The Malin football team journeyed over to Alturas last Saturday where they were defeated by a score of 46 to 0. The Modocs went over the goal line seven times and made four extra points. They went down the field with long end runs and long passes.

This game was the last game for both the Modoc and Malin teams this season.

Substitutes: William Streeter, James Bradshaw, Delmer Williamson, Edwin Stastney and Enoch Petrasek.

Forest Pictures Show Students At High School

A moving picture show was put on at Malin high school last week by Mr. Fuller and Mr. Griffith of the National Forestry Service.

The show was to teach the students how to prevent forest fires. It was a two-reel show. The first reel was named "Indian Campfires." This part was to show how the Indians took care of the forests and were careful with fires. They used the forest and mountains as a place for hunting and recreation. Then the white man came in. He was careless with fires and burned up large areas of national forests which would be used in the present and future years.

The second reel was named "Why" and after it was shown the students found out why. It showed how man was careless and is careless with camp fires, cigars and matches. It was also shown how fires ruined forests, places for recreation and homes of wild animals.

Next they showed some stereopticon slides of forests, flowers and mountain scenery of the northwest which the students enjoyed and were convinced by Mr. Fuller and Mr. Griffith that they should help prevent forest fires.

Grade Pupils Appear in Play

The Malin grade school put on a play called "Trip Around the World" at the Malin Gymnasium Friday night at 8:30.

It was a very novel system of entertainment, as the actors transported the audience to each of the various countries of the world and gave a brief imitation of the customs of each country.

The program was well given, and was well worth the time and trouble spent on it.

EDITORIAL

FORESTRY PROTECTION

The two-reel show and the lantern slides which were shown by the National Forestry Service illustrated how carelessness can destroy millions of dollars worth of timber in about two seconds.

Can this loss be carelessness or is it lessened? It can be, if you students, who have seen this show, only remember the great disasters you can prevent by bettering those that do not know better these simple methods of protection.

The most important are: Completely putting out your campfires; building and safe methods of proper fire and breaking your cigar or cigarette. If it is too hard for them to do, they should buy themselves an automatic cigarette lighter. You yourself should be careful to follow out those instructions fully when on your own camp-trip which might take you through some of our valuable timber lands.

Surely you must have noticed how much a place denuded of green trees greatly improves the scenery. Pictures were shown of the same place before and after a fire disaster.

Will the law have to compel the campers to keep out of the forests, where the most beautiful scenes and the best picnic grounds are? The government does not want to do such a thing but it will be necessary if a small thing like carelessness is going to get the best of us, our future, our community and also our forests.

Let us from now on do our best to change carelessness into carefulness and prevent great losses that come up to millions yearly.

HELP GIVE A GOOD OPINION

School and other social affairs will soon be coming thick and fast. While in Kalina's store a socially prominent lady was heard to make this remark: "The only thing I am dreadin' is the manner in which certain young people act at social doings."

Why is there any need for "certain young people" to have such a reputation that their appearance is one to be dreaded at social affairs?

There is no need, and the fact that there are such people is a distinct shame to the community.

At most doings held in Malin's Community hall the young folks sit in the balcony or in the raised seats in the back of the hall. Is it altogether necessary that the floor in that vicinity be littered with peanut shells, or that all the wise-cracks, gum-cracking, paper spitball throwing and most disturbances come from those sections.

The young people of today are the social people of tomorrow, and such action by them does not speak too well of the community.

Citizens of the community know these "cutups" personally, and can make allowances for their escapades, but new comers can not.

Let us think of the public opinion. We do not want the country to have a poor opinion of our community, so let us try our best to give them a good one.

Reception Held For New Minister

A reception was given last Wednesday night in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Dennis, the new minister of Malin. Mr. Dennis and his family just recently moved to Malin from Albany, Oregon.

A short program was given. Mr. Sanders and Mr. Jewel gave speeches of welcome. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

JOKES

Salvation Nell: "Do you want to join the Salvation Army?"

Louis Kalina: "Who are they fighting?"

Mr. Smith: "If you wanted to go swimming, why didn't you come and ask me first?"

Wayne: "Because I wanted to go swimming."

The teacher was giving the geography class a lesson in geography. Turning to one student he inquired:

"What do elephants have that no other animals have?"

