Who? What? When? Where? Why?

THE first rule a newspaper reporter learns is to answer five basic questions in the lead of his story: Who, What, When, Where, Why? It is a rule equally good for all people in buying goods. In the answers to those five questions lie the fundamental facts you should know about every article you purchase.

Who made it; Is he reliable; Is he experienced; Will he be in business if the article needs repair or replacement?

What will the article do for you? Will it improve your appearance? Will it save you time, money, effort? Will it make you more comfortable, more happy?

When was it made; Designed; Packed; Is it fresh; Is it the newest model, or latest development?

Where can you buy it? Does your own store carry it? If not, can you place dependence in the store that does?

Why should you buy it in preference to some similar product? Is it superior in design, materials, workmanship? Will it fit your needs more closely?

The answer to these questions, and others, are contained in the advertisements here. They are set forth by manufacturers and merchants for your convenience and guidance. The advertisements are interesting and sincerely written. They contain information you want to know, and should know, before you make purchases. You will find it well worth while to follow them.
