"HE WHO plants a rose plants Beauty;
He who waters it until it grows
A radiant, throbbing thing of poignant glory,
Serves mankind—Oh, much better than he knows.

"He who plants a rose plants Splendor;
Breathless rapture flung across the sod
A light to shake the soul and lift the spirit,
Up to the high white citadel of God.

"He who plants a rose plants Triumph;
Mastering the brown, reluctant soil,
He lights at last a brave, bright showing
Of Beauty, Splendor, Triumph for his toil."

JUNE with its roses, brides and sweet girl graduates now has first place on the calendar. June is the favorite month for a wedding. It furnishes the right setting and the proper background and with its flowers and birds and soft air brings ideal days for those who begin their march on the highway of life.

June is the month of the rose and the rose is pre-eminently the bride's flower. Orange blossoms are beautiful and symbolic, but they are far less queenly and have less distinction than the many petalled, superbly tinted and lavishly fragrant rose.

In the heart of the rose there lingers a sweetness that is not gone when its petals fade.

The month of June, the regal rose and the beautiful bride—somehow I like to think of them together. Attention of society this past week has been on commencement exercises.

This week-end sees the departure of many of the teachers, who will spend the summer months with relatives and friends at points near and far. Many will attend school at various colleges to further their education throughout the summer.

We wish them all a delightful summer and will welcome their return this fall.

AMONG the delightful social affairs of the week was the one o'clock luncheon of Thursday over which Mrs. Gary Cozad and Mrs. Floyd McMillan presided as hostesses at the Cozad residence on North Ninth.

The spirit of the summer was reflected in the decorations carried out in pastel shaded flowers. Following luncheon the guests enjoyed several hours of bridge.

Mrs. A. E. Whitman held high score. The consolation went to Mrs. R. E. Dewese.

Invitations were issued to Mrs. E. M. Bubb, Mrs. A. E. Whitman, Mrs. R. L. Hardenbrook, Mrs. O. W. Robertson, Mrs. Paul McKinley Noel, Mrs. Myra Stewart, Mrs. J. Harden Carter, Mrs. R. E. THE marriage of Miss Minnie Michaelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaelson of this city, to Mr. Cecil C. Brown was solemnized Saturday evening, June first, at the First Baptist church.

Rev. A. F. Simmons performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

Proceeding the wedding ceremony, Mrs. Lloyd De Lay played Lehmann's Wedding March. Cecil Carlisle sang "Call Me Thine Own."

The bride was charming in an orchid gown of georgette trimmed with silver lace. Her hat and accessories were in keeping with her gown. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. B. K. Robinson attended the bride, as matron of honor, wearing a model of Nile green georgette with accessories in contrasting shades. Her corsage was of roses.

Mr. B. K. Robinson attended the groom.

Mary Stiles and Eunice Earhart were ushers.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, palms and ferns.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Michaelson at 661 California avenue.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

SOME travel bureau has sent out a self-contained and courteous but none the less firm letter to the various associated restaurant and lunch room keepers of Europe, exhorting them to have some consideration for the great amalgamated stomach of the half million or so American tourists bound to be in the old world this summer.

The travel bureau points out that Americans in Europe have great gastronomic difficulties; that they miss the balanced menus to which science at home has accustomed them, and that the dainties which are set before them at Europe's tables are unpalatable and health destroying.

THERE'LL BE KICKS.

It is too early to get Europe's own outraged flare-back at this accusation and request. But any number of papers and magazines of our own have commented on the matter to no little extent.

"Outrageously discourteous and presumptuous" is the leading phrase. And any number of editorial comments run that it is especially presumptuous for a country which knows little or nothing about the high art of cooking to presume to offer gratuitous advice to a country which has raised cooking to an art comparable with that of Michelangelo or Beethoven.

Granted that such gratuitous advice may not be the most tactful thing in the world, and that it does little to promote this international good will of which we hear so much, I am not so utterly convinced that there is no need for such a request as the travel bureau sent out.

The point is that there is a big difference between palatable and delicious cooking and in food which is good for us.

We Americans of the present era are saturated with propaganda exhorting us to look to our vitamins and calcium and fresh fruit juices and calories and be sure that we don't stake two starches or too many proteins.

Whether the meals we may eat when our health is duly considered are pleasurable or not, is nobody's concern.

NOT DUTY-BOUND.

But our friends across the sea have not reached that stage where they regard eating as a duty for health's sake rather than a pastime.

