas alone developed any considerable following. George Eliot was far ahead of any other woman writer. But Dickens remains the favorite and the Oklahoma newspaper says "High over all who are counted worthy to rank as a master of prose is the great soul who brought into being the long love stories of Copperfield and Sidney Carton of the Marchioness and Little Ned."

PREPARE PLANS FOR NEW ROADS

(Continued from Page One)

be constructed under contract. On the Poe Valley end, county machinery will be utilized for easy grading.

The Chillicothe-Sprague River road is another important project—a project which has been a sore need for rapidly growing reservation communities for years. The first segment of this road has been completed, from Chillicothe to Brumfield, but there is still 22 miles left to construct. The county work on this highway will probably be divided into sections and it is not yet known just how much the county is willing to undertake this year. The nine-mile Edgewood highway across Swan lake will be serviceable to that section of the county but is not regarded as a key thoroughfare.

The plans and specifications for these roads will be submitted in the near future to the county court which, if they are approved, will call for bids.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kind assistance and sympathy during the illness and death of our dear daughter and sister. Also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

MRS. CLARA BOWEN AND FAMILY.

Letters From the People

Members of the Klamath County Boy Scout Executive board as well as others who are in close touch with the scouting movement in this district are highly pleased over the renewed interest and activity which has been indicated among the different troops in various sections of the county during the past six weeks, according to representative members of this board.

With the arrival of the first warm spring days, the attention of the youngsters is immediately diverted towards hiking, camping and the various lines of outdoor sports with which scouting is associated.

Scout Executive Oscar Hoover has assembled a splendid group of young men in the city and county, who are giving time and effort in training the boys in scouting work. Most of the troops meet once each week. It is generally expected by those who have been associated with this work in the past that the season of 1929 will be by far the biggest year for the Scout movement since the work was undertaken in Klamath county.

FRED FLEET.

REBELLION IN CITY CHECKED

(Continued from Page One)

erally unstable condition with predictions being freely made that its fall to the advancing Kwangsi armies could be expected within a day and a half. There was only the most scanty information regarding military developments, however, due to the rigid censorship imposed by the Cantonese authorities.

A lone note of optimism was heard in the statement of Admiral Chan Chai, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese Navy, who said he believed the tide was turning in Kwangsi's favor. Reinforcements were expected from South Szechuan to attack Kwangsi on the north. This with Yunnanese attacking from the west would relieve the pressure of Kwangsi, he said.

The revolt of the Cantonese fleet occurred with an attempt to escape from the harbor of four gunboats, commanded by a vice commander of the navy. W. J. Chang, often described as "China's Lindbergh," took the air above the ships and bombed them, raking their decks with machine gun fire.

The batteries on Macao opened fire while the machine gun placements on Honam Island peppered the sides of the ships with smaller shot. Realizing escape was impossible they took refuge in an area occupied by seven foreign warships, among them the U. S. S. Tule and the U. S. Guin.

Knowing what to do won't build your business. It's what you actually do that counts.

THREE SOLONS DEFEND ACTION

(Continued from Page One)

producing commodities of which we have a surplus from his present distress," had voted Wednesday "according to my long-settled convictions" and "would not know how to vote otherwise."

"In the support which I sincerely gave Mr. Hoover I did not get the idea that I was to be deprived ever afterwards of voting upon public measures in accordance with my own views," he said. "I am sure that Mr. Hoover did not assume for a moment that by my support I was changing my views upon public questions or surrendering the right to form them. Only a base class of intellectual slaves would entertain or promulgate such an idea."

Senator Nye said that "those who freely resort to the term 'pseudo-republican' would do well to compare their own republicanism with that which gave birth, vitality and life to the party," and predicted: "Some day Ohio republicans will learn that North Dakota republicans are striving to hew a little closer to the line laid down by Lincoln than is the case in Ohio, and with that realization will come new life for a party that has been growing so stale that it forgets that people can make and break parties."

Senator Brookhart declared "no standard like Senator Fess can be my example of 'republicanism,' and asserting that he was 'the first' to ask the president to call the special session, went on:

"But the farm bill I had in mind when I talked with Mr. Hoover last summer and again when I campaigned for him was different from the one we are called upon here to pass."

