Concerning undulant fever, Dr. Simpson said it is an infectious disease caused by a microbe transmitted chiefly through the raw milk of cows and goats.

"Discovery of its widespread character constitutes the best argument for universal pasteurization of milk and dairy products," he told members of the society.

In 1924, only 15 cases were reported in the world. In the last four years more than 800 cases were reported in the United States. About 1,000 cases were reported in Prussia last year.

Approximately 500 physicians, representing every state, are attending the pathologist's convention, which is one of the smaller gatherings before the convention of the American Medical association, opening Monday.

LEARN TO SWIM WEEK PLANNED

Taking its place in the forefront with other progressive communities, Klamath Falls will have a "learn-to-swim-in-safety" week this summer conducted under the direction of the Klamath county chapter of the American Red Cross. This announcement was made yesterday by George J. Walton, executive secretary, who is busy at work upon the details of the campaign.

"Progressive municipalities are coming more and more to realize that needless deaths from drowning are a blot upon their civic pride," Mr. Walton stated. "Swimming is the best sport in the world and the most healthful, but it is too often accompanied by dangers. These dangers can be avoided if all swimmers are taught to swim properly and taught what to do for another person who is in difficulties in the water. That is what the Red Cross wants to do for each child and grown-up of Klamath county this summer."

The local Red Cross chapter is paying the expenses of a qualified instructor who will be furnished by the Pacific headquarters of the Red Cross in San Francisco. The lessons will be given without charge to the public. In all probability the classes will be held at the Natatorium. A schedule giving exact hours of instruction will be announced later.

Persons interested in learning more about "swim-in-safety" week may obtain further information from Mr. Walton at 615 Klamath avenue.

OREGON TITLE MEN BANQUET

Secretary of Interior Wilbur is Honored Guest; Barker Talks.

Following the election of officers for the coming year, members of the State Title and Abstract Men's association last night banqueted at the Hotel Willard and heard Dr. Burt Brown Barker, vice president of the University of Oregon, who was the principal speaker.

Members of the Klamath Falls Chamber of Commerce and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, and his party were also present at the banquet, at which James Johns of La Grande acted as toastmaster.

Dr. Barker in his talk spoke of the university and its needs for funds.

"After I had decided to come to Oregon a gentleman visited at my home in New York and called Oregon the 'poorest but one of the best' educational institutions on the Pacific coast," Dr. Barker said.

"I asked how both could be possible. He stated that it is the poorest financially but that it had a wholesomeness and a fine educational standing."

Referring to the schools of business administration, Dr. Barker told of four former members of the educational staff at the university being called to Harvard to teach. One man refused twice the salary he was receiving at Oregon and remained until he was offered nearly three times the salary he was receiving. Even then the president of the University of Oregon told him that he could not ask him to stay under the considerations.

Dr. Barker stated that if the university was able to provide annuities for retirement of professors, they would be in a much better position to keep the members of the staff.

The Murray Warner oriental art collection was highly praised by the speaker, who stated that a fine arts building was being constructed to house the valuable collection.

He stressed the reputation of the university's school of architecture and fine arts and stated that when a book was recently issued dealing with the school of that type, the university was ranked as the best in the northwest.

Using colorful and apt illustrations, Dr. Barker stated that Oregon lacks the culture that enables many to enjoy art. Music he believes should be taught to all. He stated that it is the ambition of the university's school of music to teach the boys and

It is a little harder for us, but we hoped to stay up here more than a week yet anyway," one of the
