GOITRE PROBLEM NOW SOLVED

Swollen Glands Reduced Without Operation.

The above statement is not exaggerated, or extravagant by any means, but simply conveys to you just what vast numbers of people say. The claims made in behalf of Chiropractic adjustments are founded upon results, consequently we have no hesitancy in setting forth facts.

Goitre

There are probably few conditions that present a greater degree of discomfort and fear in the minds of both men and women than Goitre, or enlargement of the thyroid gland.

The gland is situated at the base of the neck, attached to the upper rings of the trachea. It is lobed, connected by a smaller lobe called the isthmus. All of which is covered by a very thin connective areolar tissue which sends in its fibres, sub-dividing the gland into regular masses. The gland is supplied by a dense plexus of capillaries and nerve fibres.

There are many kinds of incalculable affecting the thyroid gland and have been named as follows: Fibrous Goitre, Parenchymatous Goitre, Cystic Goitre, Vascular Goitre and Exophthalmic Goitre. In the Parenchymatous form the enlargement is smooth, affecting a part or all of the gland. This is simply a condition where in there are more cells being developed than are needed. The Fibrous Goitre is usually large in size and is hard, nodular—being composed of connective tissue.

Cystic Goitre—There is a distention of the follicles with a fluid, and usually presents a small or large, round swelling. Vascular Goitre—Due to the distention of the blood vessels and a hyperemic condition of the gland, resulting from the lack of proper motor function in the blood vessel walls, permitting them to lose their elasticity.

Chiropractic

Bear in mind that every organ in your body has a definite duty and in order to be healthy we must have these organs, and they in turn, must be healthy to function properly.

All forms of goitres are quite familiar to the Chiropractor for the reason that people who have them have tried nearly every other method of having them removed.

Your Chiropractor will make a digital examination of your spine and after having located the cause of the goitre, adjusts it, and the large neck will be seen to gradually return to its normal shape and size.

Pressure on Nerves Causes Goitre. The Chiropractor with his skilled sense of touch locates the cause of disease. The cause is due to the nerves being pressed upon, over which flows a current of life force from the brain to the gland. This nerve originates in the brain and follows down the spinal cord through the spinal column. The spinal column is composed of small bones (vertebrae) that are movable, and the nerve trunks pass out from the spinal cord through small openings between these little bones (vertebrae).

These small bones slip out of their regular positions and press upon the nerve trunks, and this pressure decreases or cuts off the normal life force upon which the thyroid gland is dependent in order to be healthy and function properly. When the pressure is removed from the nerve trunk by Chiropractic adjustments, the gland returns to normal.

You may consider that these statements regarding Chiropractic adjustments are strong and emphatic, but our success with goitres, as well as other forms of disease which baffled other methods of healing, entirely warrant our emphasis.

When you place your case in the hands of a Chiropractor it will be one of the best investments you have ever made. You are not going to experience the slightest ill effects and everything is in your favor. Many people have been carried to the great beyond because they did not know of, or try, Chiropractic adjustments. It is a great loss to anyone not to be familiar with the greatest method of relieving the ills of suffering humanity—the science which thousands upon thousands have so judiciously chosen to fortify themselves against disease; the method that brings the desired results—Chiropractic Adjustments.

Car Crash Claims Victim Near Eugene

JUNCTION CITY, Ore., Nov. 15 (AP)—Byron Pettit, 22, was killed, and his sister, Ruby, 18, was seriously injured today when two automobiles smashed together in a dense fog. Albert Pettit, 21, was slightly hurt.

The party was on the way to the football game at Eugene. Albert was driving, and Byron had his head out of the window helping direct the course through a heavy fog. He called to the driver that a car was approaching, and Albert slammed on the brakes.

The Pettit machine hit the other car broadside. Byron Pettit was a former Oregon State student, and well known in amateur wrestling circles.

Nelson Leases More Property

Showing his faith in Klamath avenue property, H. E. Nelson, for several years a very successful used car dealer and now organizer of the Klamath Finance corporation, took a lease Saturday from the Beardsley ownership of a 40-foot lot on the south side of Klamath avenue, next to Little Parts store, for a period of three years.

Mr. Nelson insisted on the lease carrying an option to buy the land during the leasing period, which was granted. He will begin, in a few days, to erect an office on the lot to be used for the finance company, and the space not covered will continue to be used for the used car business.
