

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE PELICAN
 "The Wolf of Wall Street" starring George Bancroft, will be presented at the Pelican theatre today as an all-talking motion picture.

This announcement is noteworthy due to the fact that it will mark the first time local audiences will be able to hear as well as see Bancroft in action in a dramatic story so full of tense drama that it may be classed as one of the season's most outstanding productions.

"The Wolf of Wall Street" is an ideal film for this purpose, inasmuch as it abounds in tense situations dealing with stock-market manipulations which offer gripping moments for dialogue.

AT THE PINE TREE
 A show within a show is "The Broadway Melody," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing picture now playing at the Pine Tree theatre, for a complete musical comedy is enacted in the story, which is very dramatic in its unfolding, taking one into the private life of the tireless entertainers of Broadway.

AT THE ORPHEUS
 "The Haunted Ship," a production suggested from the Jack London story, "White and Yellow," which is the feature picture attraction at the Orpheus theatre today, is one of the most dramatic sea pictures ever filmed. Most of the action was taken aboard a large five-masted sailing ship more than 50 miles out on the Pacific ocean. Colorful scenes are also enacted on a South Pacific island with as motley a gathering of atmosphere ever brought together before a camera.

AT THE LIBERTY
 "Twelve Miles Out," a thrillingly vivid tale of bootleggers and their melodramatic adventures, comes to the Liberty theatre today. It abounds in dramatic climaxes and breath-taking thrills and has for its swashbuckling hero, John Gilbert. He is supported by Joan Crawford, Ernest Torrence, Bert Roach, Tom O'Brien and other notable screen favorites.

AT THE VOX
 Down at the Vox theatre on Friday, June 14, Columbia's talking picture, "The Bachelor Girl," with William Collier, Jr., Jacqueline Logan, Edward Hearn and Thelma Todd will start a week's run.

It has fascinating dialogue, complete musical score, and marvelous sound effects. On the same bill is vaudeville's most dynamic star, Nan Blackstone, in "Snappy Co-Eds," a merry musical melange of talking and singing. "Flaming Canyons" rounds out a pleasing and amusing program.
