PRIMO SCORES KNOCKOUT IN FIRST ROUND

Requires Only 47 Seconds To Put Canadian On Canvas to Stay.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's big muscle man, today was the tentative holder of a 47-second knockout over Eliezer Rixou, French-Canadian heavyweight—a conquest which will not become official, nor will the boxers receive any money for their chore, until the Illinois state boxing commission is convinced the contest was "genuine."

Rixou Down Six Times
The unveiling of Primo before Chicago eyes, and the attendant ceremony, was quickly accomplished at the Chicago stadium last night. During the 47 seconds of action in the first round, Carnera knocked the French-Canadian to the floor six times, the last time leaving him there, apparently thoroughly chilled with his chin snuggled in the canvas. While no definite charges of anything wrong were made, Frederick Gardner, a member of the athletic commission, announced the purses of both fighters would be held up pending an investigation into the match.

Spectators Angry
After Referee Barry had tolled off the count of ten following the sixth knockdown, the spectators, 17,349, who left $59,825 at the stadium ticket window, booed and hurled folded newspaper and programs into the ring to express their disapproval. Rixou was guaranteed $3,000 for his share of the entertainment, while Carnera's cut amounted to about $17,000.

Canadian Nervous
Rixou spotted the Italian Goliath 63 1-4 pounds, and appeared to be extremely nervous as he entered the ring. Primo opened up with a left hook which shook Rixou. Then followed a series of smashes, each of which was good for a knockdown. Rixou took a count of one on a right to the hand; and the next blow, a left to the back of Eliezer's head, sent him sprawling between Carnera's legs. Three vicious-looking rights accounted for three more bounces by Rixou before a final right finished him.

Didn't Land a Punch
Rixou did not land a punch during the brief encounter—in fact he did not even attempt to throw a glove at Primo. His defense appeared to be based on the premise that he was safest while on the canvas.

Both Carnera and his manager, Leon Cie, were vehemently indignant at the action of Commissioner Gardner. Cie declared that the connection of Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, with Carnera's retinue, had no significance except that he was a boxing instructor. Attell's association with the party previously had been questioned.

Semi-Final Hot
The semi-final bout between King Tut, of Minneapolis, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., negro lightweight, went the limit and resulted in a decision for the rugged Minneapolis puncher. He knocked Flowers down twice for counts of nine in the seventh round but Flowers rallied gamely in the last two rounds to outbox Tut. It was the second meeting, the last one ending in a great draw.

There occasionally crops up a dash of romance in the old game in spite of the modern era of big business efficiency in baseball ushered in by the advent of Judge Landis. Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the four colorful ball players in the game today, the others being Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson and Art Shires, is back in Philadelphia again, where he pitched his greatest ball and saw his greatest triumph.

Elks' Team Lead Fraternal League

In the Fraternal League's second week's bowling schedule Elks No. 2 took 3 out of 4 points from the Moose; Orangutangs broke even with the Redmen, and Elks No. 1 took all 4 points from American Legion.

Yester's 255 in the first game with the help of Hayden's 299 gave the Elks' No. 1 a handsome 529 score. Rice of the Orangutangs bowled 261 in his first stanza, but oh what a drop, 98 in his second, but came back to earth with 176. L. Baldwin of the Moose team got dizzy in the second and the scorekeeper gave him 212 for his pains.

SINGER SCORES VICTORY OVER TOUGH CHILEAN

Takes Eight Out of Ten Rounds in Slam Bang Battle.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—One more victory has been added today to the already imposing record of Al Singer, Bronx idol, who some experts believe will be the next lightweight champion of the world.

Singer belted out an easy decision victory over Stanislaus Loayza, rugged Chilean, in a slam-bang battle in Madison Square Garden last night.

18,000 Fans Present
Eighteen thousand fans gave Loayza a tremendous ovation as he left the ring after an exhibition of gameness seldom equalled here before. There was no question, however, as to the decision. Singer won eight of the ten rounds, Loayza one, the tenth, and the second was even.