Senator Fess predicted that the division over the debenture "means ultimately a complete coalition between the democrats and insurgents, and consequent arrest of the administration's policies."

WOMEN CAST SEVERE SLURS

(Continued from Page One)

this truth of history if they so around paying homage to his memory?"

Mrs. Miriam L. Green, another New Orleans member, countered with the suggestion that action ensuring southerners for honoring Lincoln would foster ill feeling in all parts of the country and asked that no action be taken on the proffered resolution. To these remarks were added those of Mrs. F. J. Jones of Leesville, re-elected state president, who said "any true southern mother would have said 'no' when asked if her child might give a recitation at a Lincoln memorial celebration in a northern state."

Skaggs to Open Store May 18

(Continued on Page Eight)

will be a vegetable display window constructed particularly for the Klamath Falls store.

"The store room is being completely remodelled along Skaggs' lines."

The Skaggs official said that the personnel would be composed of men who had undergone intensive training in Skaggs methods. H. E. Rogers, Portland, will be the manager and will move to Klamath Falls with his family and establish a home in this city.

"We are negotiating for two and perhaps three more stores in Klamath Falls and will announce in the near future, their locations," Mr. Heathcote added. "Our total initial investment in Klamath will be between $46,000 and $50,000. The reason we have entered the Klamath territory is that we are absolutely sure of the future of the Klamath country. We know that existing business conditions here are favorable and believe they will get better as time goes on."

Skaggs Safeway Stores Inc., represent one of the most phenomenal chain store developments in the United States. Starting with one store in Idaho in 1915 and with a capital of $1050, the chain has grown until there are 3200 stores in 21 states, Hawaii and Canada. Business of these stores last year represented $195,000,000, while this year, if the present volume is maintained, the business will represent $180,000,000.

"The key to the astounding success of the Skaggs chain is the personal interest of each store's personnel inspired by a liberal plan of profit sharing," Mr. Heathcote said.

WHEAT PRICES DROP STEADILY

CHICAGO, May 10. (AP)—Wheat prices turned downward afresh today after an irregular start. Something of an upward trend shown at the outset was ascribed largely to the fact that the United States government crop report indicated less of a big yield than was generally expected, but the curtailment was asserted here to be due to a change in the official basis of computing, rather than to an altered crop outlook. Opening 1-5/8 off to 1 1-5/8 a bushel, wheat later declined all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged to 7-8/16 higher, but subsequently showing setbacks.

DR. J. M. INGALLS

Registered Chiropodist

will be at the

Buster Brown Shoe Store

May 10th and 11th

Free examinations

TREATS ALL FOOT AILMENTS

FOOTWEAR that expresses the NEW FEMININE MODE

Just received a large shipment of New Spring Shoes in the latest styles and colors

$4.85 to $8.85

The Store that Sets the Shoe Styles

Buster Brown Shoe Store

CHILDREN WOMEN MEN

Mother's Day Suggestions

The list of gifts for Mother's of today is unlimited, since all the lovely things that please a daughter are acceptable to her mother. May 12th is the date set aside this year when all mothers are to be honored.

Here are a few of the things we suggest as especially acceptable as Mother's Day Gifts.

ROLLINS PURE SILK CHIFFON HOSE

These hose are full fashioned, and may be had in either chiffon or service weight, in all the wanted shades.

Chiffon $1.65
Service Weight $1.50

HANDKERCHIEFS—We have an especially fine line of handkerchiefs in pure linen, white and colored for sport and dress. Large range of prices.

HATS—Our new hats are lovely and are in the latest styles of the season. Black and pastel shades. Priced from $2.95 to $10.00

ONE-FOURTH OFF ALL COATS IN THE SHOP

COSTUME JEWELRY—You will find costume jewelry to match the new dress here. Our assortment is beautiful and we offer it at reasonable prices for the moderate income. Special assortment for Saturday $1.00
Silk Dresses, priced at $4.95 and up
Wash Dresses, priced at $1.95

SILK UNDIES—Silk Undies include gowns, step-ins, vests, French panties, bloomers and costume slips.

THE Mode Shop INC.

822 MAIN STREET