Good Riddance Anyway

CHICAGO'S latest gang killing is much like all the others; equally shocking, equally brutal, equally ominous in its proof that gangland lives by a government all its own.

Yet there is a gleam of comfort in it. At the very worst, Chicago is rid of two of its most undesirable citizens.

Scalisi and Anselmi, who were found shot to death in an abandoned auto at Hammond, Ind., were two men who should have been hanged years ago. In 1925 they killed two policemen in a running gun battle, but by means of clever lawyers and dumb juries managed to escape punishment. Scalisi, in addition, was indicted for the St. Valentine's Day massacre, and Anselmi was believed to have had a part in the same job.

All in all, Chicago won't miss them greatly.

No Great Loss After All

WRITER in the current World's Work points out that whereas there were 5000 legitimate theatres in the United States 29 years ago, today there are only 500. Few cities, except for the large ones, support any theatrical season at all; the movies have conquered.

This is generally looked upon as some sort of national misfortune, but to our notion it isn't that at all. We can remember some of the drama that used to be offered in small city theatres in the old days, and it was pretty shoddy stuff.

Say what you will about the movies, the fact remains that the fare they offer averages a good deal higher, culturally, than the stuff the third-rate dramatic companies used to put on.

THOUGHTS ON U. S. AFFAIRS

the fellow who knows he can do it, and Pat has demonstrated that very fact.

KARL GARDEN'S old song of "Apple Blossoms Everywhere" could be changed around a bit to fit Klamath Falls to "Railroad Men Everywhere." This city has no doubt been honored with visits by more railroad officials of late than has Wall street in New York City.

Every day brings a new crowd of railroad men who seek to help the Klamath Basin; every day unfolds new possibilities in this Basin that railroad heads appreciate.

Like the negative put in the developing bath this Basin shows to these chiefs of transportation each trip new high lights and strong detail that they knew not before.

Come on, ye men of the rails. Study our great country and study sincerely and reverently. You will find that a Kind Providence has made of this the proverbial Pandora's Box; you will find that the last frontier is rich in possibilities; rich in resources; rich in strategic location—all of which commends themselves to the men who seek to build railroads to serve a nation.

Greatness is made by contrast. The higher the people climb, the fewer great men appear.

Perhaps the Salvation Army can survive as a democracy. But it's hard to imagine a victorious war in which doughboys vote on the general's tactics.

Note to the Stage: Open plumbing and open covenants are all right, but let's keep the sewers hidden.

How unfortunate that the only people who know just what the stock market is going to do are behind with the rent.

Statisticians who are figuring up what the election cost the country should wait and see the next appropriation bill.

It's easy to tell one sex from the other. A man won't take your last cigarette.

Nature doesn't change, and many a maid got kissed in the old days because she couldn't remove her hands from the spinning wheel.

Bill boards on the highway would be good advertising if you could sell a man something by making him mad.

FINDS NECKLACE

REDDING, Calif., May 23. (A.P.)—Theodore Bridge, retired miner, told of finding a $50,000 pearl necklace in San Francisco Saturday. Bridge said he thought it was worth little and took it home with him. The string was lost by Mrs. Maurice Schweitzer of San Francisco.

Read This! If You Have Varicose Veins

If you or any relative or friend are worried or suffer because of varicose veins, or bunions, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get an original two ounce bottle of Mene's Emerald Oil from Star Drug Store or any first class druggist and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins, rubbing gently upward and towards the heart as the blood in the veins flows that way. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued and a bandage worn until the veins are of normal size. Emerald Oil is a clean powerful penetrating oil that promotes a healthy healing.
