

CLASSIFIED AD RATES

Per word each insertion, 2 cents; per week 10% discount; per two weeks 15% discount; per month 20% discount. All classified ads must be cash. Minimum advertisement 25 cents.

FOR SALE—Real Estate

PACIFIC TERRACE HOME

Well arranged floor plan of five rooms, hall, complete bath and two porches; front porch with good view; oak floors in all rooms except kitchen and bath; gum wood finish with buffet; full concrete basement; the heat of heating systems; cheerful fireplace in living room. In fact, a strictly modern home, completed about two months. Price $8500.

CHILCOTE & SMITH
REALTORS
727 Main. Phone 66
15-31

FOR RENT

FOR RENT—Nice bedroom, half block from Main. Phone 1935-W. 12-14

FOR RENT—Room, 338 N. 11th street. 15-21

FOR RENT—House; stores for sale. Phone 1151. 15-21

FOR RENT—Close in clean, comfortable sleeping rooms; hot and cold water, furnace heated, bath; fine view of city; good garage. Call at 521 Washington st., between 5 and 6. Phone 623-W. 10-15-31

WANTED

WANTED—Salesman to sell nursery stock in Southern Oregon for Klamath own nursery; hundreds of prospects, liberal commission. We teach you how to advance account if you need it; must have car and be able to give bond; knowledge of Klamath county essential. Nords Landscape Service. Phone 915-W. 12-14

WANT to borrow money on lots in Hot Springs; first mortgage. Phone 549-W. 15-21

WANTED—Employment by experienced stenographer, part time. Write Box 420, care Herald. 15-31

WANTED—Housework and care for children nights. Phone 1586-J. 15-21

STENOGRAPHIC position wanted by girl. Phone 1107-W. 15-31

WANTED—A high school girl. Call 405 High st. 15-31

FOR SALE

GET A GOOD CAR FOR A FEW DOLLARS

HOWIE MOTOR COMPANY has cut the prices on all used cars to a point that they must sell right now.

2 Ford Coupes—one with new paint and new rubber. Other in good condition.

1925 Maxwell touring, glass enclosure—just the car for hunting.

1929 Pontiac Roadster—Great bargain in this car.

1 Ford Runabout with Pickup Box.

1 Ford Roadster with Ruckstell Axle.

1 Star Touring with Glass Enclosure.

1 Spiffy Buick Roadster.

Call 379—Or, better yet, come and see these exceptional bargains. 11-61

FOR SALE—1924 Nash; must be sold; a real sacrifice; party leaving town. Inquire 1746 Menlo way. Phone 426-J. 15-21

FOR SALE—Live muskrats, large Northern Muskrat units, per pair, f. o. b. Klamath Falls. Write Oscar J. Streeter, P. O. Box 1052. 16-61

FOR SALE—Spanish sweet onions, 50 lbs. $1.25. Call Hot Springs hotel. 15-12

FOR SALE—Four-room modern house; basement, garage, paved street. 1616 Portland st. 14-61

FOR SALE—Modern 5-room residence, full basement, sun porch; furnace, garage; good location; $5500, part terms. 3-room house, Hot Springs addition. Both a bargain. Inquire of owner. Phone 883-W. 15-31

FOR SALE—Four-room furnished house with bath, basement, electric stove and hot water heater; large corner lot with lawn and trees. Price $2500, easy terms. 1882 Academy st. Phone 441-J. 14-31

MISCELLANEOUS

DUCKS and GERSE can be picked at Palace Meat Market, 15c and 25c, by Eads. 11-61

GOOD opportunity for public stenographer. Phone 442. 14-31

WILL BUY ten or a dozen young cows and heifers. Give price and description in letter to Box 714, care Herald. 12-51

1924 CHEVROLET, 4 Pass. Coupe, in good running order; good tires; license. Priced under $500.00. Buick Garage, Phone 42. 15-31

IF YOU HAVE any money at all, you cannot afford to be without a car at the prices we are quoting this week. Come and see. Buick Garage, Phone 42. 15-31

NEW TODAY

FOR RENT—Steam heated bedroom, suitable for three, gentlemen preferred; outside entrance. 325 N. 6th. 15-11

FOR RENT—Strictly modern 6-room house, close in; good location. Call 678. 16-41

FOR RENT—Sleeping rooms, garage; close in. 533 N. 9th. 16-21

FOR RENT—Unfurnished modern 3-room, breakfast nook, garage. $32.50. Inquire 624 Mitchell. 16-21

FOR RENT—A room suitable for one or two; garage included. Call 950. 16-11

FOR RENT—Four-room furnished flat. 825 Lincoln st. 16-31

FOR RENT—Clean furnished apt., adults. 419 N. 10th. 16-41

FOR RENT—Nice sleeping room, adjoining bath; suitable for one or two ladies or a married couple. Call 865 after 4 p. m. 16-11

FOR RENT—Two-room apt., no children. Inquire 806 Oak st. 16-11

FIFTY head aged ewes for sale or trade, cheap. Box 24, Braymill, Ore. 16-41

WILL SHARE expense trip to The Dalles, Ore. Phone 248-R after 6 p. m. 16-11

FIRST-CLASS dressmaker and tailor. Call Mrs. Spencer, 123-W. 125 N. 5th. 16-51

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for Klamath County.

In the Matter of the Estate of Charles Williams, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that I have been appointed administrator of the estate of Charles Williams, deceased, and that all persons having claims against said estate are required to present them, with the proper vouchers, to me at my office in the Williams building, Klamath Falls, Oregon, within six months of the date of this notice.