Almost Scores Kayo
Singer gave the Chilean a terrific lacing and nearly knocked him out in the third and sixth rounds. In the third the Bronx youngster floored Loayza for a count of nine with a hard smash to the jaw. Another flurry of right hand jolts had the Chilean staggering in the sixth but Singer could not floor him again. Loayza rallied in brilliant fashion in the tenth round and had Singer worried with a half dozen left hooks and right crosses to the chin but the New Yorker boxed his way out of difficulty.

Singer weighed 134 1-2; Loayza 136 1-2.

Grimes Dislikes Wife's Conduct; Seeks Separation

CANTON, O., Feb. 1. (AP)—Judge Harvey F. Lake today ordered Burleigh A. Grimes brought suit for divorce from his wife on the charge she interfered with his profession, charging that she insisted upon accompanying him to training camps in violation of his league baseball rules.

Walsh Was Great Pitcher, But Lefty Grove Hurlled One of the Greatest Pinch Games Evans Ever Saw

By Billy Evans

Great pitchers are usually at their best in the old pinch. They used to say of the old master, Christy Mathewson, that no pitcher was easier to hit with the bases empty and none tougher with a couple of runners on and the game depending on a base hit. What held good for Matty is true of all other great pitchers—they have something in reserve for the pinch. That is what makes them great.

Ed Walsh, famous spitball pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, liked nothing better than to pitch himself out of deep holes. Over a period of perhaps 10 years, I think I am conservative in saying that I have seen Walsh do the seemingly impossible at least 50 times. In a sudden, when a base hit would have meant ruin to his team.

Looking toward the Chicago bench I saw Ed Walsh place a slippery elm tablet in his mouth and take a drink of water. That was Walsh's method to get up quite a flow of saliva. He started for the pitcher's box, removing his sweater. He threw five balls, then went to work. Walsh pitched just 10 balls to retire the next three batters on strikes.

At seven of the pitches the hitters swung and missed, two were called strikes and one a ball. Not so much as a foul was made. However, for the greatest concentrated exhibition of pinch hitting I have ever seen, I need only go back to the season of 1929. I was a spectator. Philadelphia and Cleveland were the opposing teams. The starting pitching selections were Miller for Cleveland and Grove for the Athletics. Hudlin was the finishing pitcher for the Indians, but Grove went all the way.

Going into the eighth inning, Philadelphia was leading 3-2. Two hits and an error filled the bases with no one out. This seemed to be the turning point of the game. It was Walter Miller's turn at bat. Peck had Hudlin warm up and sent Harley to bat for Miller. He forced Hodapp at the plate. Morgan sent a sacrifice fly to right, sending over for Cleveland and Grove for the all again filled the bases, but Averill filed out.

For the next eight innings both Grove and Hudlin pitched runless ball. Grove was always in trouble, Hudlin seldom. Yet in the 17th inning, a home run broke up the ball game, Philadelphia winning, 5-3.

In the 17th inning of play, Cleveland made 29 hits. Grove gave four bases on balls, also contributed the only error of the game, yet Cleveland could only make three runs and did not score after the eighth inning. A hit on eight occasions would have won the ball game, but it was never forthcoming. Joe Sewell made five hits in eight times at bat. On the three were on the bases each time, trips that he failed, runners Earl Averill had several chances to break up the game, but Grove was too much.

Cleveland had 23 men left on the bases. Philadelphia had only eight runners stranded. The Athletics made 13 hits count for five runs.

Grove had terrific speed that day, yet the Indians hit him hard in spots. With men on the bases, he was invincible. I think I fell out of my seat a half dozen times that afternoon pulling for a hit that never came. It was the most remarkable exhibition of effectiveness in the pinches I have ever seen.

TOMORROW: The most courageous pitching I ever saw.