"Little elephants," was the surprising reply.

Mr. Kamarad: "How is your boy getting along in school?"

Mr. Kandra: "Fine! He plays halfback on the football team and is all the way back in his studies."

MALIN SCHOOL TO GIVE PLAY

The people of Malin are anxiously awaiting the presentation of the three-act farce, "Fixing It For Father," at the Malin gymnasium this Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The play deals with the trials of John Kladon, professor of a very prominent western college. The complications will cause many laughs and will afford those that attend an hilarious evening.

The cast, under the direction of Miss Judy, is meeting at the Malin gymnasium for practice every night this week. The work being put on it assures a success.

Richard Jackman has the leading role of Prof. Kladon. His daughter, Beatrice and Elinor, are played by Anna Zumr and Ethel Kamarad. Frank Kamarad and Mervyn Wilde play opposite the two girls and are known in the play as Harry and Jack (at least part of the time).

The other characters in the cast are:

Dick Canard, George Havlina; Emma Blanchard, Helen Honzig; William Merton, Louis Kalina; Harold Merton, Claude Layman; Fanchon La Voude, Carrie Kucera; Aunt Liza, Emma Kalina.

Enoch Petrasek has been selected as the important promoter and Claude Layman the business manager.

Basketball Teams Start Practice

As the last football game of the season was with Alturas last Saturday, the boys will start practicing basketball this week.

The prospects for the team this year are much better than in the past. There are four lettermen back this year who were on the team last year. They are: Frank Kamarad, George Havlina, Louis Kalina and Mervyn Wilde.

If Malin wins the championship this year the cup will stand for its second year on the piano in the assembly. The boys are determined to get the cup again.

BROOK TROUT SUPPLY SHOWS GOOD GROWTH

No Decline In Game Fish Visible At This Time.

There'll be no decline of the Eastern Brook trout population in Oregon's diversified lakes and rivers. That assurance was voiced recently by Matt Ryckman, superintendent of hatcheries for the state game commission, after he had received an official report from the director of the Fall River hatchery, which showed 6,000,000 eggs on hand so far, with good prospects for the next two or three weeks.

A crew of four men, under P. E. Lynes, manager of the Fall River hatchery, has been working in East lake, 50 miles southeast of Bend, in taking eggs, which eventually become the fighting game fish distributed throughout the state. The lake serves as a vast breeding ground, and the new hatchery as a huge incubating plant.

More Eggs to Be Taken
More eggs will be taken in East lake this year than ever before, according to Ryckman, and the new hatchery, only three-quarters completed now, will be taxed to the limit to take care of the millions of fingerlings.

This Fall River hatchery, constructed at a cost of $15,000 on Fall river, which is a shallow, sand-bottomed stream, ideally situated. It is the most modern, and eventually, with the addition of ponds next spring, will be the largest trout propagating station of the commission. Despite the fact that it is still under construction, operations have progressed rapidly. The entire "take" of Eastern Brook trout, which will exceed 12,000,000, which will be parceled out in almost every suitable stream in the state, will be taken care of in that plant.

Water of Even Temperature
On account of the even temperature of the spring water in the ponds and the river, there will be no danger of loss of either fish or eggs on account of cold weather, says Superintendent Ryckman. A temperature of 5 degrees below zero was recorded there last week, with no damage to the plant or any half-kg of operations.

The taking of brook trout eggs in Oregon will be confined entirely to East lake in the future, according to Ryckman. A step in that direction was made this year by cutting off Elk lake from the list of breeding grounds, principally because of the worms there, and secondarily on account of the disadvantages of the work at that station in comparison with East lake. Some day the take will be increased to probably twice what it is today, says Superintendent Ryckman.

Mr. Kay's Health Reported Improved

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 21. (AP)—State Treasurer T. B. Kay, who recently underwent a second surgical operation at the Salem General hospital, has returned to his home. He is reported by his physician to be progressing toward good health, and is no longer confined to his bed.

Mr. Kay became ill last summer while in Europe and was in a serious condition when he returned to the United States.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21. (AP)—A revision of the increased rates recently granted the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph commission was sought by the city of San Francisco, contending in its petition the rates will give the company a 7 per cent instead of a 6 1/3 or customary return of its investment.
