Finance Committee Is Favorable To Measure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7, (AP)—The senate finance committee today reported favorably on the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution.

The resolution, previously approved by the house, proposes a one per cent reduction in the tax rates on individual and incorporation incomes.

Moe's Award 3 Prizes for Baby Show Donations

Announcement of the three prizes awarded in Moe's Baby Show, which attracted so much attention, was made known this morning. The prizes were classified in three divisions.

For the oldest contribution, Mrs. Francis R. Olds was given the prize. Mrs. Olds submitted a little linen fluted bonnet, 112 years old, which had been worn by her grandfather Shaw in England in 1817. The bonnet is probably older, but it cannot be determined.

For the most unusual piece shown, Mrs. M. J. Hank of 825 High street, was given the prize. This was a clever tiny blue taffeta blouse, which was made by Madam Stephano in Portland in the year 1886.

For the largest number of articles sent in to the show Mrs. William F rd of 733 Plum street was also given a prize. Mrs. Ford sent in six bonnets, made by her grandmother, Janet Ross, in Weskilbride, Scotland, 85 years ago. She also sent in a christening robe, made of Limerick Irish lace in Ireland more than 30 years ago and worn by Janet Ross Ford. A shirt, part of the christening robe, was also an article of Mrs. Ford's contribution, which also included two white dresses which were made in Saltcoats, Scotland, for Mrs. Ford's children. Mrs. Ford has been in this country for 18 years and cherishes her collection of articles which were on display at Moe's.

Many prizes and boxes of Klamath Netted Gems were distributed at the dance. Prizes were given which conformed with the farm aspect of the dance and consisted of chickens, potatoes and other fram products.

and more modern structure to contain 2500 rooms. The old building was erected 12 years ago. This is a sample of the progress in Cleveland and other large cities of the east and middit west.

Southwest Prosperous

The return trip was made through the southwest where once again Mr. Schmid was astonished at the apparent prosperity.

It is the conclusion of the Langell man, after passing through some of the big agricultural states, that conditions are more favorable to successful farming here in the Klamath basin than many of the places visited. Consequently, he and Mrs. Schmid are glad to be home.

Friends Ask Pardon For Henry Bergman

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 7, (AP)—Ex-sheriff Taylor and Jack Magladry of Eugene headed a delegation waiting on Governor Patterson yesterday asking for the pardon of Henry Bergman, who is serving a 13-year penitentiary sentence for embezzling funds of the Florence State bank, of which he was president.

The committee brought numerous letters and a petition signed, the governor said, by many of the most prominent people in Lane county. He indicated that he would not act on the request immediately, since he wants to confer with the state banking department, the Lane county district attorney and the judge who conducted the trial.

Harriet Weatherson, cashier of the bank, was also convicted and sentenced to serve seven years, she was paroled several months ago. Bergman would be eligible for parole in July, 1931.

Pilot Makes Safe Landing By 'Chute

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 7 (AP)—After his airplane had plunged 1,000 feet and later crashed on the outskirts of Portland, O. G. Barnum, pilot for the Gardner flying service, floated to the ground by parachute and today was alive to tell his story.

Barnum, flying a plane in test maneuvers, said the plane went into a tailspin at an altitude of 2,000 feet. He said that while the plane was spinning toward earth at a rapid rate of speed, he adjusted his parachute and leaped.

He struck the ground a few minutes after the plane piled up in a berry patch, wrecked beyond repair.

The pilot escaped injuries. Tex Rankin, a member of the board of aeronautical control, said the plane had been questioned and was being given test flights.

STORES SCORE NEW TRIUMPH

find their ways into someone's Christmas stocking.

Probably the most noticeable and beautiful decoration on the street was the tall, symmetrical evergreen in front of the California-Oregon Power company, glittering with lights of every color, and festooned with strand after strand of silver tinsel.

Ideas Are Many

Each store, men's shops, women's shops, candy shops, drug stores, shoe stores, grocery stores, jewelry stores, and all the rest, had set out to be viewed by the public many of their choicest gift suggestions. In decorations Christmas trees vied with fireplaces, and tiny electric lights with the glimmer of artificial snow everywhere.

One of the most effective window decorations was a moonlight scene with a snow-field background, and Santa Claus driving his reindeer toward the moon, dropping packages backwards as his sleigh descended into the deep blueness of a winter sky.

Use Modernistic Art

One grocery store had a Christmas dinner table arranged, with a luscious looking spiced ham as a centerpiece. All had tempting arrangements of fruits, candies and nuts.

Another store had a clever trellis arrangement as a background for a display of toys, furniture and glowing-lamps.

Many of the merchants had brought out the popular modernistic idea in decorating their windows and arranging their displays.

The top of a marquise of a large department store was converted into a miniature forest with small evergreens standing about, many of them lighted with red bulbs.

Main Street Crowded

The main city thoroughfare was burdened with an air of festivity, not only by the lingering, merry-making crowd, but also by hundreds of red and green lights making streaks of color back and forth along the street, and the scores of Christmas trees nested along the curbs.

Nearly every person carried a handful of tickets which have been given away with merchandise the past week and were checking the numbers displayed on the many gifts.

Deputies Start To Salem With Three

any ships to stand by and the coast guard stations were asked to send aid, but the seas were so high that it was impossible to get lifeboats out.

Lifeboats Helpless

Coast guardsmen on shore saw the Radyr battle with the gale and then settled down and disappear with help at hand. A second S O S said that the crew were taking to the boats, but nothing was seen after the ship disappeared. Messages were sent to nearby steamers to pick up the survivors, but it was feared that lifeboats could not live in the tempestuous seas.

As the day wore on the list of vessels in distress continued to grow until there was at least a score reported in dangerous straits. Many of the ships were British, but the list included Norwegian, Butch, Hungarian, Spanish, French and Italian vessels.

Somewhere in the Bay of Biscay or the outer channel the treasure ship Leonardo da Vinci, from Italy with pictures valued at $70,000,000 in her hold, was believed making her way through the stormswept seas to England, where the pictures are to be put on exhibition.

Each day the ship has been sending a wireless message on her progress, and at 8 o'clock last evening reported she had passed Gibraltar, making good speed. Up to midday today her usual message had not been received, and it was awaited with some anxiety, in view of the weather and the precious nature of the ship's cargo.

Haitien Bands Engage U. S. Forces In Minor Battle.

President Hoover dealing with the situation was being read to the house. They were drawn from naval bases, principally Quantico, Va., and started on their journey last night.

President Hoover did not mention the number of additional troops necessary to deal with the disturbed situation which had its origin in a strike of students and resulted in the killing of five Haitians and the wounding of twenty others yesterday in the battle with marines at Aux Cayes.

Asks for Gunboat.

Secretary Stimson, however, placed the number at 500, and in addition, said Brig. Gen. Russell, the American high commissioner had asked that the cruiser Galveston be sent from Guantanamo to Port Au Prince.

While the commissioner reported that all was not quiet at Aux Cayes, he disclosed he had arranged for the evacuation of American women and children from the port today by steamer.

The secretary of state described the situation in Haiti as "distressing," but added that it would be dealt with in the light of full publicity. Mr. Hoover in his message reviewed events leading up to the disturbances and emphasized the importance of investigation he desired.
