THOMAS TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Trial of A. M. Thomas, secretary of the Klamath Irrigation district and editor of the Mail Progress, on the charge of violating the Blue Sky law opens Monday morning in circuit court before Judge O. M. Corkins of Lakeview.

Judge Duncan disqualified himself in the case because the Thomas case had come to his attention when he was district attorney of Klamath.

Thomas was indicted on three counts—two alleged violations of the Blue Sky law while the third charged falsification of public records. The specific charge under which he will be prosecuted on Monday is that he sold corporate stock without having first secured a license.

District secretary will be represented by E. L. Elliott while the state's case will be handled by U. S. Ballentine acting as a special prosecutor, and Deputy District Attorney T. R. Gillenwaters.

STANFORD WINS TRACK CLASSIC

Ivan Dresser of Cornell, Jesse Hill of southern California cracked the I. C. A. A. record in the running broad jump with a leap of 25 feet, 7-3/4 inches. This eclipsed the former mark of 24 feet, 10 3-8 inches set by Alfred Bates, of Penn State last year.

Phil Edwards, dusky New York university Negro flier, shattered Ted Meredith's fourteen year old meet record for the half mile when he made a show of his field to win this event in one minute 52 2-10 seconds.

Edwards finished 25 yards ahead of his nearest rival, Chapman of Bates. His time eclipsed the mark of 1:53 made by Meredith in 1915 and was only three-fifths of a second short of the world's record held by Otto Pelzer of Germany.

Sidney Kieselhorst of Yale successfully defended his 220-yard low hurdle title, bettering the meet record when he hit the tape in 23 3-10 seconds but because of a stiff wind at his back the officials ruled it as a record feat. The I. C. A. A. standard of 23 3-5 seconds was set in 1898 by A. C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania.

DEATH TOLL OF FLOODS RISES

Districts received the brunt of the gulf bound water. Hundreds of homes and business buildings were flooded. Shipping was at a standstill in the ship channel, the movement of all vessels being halted. Water covered two docks and flooded several warehouses nearby.

A levee break in Madison county flooded 10,000 acres in Houston county, and 10,000 acres in San Jacinto county were inundated by water from the Trinity and San Jacinto rivers.

The highway to Beaumont was closed when the approach of the San Jacinto river bridge near here was washed away. Beaumont itself was cut off from through traffic in all directions. The old Spanish Trail to Orange was one of the last roads to be inundated. Residents along the line moved ahead of the water and camped at the south Texas state fair grounds. Relief trucks from Beaumont carried supplies to the refugees.

It was feared the Neches river bridge between Beaumont and Orange would give way and 30,000 sandbags were on hand for an emergency. The Orange-Port Arthur ferry was operated continuously to accommodate traffic unable to get over the highways.

The towns of Lynchburg, Katy, Clodine and Gaston, were lakes. The residents that had not moved to dry land, were using boats at Clodine. The bayou was said to be ten miles wide.
