

Cline and White Fight to Draw; Bob Jubb Kayoes Burnell

CHUCK BORDEN IS GIVEN DRAW WITH HUFFMAN

Kentworth Knocks Out Jacobs Floyd Farmer.

"Tiger" Johnny Cline of San Francisco came back to Klamath and made good last night. He put up one of the most sensational fights of his career against a younger and stronger opponent, K. O. White, and held the iron jawed negro to a draw.

It was a terrific main event staged before a mellow and appreciative fight crowd.

The decision was fair; the negro had the shade in the early rounds and led slightly in the tenth, while the charging "tiger" was out in front during the middle of the battle.

Bitter Struggle
The fight was a bitter, tense, grueling struggle from the first to the last; there weren't any breathing spells; it was sock, sock, sock from first to last.

It looked bad for Cline the first two rounds. K. O. White leaped out of his corner like a black menace and unleashed a terrific attack to the head and body. He continued the same attack in the second, concentrating with a terrific battery of blows to the body.

And then the veteran "Tiger" found his range. He staged one of his lightning rallies, weaving and swooping in, head low and far out. When Cline is stung he retaliates with a dazzling display of speed that carries everything before it.

Jolting rights and terrific lefts found their mark on the black boy—they were hard blows, but they didn't faze White.

In the third Cline continued his offensive. As he came in one round, out of his left hooks caught the negro on the chin and White dropped to his knees. He was up in an instant. Opinion of fans was divided on whether White slipped or the blow put out the lights for a split second.

"Tiger Makes Good"
During the remainder of the fight, the battle went first one way then the other. The "Tiger" fought one of his typical fights. He kept the fans on their feet. White fought such a good fight that one is amazed to think that Gene O'Grady beat him.

Cline deserves the credit and support of Klamath fans. In his last fight here, with Frankie Forbes, the fighters were thrown out of the ring in the eighth round because of their poor showing. The "Tiger" insisted he wasn't to blame and time and again wrote the boxing commission asking for a chance to atone for the Forbes fiasco.

Substituted
Finally the chance came to substitute for Willie Feldman and Johnny couldn't accept fast enough. Before the fight he said time and again that he would show Klamath fans the fight of their lives. He won his way back as a big drawing card in Klamath.

Bob Jubb, cool, crafty and deliberate, jolted "Buz" Saw Burnell around the ring for five and a half rounds and ended the fight with a quick right uppercut followed by a short left hook to the chin. The short hook did the work. It was a shock punch and Burnell fell forward on his face. He said afterward that he didn't even hear the referee counting.

Too Smart
Jubb was simply too smart for Burnell. His blows were short and fast—in fact they were deceptive they were so short Burnell was what his monicker indicated, a buzz saw, but he certainly met his master last night. They weighed 150 pounds each.

Ray Huffman, Klamath welter, met his equal as a body puncher last night, in the person of Chuck Borden, a veteran with a trim little moustache. The two boys battled for six rounds to a draw. It was a good draw, too.

Player Like Girl Telling Her Age

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher New York Giants.)

Ball players are a good deal like chorus girls about their ages. They never get past a certain age.

Grover Cleveland Alexander passes for about 41 now, and he was three or four years older than I was when we were with the Phillies in 1913.

Jack Quinn is closer to 50 than 40. Matty always claimed to be a lot younger than he was. We figured out one day that according to his dope, he would have graduated from Bucknell at the age of 12.

I asked Chief Myers his age once. "Thirty," he replied. Ten years later I asked him the same question again. "Thirty," he replied again. "How come?" I said. "You told me that ten years ago."

"I'll never get over thirty," he explained.

I met Rube Marquard and his wife down south this spring. "How old are you now?" I asked Rube. "Thirty-seven," he declared.

I declared that he was a regular with the Giants before I even started to play ball, and Rube's wife spoiled the whole thing for me right then and there by asking "What delayed you?"

G SONNENBERG RETAINS TITLE

TULSA, Okla., July 19. (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Mastero Kirilenko, Russian strong man and circus performer in two straight falls here last night. Kirilenko, who has been in the United States five months, held his own with the champion until he missed a try for a flying mare and his head struck the canvas. He was an easy victim for Sonnenberg's flying tackle.

The champion gained the second fall in less than a minute. The time of the first fall was 35 minutes.

The fights were staged in the Pelican theatre before a large crowd that roared its appreciation or booed according to the whims of some of the bleacher bawlers. It was a good fight card, one of the best.

TOM LOUGHRAN RETAINS TITLE

Champion Outspeeds and Outsmarts Braddock All the Way.

By HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Tommy Loughran was still ruler of the light heavyweight brigade today and James J. Braddock, Jersey City puncher, had only a boxing lesson to show for his meteoric climb to the rank of contender.

Meeting Braddock in a 15-round titanic battle at the Yankee Stadium last night, Loughran piled up points with a stabbing left hand and won the decision beyond a question.

Not once during the struggle could Braddock land squarely with his right hand, without which the Jersey youngster would not have deserved to be in the same ring with the champion.

With that right hand Braddock had broken Pete Latzo's jaw; knocked out Tuffy Griffith in two rounds and stopped the Buffalo speedster, Jimmy Slattery, in nine rounds.

Against Loughran, however, Braddock could find no use for his most potent weapon. Outspeeded and outsmartered all the way, the Jersey lad found the champion's left always ready to catch the wild overhand rights that came his way.

Never has Loughran appeared to better advantage. His educated left hand spent most of the evening in Braddock's face. With it he kept the challenger off balance, thus neutralizing the undoubted power Braddock has in his fists.

Of the 15 rounds Braddock won only two. There were no knockdowns, nor even a threat of one, but there was plenty of blood. Loughran bled freely all through the fight from bad cuts, one over his left eye and the other in his scalp. Braddock was troubled by blood that streamed from a gash alongside his right eye.

A crowd of 25,000 saw the scrap with a "gate" in the neighborhood of $90,000. Loughran weighed 174 pounds; Braddock 170.

Dave Shade, California veteran, surprised the experts by punching his way to a decision over Rene Deros, crack Belgian middle weight in the ten round semi-final which was put on after the main bout. Each weighed 155.

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Tommy Loughran announced today that the light heavyweight throne was vacant and that he would seek the permission of various boxing commissions to campaign hereafter as a heavyweight.

Chinese Vice-Consul Feels Sure U. S. Charges Will be Dropped.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19. (UP)—Reservations for a sailing to China were made here today by Ying Kao, Chinese Vice-Consul to San Francisco recently recalled, and his wife, whose baggage from the Orient two weeks ago contained approximately $500,000 worth of opium.

The couple appeared to be so certain that charges of opium smuggling filed against them by United States authorities would be dropped because of their return to China that they secured accommodations on the liner Korea Maru, which sails from here for China, July 31.

Ying Kao and his wife have promised other leaders of the San Francisco chintown that they will go back to their native land before August 5 and face trial on charges similar to those brought against them here.

Preliminary hearing of Ying Kao, his wife and Sun Foon, chancellor of the Chinese consulate here who was arrested at the same time, has been continued until next Monday.
