

TREES MAY BE OBTAINED FROM STATE NURSERY

Siberian Elm Thought Best for Klamath County Farms

Trees are now available from the state forest nursery for distribution to farmers, it was announced by county agent, C. A. Henderson today. All orders should be placed with the agent's office immediately. Persons wishing to make orders should call at the office, if possible, and fill out order blanks, or if this is impossible, telephone their orders into the office.

These trees will be furnished at cost, which usually runs about 80 cents per 100. In ordering, checks should be made at this rate.

Wide Selection
The state nursery has on hand the following varieties of trees: Black locust, green ash, box elder, Russian mulberry, Chinese or Siberian elm, western yellow pine, western red cedar, Douglas fir, Austrian pine, Scotch pine, and Port Orford cedar.

Of these varieties, the first six are best adapted to Klamath county, as well as the Scotch pine. This is the first year that the Siberian elm has been available, and it is believed to be one of the best trees for this county, as the seed secured by the nursery came from north China and Siberia. It is a very hardy and resistant tree.

Elder Thrives Here
Of the other trees mentioned in the first six of the list, the box elder has grown rapidly under local conditions, while the black locust and green ash have done well in some districts, but rather poorly in others.

These trees are distributed by the State Forest Nursery to be used on farms for wind breaks, shelter belts, and wood lots, also for lining road-ways and highways. They are for agricultural use only, and should be ordered in large quantities.

This is the fourth year that trees have been available, and about 75,000 or 80,000 have been distributed in the last three years in Klamath county.

Orders should be placed immediately, so that the county agent's office will be able to forward them at once to the State Forest Nursery.

FOG DEVICE
LONDON.—H. A. Lloyd has perfected an invention which it is claimed will do away with the hazard of driving in foggy weather. It consists of a pipe protruding from in front and under an automobile from which hot air steam lifts the fog, leaving clear visibility for at least a car's length in front of the radiator.

Klamath Women To Attend State Health Meeting

Of the local persons who will be among the 200 delegates from every corner of Oregon who will attend the annual meeting of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association in Portland next Tuesday and Wednesday are Mrs. R. P. Ellingson, chairman of the educational committee of the Klamath County Public Health association; Mrs. Burt Hawkins, chairman of the Christmas Seal Sale committee; Miss Malaisa Wetzel, county health nurse, and Miss Alleen Dyer, city school nurse.

Fifteenth Annual Meeting
For fifteen years the Oregon Tuberculosis association has been holding such annual meetings and each year has seen an increase in attendance and a greater interest on the part of the delegates. The sessions this year which will open next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in the Portland public library will be unusually interesting and informative, according to Mrs. Balde Ori Dunbar, executive secretary of the association. Several dinner parties and theatre parties are being planned for Tuesday night. Representatives and members of many women's clubs, civic organizations, county health units, medical societies, official state health agencies and other groups are expected.

Mrs. Hawkins to Report
Mrs. Burt Hawkins is to officially represent the Klamath County Public Health association and will present the president's report of the association's activities for the past year at the meeting Wednesday morning. The presidents from the nineteen other county associations in the state that are affiliated with the tuberculosis association will also present their reports. Mrs. Dunbar states that as a result of the active work of many associations during the past year keen interest in these reports is predicted.

Mrs. Burt Hawkins, Mrs. R. P. Ellingson and Miss Malaisa Wetzel will leave Monday night for Portland, while Miss Dyer will not leave until Wednesday, as the meeting she expects to attend is a continuation of the Oregon Tuberculosis association meeting, and does not convene until later.

Cowen Guilty of Assaulting Wife

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21, (A P)—Lindson Cowen, Klamath Indian, was found guilty of assaulting his wife by a jury reporting today. He will be sentenced Monday. Maximum penalty under the statute is 1500 fine and six months imprisonment.

The indictment charged Cowen with knocking down his wife, Hilda Cowen, and beating her with a hammer. The assault occurred after a family quarrel, as Cowen was packing his things to leave his step-daughter's home on the reservation.

HOUSE FOR BEETLES
LONDON.—A house is to be built in Buckinghamshire which will be the home for deathwatch beetles. This pest, which has destroyed several of Britain's buildings, is rapidly spreading and causing no little concern to contractors. It is hoped that by studying its habits and the beetles at work in destroying this house, some means of combatting it will result.

Cissell May Play Second This Year

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 21, (A P)—Bill Cissell, the Chicago White Sox' $123,000 shortstop, formerly with Portland in the Coast league, may be moved to second base this season. Manager Donie Bush has indicated.

Cissell has been worked at second base every day since the Sox arrived, and Bush has spent considerable time with him. Irving Jeffries, recruit infielder, has teamed with Cissell at shortstop. Whether this arrangement will get anywhere depends much upon the work of Bill Hunsfield, utility infielder last season, who will arrive with the second squad.
