ATHLETICS AND YANKEES BOTH BEATEN FRIDAY

Indians Administer 7 to 3 Defeat to New York

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The proceedings at Ebbets park yesterday fell far short of being any part of an Athletic holiday, but the antics of the Browns did enable several of the bench hands among the pitchers to get a few minutes in the sun. The St. Louisans clubbed Ebbets, Orwell, Quinn, Rommel and Yerkes for 18 hits, to win by the neat score of 15 to 6, but as the Yankees obligingly lost, the cost to the Athletics was negligible. The champions are the boys upon whom Connie Mack has his wily eye fixed—the champions and that string of eight games he must play against them later this month.

Turned back by Cleveland for the second successive afternoon, the Yankees dropped to third place behind the victorious Browns. The Huguenots remained 7 1/2 games from the lead as the Browns reduced their own deficit to 6 1/2 contests.

Score 7 to 3

The Indians defeated the Yankees by the effective process of running up a big early lead and holding it to win by 7 to 3.

Rabbits Appear and Disappear As Two Thousand Magicians in Lima, Ohio, Hold Convention

(By CLAUDE M. BURCKY)
United Press Staff Correspondent

LIMA, Ohio, June 8, (UP)—When Mayor John A. Harley started to present the keys of the city to the 2,000 visiting members of the mystical brotherhood of hat-borrowers here today, he discovered they had been turned into a large white rabbit—the keys, not the visitors.

But Mayor Harley, instead of being surprised, was disappointed.

"Last year it was a full-grown panther," he complained. "I'm afraid the International Brotherhood of Magicians is losing its its prowess."

Lima's streets were filled with strange caravans from which issued tweets, squawks, grunts and sawdust. They came from India, on the east, and Clay Center, Kan., on the west. No time was lost in turning the city into one big theatre. Streets were packed tightly with little groups. Empty store rooms blossomed into black art shops, were deftly fingered magicians performed.

"The Great Thurston" is here. "The Great Durbin" is here, as is "The Great Dr. Choy" of China, "The Great Don Carlos," Spanish court magician, and other world-famous sleight-of-hand experts. Probably one of the greatest is Zelmo, who, they say, should be elected treasurer of the organization. Before a pop-eyed throng Zelmo took a half-dollar and proceeded to change it into a whole handful. He easily could eliminate the $3 annual dues.

YOUTH ROBS TO SECURE COLOR FOR HIS STORY

HOLLYWOOD, June 8, (UP)—A 17-year-old high school junior, the son of wealthy parents and author of a short story dealing with the adventures of a gentleman burglar, was arrested here today by police officers who found him faultlessly attired in a tuxedo robbing a drug store.

The youth, Hastings Kelsey, was said to have admitted entering other stores, rifling the cash registers and stealing cigarettes.

His mother, Mrs. Newton S. Kelsey, told police her son was in no need of money and that she believed he had crept out of their Hollywood mansion during the night to obtain color for his story.

The mother said he favored art and writing, was an athlete and industrious. She offered to make good his thefts.

Lumber Market Sluggish, Reduction Is Necessary

BY C. C. CROW
Editor Crow's Pacific Coast Lumber Digest.

(Reprinted from the Oregonian)

Statistically, the lumber market has shown considerable improvement during the past week as, due to the fact that many mills have been shut down for periods varying from two to six days, the total production has taken a sharp fall while the demand has not been greatly changed, giving the supply a healthy relation to demand in figures. It is typical of the lumber business to work out nicely on a piece of paper and not be so rosate in reality and that is true of the market today.

While the check on the output which has resulted from the reduction move has been beneficial and numerous mills have yet to do their part between now and the middle of this month, it is daily becoming more apparent that further strenuous action along these lines will have to be taken all through this month and July if a serious slump is to be avoided, as the buyers already have a slight advantage and it is going to take more than a threat to put the manufacturers back into control.

Eastern Markets Soft

The most damaging feature of the eastern market today is the softness of Atlantic coast cargo business and export. Rail trading has been holding up well within itself and had the inland markets been left to the inland mills that normally serve them they would still be firm, but with the water market so badly off color, the tidewater mills have cut in on the rail business just enough to drag it into the wake of the cargo slump. So far the rail markets have not been seriously affected but overzealous sales methods on the part of some mills have caused the middle west and eastern retail yards to be suspicious and they are apparently holding back their placements until the last minute through the fear or hope that prices will be lower.

Even though new business has tapered off in volume, the price level has not been seriously disturbed in any of the markets with the exception of the Atlantic coast. Stock moving to the Atlantic coast, especially hemlock, has suffered a heavy decline since the early part of April and even though that field is basically in a sound condition, C. I. F. prices being made today on without any solicitation on the part of the buyer are relatively low and the end is not yet in sight. It is true that the demoralized condition of the Atlantic coast market is rapidly working around to the point where a sudden reversal can easily come about. There are less transit shipments en route to the Atlantic coast now than there has been for several years and it is also claimed on good authority that the retailers have allowed their stocks to get very low. The usual accumulations on the docks are lighter, but there is enough distressed stock on the Atlantic coast to exert a bad influence on the legitimate mill shipment business coming from markets.

Japanese Stocks Low

Next in importance as a damaging factor comes the export market, which is admittedly in the dumps, mostly on account of light buying by the Japanese. The Japanese have been steadily reducing their stocks and it does not seem possible that they can hold back in their buying for over three or four weeks more at the most.

In the meantime, even though the mills do nothing more this month toward regulating the cut than they already have planned, the annual July 4 shut-downs which are observed regardless of the conditions of the markets, are

SHRINE TRAIN STOPS IN CITY

Shriners and their families, numbering more than 400, from Moslem Temple, Detroit, Michigan, visited Klamath Falls this afternoon, arriving here from Los Angeles at 2 o'clock.

Some thirty shriners of this city greeted the visitors who stopped here for 20 minutes. Many of the easterners left the train and visited with the local shriners.

This afternoon at 5:30, close to 200 members from North and South Carolina will visit here. These visitors, many of whom visited here a year ago, will be given a trip about the city while here for an hour or longer.

The chamber of commerce will have cars at the depot to greet the visitors.

Throughout the day special trains continued to pass through the city en route from the convention.

ing Simpson's performance. Two caught him in 9 3-10 and three registered 9 4-10. Racing conditions were almost perfect for record smashing. The track was fast and dry and there was no breeze to favor the runners. The breeze at the time was blowing across the course.

Simpson came right back and won the 220-yard dash in a heart breaking finish with Tolan in 20.8 seconds setting a new meet record. He clipped a tenth of a second off the N. C. A. A. record established by Roland Locke of the University of Nebraska in 1926. Bracey was third in the furlong with Leland of Texas Christian fourth. Simpson's victory mounted Ohio State's point total to 30.

The mile run was won by Getz, Alfred; Martin, Purdue, second; Kiser, Washington, third and Hill, Oregon, fourth. Time 4:19.9.

ENGLAND BANS MORLEY'S PLAY

LONDON, June 8, (AP)—Christopher Morley's play "East of Eden," which was scheduled by the Masque players of Edinburgh next week, has been banned by the Lord Chamberlain. Morley is an American writer.

No explanation was given but it was generally believed that the domestic scenes between Adam and Eve had been found improper for London's theatre going population.

R. T. Cochrane of the company said that the play was a whimsical discussion in the Garden of Eden of where Cain's wife came from.
