BARBARA STANWYCK and ROD LA ROCQUE in a scene from "THE LOCKED DOOR"

The picture's boast of an all-star cast is well justified in the performances of Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, the stage star of "The Noose" and "Burlesque," William Boyd, the dynamic star of "What Price Glory," and pretty Betty Bronson. These four stellar players lend a quiet realism to their parts that is a welcome innovation. Mack Swain, Zasu Pitts and Harry Stubbs are splendid in their comedy roles, and Harry Metcalf as the district attorney provides a very personal representation of transient officialdom.

John Roche, Edmund Lowe and Constance Bennett in a thrilling scene from the Pathe comedy drama, "This Thing Called Love"

The success "This Thing Called Love" attained on the speaking stage should insure a brilliant success for this smart Pathe comedy in dialogue picture form, at the Pelican theatre now. Edmund Lowe and Constance Bennett are featured.

As a stage play it was one of the season's big successes. The amazing situations that have been worked out in this picture by the author, centering on the idea of a modern marriage in which the wife stipulates that she is to receive a salary and that neither wife nor husband is to be denied other lovers, provide a great deal of entertainment and much amusement.

Constance Bennett and Edmund Lowe head a brilliant cast. Miss Bennett plays the part of the Liberty. Lowe, as the husband who has just come from Peru where he spent 15 years in mining ventures, is seeking a real home, but accepts this arrangement believing that he can arouse his wife's jealousy and win her over to the good old-fashioned idea of married life.

Charles Bickford, heading the cast of "Hell's Heroes" now at the Liberty theatre, is regarded as one of the greatest "captives" by the films from the stage.

For ten years Bickford was a stage star, being distinguished by his impressive physique and flaming red hair, his height of six feet and one inch and his weight of 185 pounds. Until recently he refused all film offers.

Universal's "Hell's Heroes" is his second picture, his first being Cecil B. De Mille's "Dynamite." Bickford was born in Cambridge, Mass., son of a coffee importer. He received his education in Boston schools and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. When President Roosevelt sent the American fleet on its memorable journey around the world, Bickford was aboard as a coal passer.

Picture settings are a feature of "A Royal Romance," the Columbia all-talking comedy-drama of love and intrigue showing at the Vox. As the major part of the action is unfolded in the palace of a colorful locale of a mythical Balkan kingdom, elaborate scenes are necessary. The palace is beautiful—and the rooms are sumptuously furnished.

William Collier, Jr., and Pauline Starke play the leading roles and the supporting cast includes Clarence Muse, Ann Brody, Betty Boyd, Eugene Bessmer and Ulrich Haupt.
