72 AIRPLANES AND 2 HANGARS LOST IN BLAZE

Chicago Municipal Port Suffers Damages of Over $2,000,000.

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP).—Two hangars and 27 airplanes, 12 of them tri-motor passenger planes, were destroyed by fire at the Municipal Airport early today. The loss was estimated at more than two million dollars.

The hangars destroyed were those of the Universal Airplane, Inc., and the Grey Goose Airlines, the latter under lease to the Stout Air Lines. The fire followed an explosion of undetermined cause in the Universal hangar.

Blast Starts Fire
One of the ground men at the mile square airport said he saw a spark leap across the darkness at the rear of the Universal hangar, and that the explosion followed. Almost at once the building was in flames.

Several men, including pilots and mechanics, were in the building but escaped before the fire reached the front of the hangar where they were. They were able to wheel out only five planes.

Flaming fragments spanned the 50 feet separating the Universal and Grey Goose hangars, and both were destroyed before firemen could halt the flames.

Lights Fat Out
All lights at the airport, including the boundary lights so vital to night flyers seeking to land, were extinguished when the fire burned away power lines. Temporary lights were hurriedly placed to prevent disaster to arriving mail planes.

Official announcement was made at the office of the Universal air lines, that all scheduled, both passenger and mail planes, would be flown without interruption. To do this, planes were started for Chicago at dawn from Cleveland, Kansas City, St. Louis and Tulsa. Upon arrival here, they were to be serviced and sent into the air on the regular routes.

The estimate of the loss by Universal officials was more than $2,000,000. An elaborate machine shop, representing an investment, they said, of three quarters of a million dollars, and much spare equipment were destroyed.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 25 (AP).—Butter and egg prices remained unchanged on the Portland wholesale market today. Lower prices of 1 cent on all grades steadied the butter market Tuesday. While receipts continue liberal good demand by local and outside buyers is enabling receivers to reduce stocks somewhat.

The egg trade continues easy. Receipts are declining fast buying by retailers is only fair.

Market for country meats and poultry continues barely steady with prices unchanged. Trading is quieter on the wholesale produce market today, and prices are generally unchanged or a shade lower. Asparagus is very dull and sells at low values. The asparagus season will end in a few days. Celery is increasing in volume, but not sufficiently to cause lower prices yet. Local green beans are plentiful and cheaper.

The eastern green pea market is lower today. Heavy production in New York state and other eastern districts has removed the former keen demand for western peas.

California apricots are in liberal supply, and are reasonably priced. Hires and Lambert cherries of excellent quality are selling 15-16c per lb., with other varieties much lower.

The team tracks are over-supplied with watermelons. Movement is slow, partly due to continued cool weather. Shipments of watermelons are heavy—over 300 cars Monday.

Daily loadings of 1-3 cars of mixed vegetables aid in relieving the local congestion.

ALBANY ALERT OVER POSSIBLE ROAD TO BEND

Business Men See Hand of Great Northern in Santiam Route.

ALBANY, Ore., June 25. (AP).—Business men of Albany today continued to discuss the possibility of an extension of the Oregon Electric, now under construction up the Santiam valley.

They said it would require but $6 miles of construction to proceed through the Santiam Pass across the Cascade into Bend. Such a line would reduce the distance between the coastal counties of the state and the eastern section.

Valuable As Feeder

To build this link, it was said, also would make the Santiam line and its branches far more valuable as feeder lines to the main system as timber freight could be hauled either way instead of having a limited outlet to the north.

The business men based their opinions on the recent ruling of the interstate commerce commission granting the Great Northern railroad permission to extend its lines southward from Klamath Falls to Keddle, Cal., where it would connect with the Western Pacific.

Lindy Says Smith One of Greatest Aviators of Age

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP).—Affairs of state waited today for two of America's foremost diplomats. Ambassadors Dawes and Morrow, while they communicated congratulations to Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions on their Atlantic crossing.

Between calls at the White House and the state department, the envoys to Great Britain and Mexico talked of the flight. Mr. Dawes said Mr. Morrow had told him Charles A. Lindbergh was greatly worried last night about weather conditions facing the Southern Cross, and had telephoned repeatedly for news of its progress.

Morrow told him, Dawes said, that his famous flying son in law considered Kingsford-Smith one of the greatest fliers of the present generation, and regarded his flight across the Pacific as possibly an even greater achievement than his present flight.