Dated October 9, 1929.

WILLIAM GANONG, Administrator of Said Estate.

09.16.29, 30-N-6

NOTICE TO CREDITORS Notice is hereby given that I, the undersigned, Antonio Pospisil, have been appointed executor of the estate of Joseph F. Pospisil, deceased, and have qualified. That all persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to present the same to me, with proper vouchers attached, within six months from October 9, 1929, at the office of D. E. Van Vactor, attorney at law, 601-3, Williams building, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

ANTONIO POSPISIL, Executor.

09.16.29, 30-N-6

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR Notice is hereby given that Otto Schoenfeld has been by the county court appointed administrator of the estate of Amelia Schoenfeld, deceased, and has duly qualified as such. All persons having claims against said estate are hereby notified to present same to said administrator, duly verified as by law required, at the office of A. L. Leavitt, at room 12, Melrose building, attorney for said administrator, within six months from date hereof.

Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, October 2, 1929.

OTTO SCHOENFELD, Administrator of the estate of Amelia Schoenfeld, deceased.

02.9.16.29

Vitamins have been found to hash, according to a dispatch, but it isn't said whether or not someone cracked his teeth on some of them.

Business Locals

6% Money—On approved loans. See Jas. H. Driscoll, Williams Bldg.—ad. 11

R. N. A.—Carnival dance Thursday, 17th, At Oriental Gardens. Everybody welcome. 14-41

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE PINE TREE

New York's underworld, that region of shadowed sin whose nightly exploits in crime outstrip the inventions of fiction, is the background of Dolores Costello's new starring vehicle, "Tenderloin," which comes to the Pine Tree commencing today.

Crook dramas are the latest craze of popular fancy, and as a background for the emotional talents of the gifted Dolores Costello, a gripping, swift-moving drama is promised by Warner Brothers, who produced "Tenderloin" from an original story by Melville Cressman, E. T. Lowe, Jr., doing the scenario.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the average motion picture. But it was nevertheless very successful.

King selected Eleanor Board-

man to portray the role of Jean Morant, the featured feminine player in the cast. Jean Morant is a very distinctive character in that her wealth, social distinction and prestige in the small town wherein she resides mark her an individual of unusual interest.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the average motion picture. But it was nevertheless very successful.

King selected Eleanor Board-

man to portray the role of Jean Morant, the featured feminine player in the cast. Jean Morant is a very distinctive character in that her wealth, social distinction and prestige in the small town wherein she resides mark her an individual of unusual interest.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the average motion picture. But it was nevertheless very successful.

King selected Eleanor Board-

man to portray the role of Jean Morant, the featured feminine player in the cast. Jean Morant is a very distinctive character in that her wealth, social distinction and prestige in the small town wherein she resides mark her an individual of unusual interest.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the average motion picture. But it was nevertheless very successful.

King selected Eleanor Board-

man to portray the role of Jean Morant, the featured feminine player in the cast. Jean Morant is a very distinctive character in that her wealth, social distinction and prestige in the small town wherein she resides mark her an individual of unusual interest.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the average motion picture. But it was nevertheless very successful.

King selected Eleanor Board-

man to portray the role of Jean Morant, the featured feminine player in the cast. Jean Morant is a very distinctive character in that her wealth, social distinction and prestige in the small town wherein she resides mark her an individual of unusual interest.

In her own social set she reigns as queen and is looked upon by her townfolk as about the very highest type of young woman. But there are occasions when she does display what might be a trace of snobbishness.

Then, too, when she undertakes to enter war work, another of her personal traits reveals itself and so on until the spectator is permitted to catalogue her entire personality.

John Holland, leading man for Miss Boardman who plays the role of Pike, is practically new to the screen. In him, King saw the typical American leading man. Holland has a personality that reflects from the screen and "smacks" the spectator right in the eyes—and his role is one that is marked with many touches of "humanness."

AT THE LIBERTY

Jocelyn Lee knows what I mean. Jocelyn has slender ankles, and because of them, is now well on the road to screen fame. Jack Nelson, one of the stellar lights of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation directorial staff, was recently searching for a pair of ankles for an important part in "Say It With Diamonds," Betty Compson's newest picture, at the Liberty theatre now.

Of course, Jack wanted a girl with these ankles, but the ankles came first. A most important episode of this Arthur Gregor story centers about the measuring of said ankles for a diamond anklet. And ankles that are measured on the screen must be well worth the measuring. Jocelyn's are! That's one of the reasons—or, should I say, two of the reasons—that she got the part.

AT THE ORPHEUS

For smiles and chuckles and a polite gasp or two, we heartily recommend Betty Compson in "Say It With Diamonds," at the Orpheus theatre now.

You will be pleasantly shocked, too, when Earl Williams, in the role of the doting husband, so far forgets himself as to measure a lady's ankle for an anklet. Or, if you are quite modern you will be shocked, on the other hand, to learn that a wife in this day and age should object to such an indulgence.

AT THE VOX

"Mamas" is in town, after just completing a most successful run at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco at $1.50 price. If you miss it you have only yourself to blame.

"Mamas" will be shown at the Vox theatre starting today, until next Thursday.

AT THE PELICAN

In casting for "She Goes to War" at the Pelican theatre now, Henry King had in mind but one idea. He would cast his people for the production from the ranks of screen players—but he would cast them first from the angle of the individual performance for each role.

This naturally necessitated much more time and care than is necessary for the