Debate Teams are Preparing Work

Malin has four points in their favor, Merrill three, and Bonanza two.

The question for debate was: Resolved, that inter-scholastic athletics are over-emphasized in colleges. This proves to be a very interesting question that interests the public. Large crowds attended all the debates in all the places. Malin is in the lead and hopes to keep so.

The debating team of Malin consists of Helen Honzik, Will Paulsen, Richard Jackson and Merwyn Wilde.

Editorial Character

It seems as if February is the birth month of great men. Our first president, George Washington, the man who helped the United States win its independence, and who set the new country on its feet, was born in February.

Great men and good, were they, and each one of us, in this present stage of civilization can glean a lesson from the lives of Washington and Lincoln. They were not perfect—far from it! Each of them had his faults, as well as any one else. They could not have been human if they hadn't. But faults and all—they had character.

Character! It sounds easy, as if one could step out of his crowd, meditate for a while, and then say proudly, "Now, boys, I have character!" It is not as easy as all that. Character of a sound type is acquired in some cases, by the school of hard knocks, while again some people seem born with it. It is a great thing, is character. With the right character one can forge ahead, get into the world and succeed. Without that strong compound one is hopelessly lost, left behind, floundering in a rut out of which he may never hope to climb.

What is this compound made up of? Honesty? Kindness? Confidence? Well, it contains all of those units. How could we define it?

A person with character, or a worth-while character, is one having a compound composed of honesty, kindness, truthfulness, fidelity, and mainly of the element of human nature led by an inner light and inner soul, to do the right thing at the right time for everyone than can possibly be concerned.

February

February may be lucky for some yet it is unlucky for others. But this month is remembered for two great men who died many years ago, and whose birthdays we honor. We also have a great man living today, whose birthday is in this month. He is the greatest inventor known at the present time and is passing his work down for other generations. The world will always honor Thomas A. Edison.

Abraham Lincoln, one of our great presidents, is one whose birthday we honor this month. He was a man loved by all who knew

GAME PLAYED FRIDAY NIGHT

The Malin boys defeated the Bonanza boys at Bonanza last Friday night. Both teams played a fast checking game. The Bonanza boys were unable to penetrate the strong defense of the Malin boys. They took many long ineffective shots. The score at the end of the game was 31 to 10, in favor of the Malin boys.

SOCIAL HOUR

The Young People's class of the Sunday school held a social hour Saturday night at the home of the Reverend and Mrs. Dennis. Miss Violet Judy, chairman of the entertainment committee, planned amusement for everyone attending. Prizes were awarded for best paper hats and gum animals made. Several poets were discovered among the group. In the latter part of the evening every one took part in the taffy pull. All of the 22 guests reported a splendid evening.

The Malin grade school girls, under the supervision of Mr. Olson, journeyed to Altamont last Friday, the 7th, to play the Altamont town team. They played a fast, clean game, although they lost by a score of 24 to 16.

him. He gave his life for his principles, and was like his Lord in that he broke the bond of the negroes and set them free. He will be remembered in the United States as long as it exists.

George Washington, another man whose birthday we honor, was our first president. He loved his countrymen, marched through great difficulties and danger to do his appointed work, regardless of any suffering or trouble which might result to himself through faithful performance of his duty. George Washington will also always be remembered.

Many students and children boast that their birthdays are in the month of February, because it is the month in which these great men were born. Perhaps they have a right to be proud. Who knows but they may some day join this honored list.

FARMER SHOT FOR RESISTING RAID ON FARM

Alleged Bootlegger Shot At Officer Who Tried To Serve Warrant

EVERETT, Wash., Feb. 12. (AP)—Al Kinsman, alleged bootlegger, was fatally shot and Deputy Sheriff J. W. Thomas was seriously wounded in a gun battle at Kinsman's ranch nine miles north of Arlington, Wash., yesterday, when officers attempted to search the premises for liquor.

Armed with a search warrant, Thomas, with Sheriff George I. Stever and Deputy Jessy Jackson, went to Kinsman's isolated ranch to look for liquor. They went to the place separately, Stever going to the barn, Jackson to the chicken coop and Thomas to the front door of the house.

Thomas, who held the warrant, knocked at the door and told Kinsman to open up, adding that they were from the sheriff's office. The door was opened slightly and Kinsman shot Thomas twice in the abdomen, officers said. Kinsman then ran out the back door, to be met by Jackson. Instead of halting at his command, Kinsman opened fire, Jackson said. Jackson fired four shots at the fleeing suspect, three of which took effect.

Thomas Badly Hurt
An ambulance from Arlington took Thomas to the hospital and then returned to Kinsman, as the car could accommodate only one patient at a time. Kinsman died several hours after the shooting, while the condition of Thomas was considered critical.

Thomas was a well known Washington peace officer, having been at one time sheriff of Kittitas county, and had also served for a considerable period as captain of the guards at the state penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Found Whiskey
After the shooting, Sheriff Stever returned to the ranch, and reported finding seven pints of moonshine whiskey. William Gooch, a farmhand, surrendered himself when he heard of the battle, but was later released, after he had convinced the sheriff that he knew nothing of Kinsman's alleged liquor activities. Gooch was away cutting wood at the time of the fight, he said.
