"Why, yes. Yes!"

There were traces of rosy color rising in Arthur Knight's cheeks. He looked away from the girl, clasped his hands together on his desk and then looked back at her again.

"Yes. I wanted to see you," he said slowly. "I wanted to ask you, Miss Cameron, if you would do me the honor of taking dinner with me."

Meetings Continue Through Holidays

Right over the holidays a great revival of the Old time religion of power is in progress at the new Klamath Temple at the corner of Eighth and Oak streets. Evangelist Meyers is preaching every night to good sized audiences, and God is blessing the services. New Year's eve, was one of the greatest services ever witnessed by the people of Klamath Temple. Beginning at eight o'clock the service continued with great interest for almost six hours, over the mid-night hour until almost two a. m. Wednesday morning, and then the crowd hesitated to depart to their respective homes.

These meetings have been in progress for almost four weeks, and will continue until next Thursday, when the Meyers evangelistic party will leave for Eugene for a great campaign in that city at Lighthouse Temple. Tonight Rev. Meyers will speak on the topic, "How to receive The Baptism of The Holy Spirit." The general public is cordially invited to enjoy these services.

NEW DUCK HAVEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—There's a haven for wild ducks near the Washington monument. Driven by hunters' guns from the Potomac marshes, where they like to eat wild cherry, they are flocking to the tidal basin, lured by food scattered there by order of Colonel U. S. Grant, 3rd.
