PIONEER FEELS LIKE 'HITTING' OLD TRAIL NOW

"We 'old timers' who came to Oregon in the 70's had to be strong and husky because it was a pretty wild country in the early days. I came out in '79 and went into the lumber business. I could hold my own in those days with any lumber jack and it hit me mighty hard when I had to go on the sick list about five years ago.

"I had stomach trouble so bad it made me sick to even look at food. I had practically no appetite and was in such a nervous, run down condition I couldn't sleep. I also had rheumatism in my hips and legs. At times I would have bilious attacks and was constipated practically all the time.

"To look at me now you would never know I had a sick day. Sargon picked me right up and I feel right now like I could hit the Oregon trail again and hike with the best of 'em.

"The Sargon Soft Mass Pills are fine too. They put my liver in perfect order and rid me of constipation and biliousness."

Nicholas Wisner, retired lumberman, 204 Madison Ave., Portland, Oregon.

Sargon may be obtained in Klamath Falls from the Magill Drug Co.—Adv.

ROOSTERS WIN; CROWING AGAIN

GLENS FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 8.—Roosters of this vicinity may crow as long, loudly and early as they please, according to a recent decision of J. Ward Russell, city attorney, who was called upon to settle the matter.

Numerous residents had complained to the mayor that ambitious chanticleers continually disturbed their matutinal slumbers with lusty vocalizations. The birds were so noisy, particularly on cloudy days, the citizens claimed that they should be declared nuisances and done away with.

The mayor stated he had never heard of an ordinance for quieting roosters and consulted the city attorney. Russell decided there was nothing to be done about the fowls outside of using them for Sunday dinners or following the ancient maxim of "early to bed and early to rise."

A North Carolina editor walked down the street attired in pajamas. Ah! Another editorial exposure.

CLOUDBURSTS DESTROY LARGE ARIZONA DAM

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Aug. 8. (AP)—An 86-foot dam across the Virgin river near Littlefield, Ariz., was swept away late Monday by flood waters pouring out of the nearby mountains and large numbers of livestock were drowned, although ranchers in the valley escaped by fleeing to higher ground, it was learned here today.

The dam was under construction at the time and was about half completed. Approximately 15,000 acre feet of water had been impounded before the concrete wall burst and a wall of water swept over the valley.

Hogs and cattle grazing in the valley could not be driven to safety in time, however, and virtually all livestock in the vicinity was lost.

Mosquito, a small settlement near the dam, was flooded to a depth of five and one half feet, although buildings remained intact before the swirling waters.

The dam was owned by the Virgin Oil and Land company, a Los Angeles firm, and was planned to provide irrigation for the desert wastes near Littlefield.

Boy King's Newest Portrait

Here's a striking posed portrait of Rumania's boy King Michael and his mother, Princess Helena of Greece. It's the most recent picture of the child monarch who assumed the throne that was renounced by his father, Crown Prince Carol. Efforts of rival political factions to usurp the boy ruler in favor of his father's return to power have failed.
