HAYWARD SEES POSSIBILITY OF BEATING HUSKY

EUGENE, Ore., May 16. (AP)—Bill Hayward, University of Oregon track coach, said today that Oregon held a slim possibility of victory over the University of Washington Huskies in the dual track season which opens here tomorrow.

Although the Huskies have been undisputed in supremacy for several years, Hayward said he believed Oregon would crowd Washington in nearly every event and at the same time carry off a share of first place honors.

Reservation Life Told in "Sunset"

Life in the Klamath Indian reservation is pictured in the June issue of the Sunset magazine in an article entitled "Better Homes Among the Klamath Indians." The author is Miss Freda Sperling, home demonstration agent on the reservation.

In this article Miss Sperling counts the misconception that the Indians are still savage. She declares that the Indians are not only very peaceful, but that they live under very modern conditions.

Humming birds beat their wings nearly 1200 times a second and are able to fly backwards.

Light-Heartedness, Play, Keep Circus Performers Conditioned

Psychologists who have made a study of the circus and its people, state that continuous practice is not the only thing that keeps the performers youthful. Light-heartedness, the merry games in which they enter into between shows and the atmosphere of pure fun and play that at all times attends them, is, so the students say, responsible for their wonderful physical condition.

The several hundred performers with the Al G. Barnes circus, which comes to Klamath Falls for afternoon and night exhibitions on Saturday, May 17, appear to get more joy and pleasure out of life
