What Our Neighbors Are Doing

You've often heard there never was a rose without its thorn, but whether that is true or not the Spring is yet unborn, that did not bring its crop of flies,—those unclean buzzing pests that cause the household so much grief, and spoil one's well earned rest. Sol Bruner says he hates a fly with green eyed vengeful spleen, and when you hear his story the reason's plainly seen. Sol's wife won't tolerate a fly of any kind indoors, but Sol don't always come alive and fix the old screen doors. So Mrs. Sol lays sticky stuff on table, bench and chair, and our friend Sol sat down on some, entirely unawares. That's when he came to us and said—"You screen my house up right. I want your door and window screens,—be sure you get 'em tight. And while you're there about it, just screen my porch in too; I'm all fed up on fighting flies,—that job's now up to you."

We are now all done at Sol's house—ready at once to screen yours.
