Vicks Now Passes 26 Million Yearly

More and More Millions Follow Trend of Modern Medicine and Treat Colds Externally.

To keep pace with the ever-growing demand for Vicks Vapo Rub; the external treatment for colds, another increase is being made in the figure of the Vicks slogan, made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Only a short time ago, the well known "17 Million" was raised to "21 Million." Again this figure has been outgrown, and more and more people turn to this better way of treating colds. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

A generation ago, when Vicks was originated, the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers especially have appreciated this modern vaporizing ointment, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting children's delicate stomachs.

And so Vicks spread, until today it has become the family standby for colds—adults as well as children's—in more than 60 countries.—Adv.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE PELICAN

William Boyd as a talking picture star seems destined to eclipse even the great popularity of William Boyd as a star of the silent drama. Judging from advance reports on "High Voltage," Boyd's new Pathé dialogue attraction, which is at the Pelican theatre now.

"High Voltage" differs from the general run of talking pictures, it is said, in that it is primarily a good screen drama. With the addition of sound and dialogue it is hailed as "one hundred per cent entertainment" and William Boyd's deep, clear voice and southern drawl, has been termed by the critics as the outstanding discovery of the talking pictures.

"High Voltage" tells a dramatic story of six persons of widely different character and temperaments, who are marooned in a wayside chapel in the High Sierras, when the motor bus in which they are riding becomes snow-bound. One is a deputy sheriff, another is an underworld moll whom he has captured, while the others are a wealthy banker, a young girl who is hurrying east to be married, and an eternally optimistic bus driver.

These persons are thrown together in a mutual cause when they face starvation, but the loves and hates and weaknesses and strengths of each character is vividly brought to the fore through the unusual circumstances which surround them.

In "High Voltage," William Boyd appears in one of the virile roles for which he is famous, while Owen Moore, Carol Lombard, Diane Ellis, Billy Bevan, and Phillips Smalley are all said to exhibit their mastery of the new talking picture technique.

Howard Higgin directed "High Voltage" at the Pathe Studios and in the snow country of the High Sierras. Elliott Clawson wrote the story while James Gleason prepared the dialogue.

AT THE PINE TREE
The haunting beauty of the tropics, the grim drama of the islander against the complications of a white man's civilization and a love story, delicate as a jungle orchid... these are the ingredients that go into "The Pagan."

Ramon Novarro's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, a sound synchronized film in which Novarro sings "The Pagan Love Song," theme song of the production, now being shown at the Pine Tree theatre. This, incidentally, marks Novarro's debut in the talking screen, and is alone worth the price of admission.

Filmed in the South Seas, amid the gorgeous sunsets, blue waters and exotic greenery, the play is a vivid filmation of John Russell's famous novel and the film clings closely to the original book. W. S. VanDyke, well-known for his "White Shadows in the South Seas," directed this new production, and, it like the other, was filmed in actual tropical locations, amid the jungles on the islands of Polynesia.

Novarro plays a young islander, half native, who is pitted against the complications of the white man's civilization and laws. As the child of nature, with his vivid fight under water with the sharks, his canoe rides and other thrills, Novarro has the most strenuous of his roles since "Ben Hur," and the love story, worked out with himself and Dorothy Janis, is a most engrossing and appealing one.

Renee Adoree plays "Madge," the white adventures, rival of the native girl for the love of the youth, with a convincing appeal. Dorothy Janis, a newcomer, appears as the native sweetheart, and Donald Crisp as the domineering trader is Novarro's enemy.

AT THE LIBERTY
A two fisted, hard-riding Texas cowpuncher presented at the court of a European king and the resulting actions form the theme of "The Royal Rider" Ken Maynard's latest starring vehicle now showing at the Liberty theatre.

Alvania, a mythical kingdom somewhere in central Europe forms the background for one of the fastest, cleverest and the most thrilling motion picture Ken has ever appeared in.

"The Royal Rider" is strictly a Western picture but with different settings and theme. There are lavish sets, costumes and much opportunity for concentrated action.

The story tells of a troupe of American cowpunchers travelling through Europe with a Wild West show. They give a performance in Alvania, a small kingdom overrun with politics and anarchy. A boy king and an American girl are the central figures upon which the plot revolves and with a kingdom at stake there is plenty of fighting and action to be seen.

Ken and Tarzan are right in the midst of everything. The show that is staged for the king and his populace includes everything a western rodeo should have.

An able and capable cast are in support of Ken. It includes Olive Hasbrouck who plays the feminine lead, Phillip de Lacy as the boy king, Joseph Burke, Harry Semels, Billy Franey and Theodore Lorch.

AT THE ORPHEUS
Mary Astor, in one of her loveliest roles of the screen

NO MORE PILES
Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back Underwood's Pharmacy and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.—Adv.

comes to the Orpheus theatre Sunday and Monday in "Dry Martini." Co-starring with Miss Astor, is the well known Tom Moore. Don't miss this vivid drama.

Starting Sunday the new prices at the Orpheus will be twenty five cents for adults and ten cents for children.

AT THE VOX
A few years ago four Pennsylvania State college boys, Fred and Tom Waring, Fred Buck and "Poley" McClintock, got together and learned a few dance numbers. They played two dances, a piano and drums at their first dance at "Penn State" and displayed such pleasingly original style of dance music that this first engagement led to calls for many others.

Such was the humble beginning of the now famous "Waring's Pennsylvania," in the all-talker "Syncopeation," the RKO music comedy extravaganza coming to the Vox theatre for seven days, beginning today.

For seven years they have been record breaking engagements in the large motion picture houses. In addition to these appearances they have played in London, Berlin and Paris, and when they signed up to play for "Syn-