When a French chef grills a broiler in butter, finishing it with a pure cream sauce stuffed with mushrooms, or when he lights his little alcohol lamp under a chafing dish or crapes Suzette browning and brewing in brandy and sherry and powdered sugar, he is not concerned so much with the welfare of his diner's stomach as with the oh and ahs of real pleasure with which they will lick their chops over his food.

But we who are trained to our salads and light sandwich lunches, to say nothing of real breakfasts with cereal and cream in the coffee and even a platter of bacon and eggs, are apt to look askance upon a dinner of all-butter-cooked meats and vegetables, or sigh for a real American breakfast, though in this respect, whether for that reason or not, perhaps the continentals have the more healthful slant. We are told, too, that hot breads are not good for us, but we continue demanding our pancakes and waffles for breakfast.

SUMMER school will open Monday morning, June tenth, at Fairview school with Mrs. Mollie Belding and Miss Clara Jarvis in charge.

The hours each day for six weeks will be from 9 o'clock until noon.

Mrs. Belding will have charge of the first, second and third grades.

Miss Jarvis will have the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

FASHION HINTS

NEW TIE.

Those fringed-end Louisboulanger scarves do not have to be tied under the chin in a school-boy knot that is unbecoming to older women or those with round faces. Paris ties them low, just above the normal waistline.

LONG GLOVES.

Eight button length gloves are the shortest worn by Milady nowadays of an evening. Many summer evening wraps will feature loose three-quarters sleeves which mean even longer gloves.

SHIRT SILKS.

The sweetly striped little frock, made of shirt silks, will be a life-saver this summer for the woman who wears a chic line even in sweltering weather. Some are made like old-fashioned shirtwaist suits, with tuck-in blouses. Others prefer pleated skirts, with pleum overblouses ending in pleated flounces.

FEMININE BLOUSES.

A delicate pink georgette blouse has a square neckline with six long, narrow streamers tying in three bow-knots across the left shoulder, with the ends falling gracefully down either the front or back. Fine nervures trace out a leaf pattern through the blouse and across the puff sleeves.

Courage and Adventure

"SHOW BOAT" HAS WEIGHED ANCHOR AND LEFT US with the memory of the beauty of a woman's steadfast devotion and the magic of "Old Man River"—can you ever forget that magnificent ending when Ravenal returns, lonely and broken-hearted, and hears those sweet, tender strains of "Down That Lonesome Road"?

ONE OF THE THINGS THAT LEND INTEREST TO THE THE-atre is its diversity, its never-ending changes. Yesterday, a story of the mighty Mississippi, today a classic of the frozen North based upon the maddest gold rush in the world's history. What a theme; And Robert W. Service, the poet of the Klondike, wrote "THE TRAIL OF '98."

THERE ARE THREE OTHER PICTURES WHICH I CAN RE-call that have been comparable to this production. There was "The Birth of a Nation" which first showed the power of the screen and still stands as a film epic—the others were "The Covered Wagon" and "Way Down East."

WE HAVE ALL SEEN PICTURES OF THE GREAT NORTH—they all fade into insignificance when you see unfold before you this story of the power of gold over mankind. You travel with the camera over the terrible Chilkoot Pass which broke the hearts of so many brave men; you see them buried beneath an avalanche; swept to death from flimsy boats in icy waters; still with indomitable American spirit they kept the trail. "The Trail of '98" is a monument to courage and the spirit of adventure!

IT TOOK TWO LONG YEARS TO MAKE THIS PICTURE—there are fifteen thousand people in the cast, headed by a brilliant list of featured players—Dolores Del Rio, Ralph Forbes, Harry Carey, Karl Dane, Tully Marshall, and others too numerous to mention. And, believe me, they have made a real picture!

THE FEW REALLY GREAT PICTURES THAT HAVE BEEN made have, we believe, left a lasting impression—what "The Trail of '98" will leave with you will be a feeling of pride in the unbreakable spirit of the American pioneers and of awe at the mighty forces of Nature which they conquered!

Earl Whitlock's... History of Oregon

THE plan in the Democratic platform of 1844 which we have been discussing the last two weeks was considered pretty strong in certain sections of the country—as, indeed, it was.

As one would have expected, New England and the sections whose cities and shipping would be most at the mercy of the enemy were not so very enthusiastic for an aggressive foreign policy as those more sheltered states in the center, west and south of the Union.
