

INDIAN SLAIN IN GUN FIGHT

Clayton Kirk Kills L. Knight on Ranch at Klamath Marsh

located about 85 miles north of this city. The officers were accompanied by Corporal Earl Whitcomb. None of the officers had returned to town before the Herald went to press.

Louis Knight was the son of Walter Knight, a well known character in the Klamath country. Louis was married to Amy Rice, who has often been in difficulties with prohibition enforcement officers.

In Limelight Before

The Ball ranch leaped into the limelight on November 27, 1928, when "Bill" Thomason, foreman of the Ball ranch, and quarter-bred Rogue River Indian, shot and killed Valery "Bud" Pearson in front of Johnny's pool room in Chiloquin, Ore. Thomason had warned "Bud" to keep away from Elva Rice, known as the most beautiful girl in the Klamath tribe. Elva is the daughter of Amy Knight, wife of Louis Knight by a previous marriage, and the granddaughter of Elva Rice, owner of the Ball ranch. Thomason loved the girl, and thought Pearson unfit company for her.

Thomason was acquitted of the charge of murder in January, 1929.

Louis Knight is said to have been well educated, and to have inherited the artistic ability of his father, Walter Knight. The elder Knight was once cartoonist on a famous paper.

FOURTH SET AS FLIERS' GOAL

of the Hunter family—three of them a part of the flight—all of them from Sparta, Ill.

John and Kenneth Hunter, pilots of the endurance plane, worn, unkempt, but determined. Walter and Albert, with "Big Ben," furnishing fuel and food contacts with the record breakers. Sister Irene is still cooking the food that keeps for the weariness grind, and Mother Hunter sits the backs of her three children on the ground and sends words of encouragement to the two boys in the air.

167th Contact Made

The 167th contact was made at 8:49 a. m., and enough fuel was delivered to last for some time.

The fliers were urged on by many bonuses for each hour they exceeded the record set by the St. Louis Robin. Their profits promise to exceed $100,000.

The flight at 10:40 a. m. had consumed 6,270 gallons of gasoline and 285 gallons of oil.

Second-Hand Ship

The record-breaking "City of Chicago" is a second-hand, two-year-old Stinson-Detroit type monoplane, powered by a 309 horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor. The ship had been flown more than 75,000 miles previously to the inauspicious beginning of the present flight 19 days ago. The refueling plane is of the same type.

The fliers' mother, 62 years old and a widow for 13 years, seemed surprised that thousands of persons should come to the airport in the early morning hours to witness the record breaking by her boys.

"They do seem real excited," she said.

Some one asked her how it felt to be standing there in the dawn, looking up and seeing her sons establishing a new world's record.

"Well," she said, slowly, "it felt—" here she paused, searching for some word to express her emotion, and finally ending "real good."

Message From Home

A message of congratulations from the home town chamber of commerce at Sparta, Ill., brought a grin to the face of Albert Hunter, and he remarked: "Yeah! They're the ones who used to say, 'those Hunter boys will break their necks riding around in them new-fangled contraptions.'"

In a note dropped this morning, the pilots wrote:

"We feel pretty good. Some times kind of bad. We have had a few bad nights with the weather. Suppose Chicago is noted for that."

"We get many letters, from many places, and appreciate the public interest in the flight. If everything turns out all right, we are glad to have brought the record to Chicago, as we have had a hard time doing so."

WANTS MINERAL RIGHTS ADDED

Permanent trusteeship upon the part of the federal government which was not contemplated under the theory applied to other states, and which is certainly subject to challenge by reason of the extent of its application. Parity between the public land states and the other states of the Union in this relation, seems a fair.

Halling the proposal of President Hoover for turning over to the Western states the surface rights to some 2,000,000 acres within their borders, Governor Emerson declared the fact that the mineral rights likewise were not included in the proposed action. He declared the surface rights of the remaining lands are of little value, and pointed to the experience of his own state in administering mineral deposits in her school lands as evidence of the competence of the states to conserve them.

FRENCH LEAVE GERMAN TOWN

ing the former grand ducal palace which had been the headquarters of General Guillaumat, commander in chief of the French army of occupation.

Last Battalion Leaves

At 10:30 a. m. the last battalion of the French garrison of Mayenne marched briskly into the court playing martial airs and with flags flying. At 11:10 a. m., General Guillaumat, in full regalia, came out of the headquarters, accompanied by President Thrard of the inter-allied Rhineland commission, who wore the conventional cutaway and carried a walking stick. He had arrived from the Wiesbaden evacuation ceremony.

Shout Breaks Silence

There was a moment of silence, then a sudden spontaneous yell from thousands of throats. The single shout was followed by instant silence. The troops were in motion. Evacuation had taken place.

Special Lecture To Be Given at Fremont School

Mrs. W. L. Lawton, chairman of the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty, is scheduled to deliver an address at Fremont school this evening. Her subject dealing with the progress of the survey of Oregon's roadsides. The general public is urged to attend this lecture and get a thorough understanding of the objects and motives of the society Mrs. Lawton represents.

"Keep your roadsides attractive, if you would draw the tourists," declares Mrs. Lawton. "Good roadsides are no longer enough. The motorist today demands that riding be made not only comfortable, but delightful, and that is a matter of roadsides."

Backed by Garden Club

Under the auspices of the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs, Mr. and Mrs. Lawton are making a two-month survey of Oregon's roadsides. They are sent out by the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty and the American Nature association.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawton have just completed a four-month survey of the Carolinas, which aroused such wide interest that applications for similar surveys have been made by Washington, California and Georgia. The Washington survey will be made immediately after the close of the Oregon survey.

Thoughts We've Been Thinking

the old timers and their offsprings in this country. The news of the days when Judge Emmett built Topsy grade, which is comparatively late news, is cherished by many people, and also events that date far back of those days.

KLAMATH FALLS is growing but she still has a background of the sturdy old stock that came here when the buckaroo and lariat were in their zenith of popularity; when the country was strictly inland and to locate here meant to stay.

WHEN it was reported that the late Judge Gary got a salary of a million dollars a year from the United States Steel corporation, somebody asked John D. Rockefeller, Sr., whether he thought any man was worth that much a year. John D. said: "No matter what Judge Gary is receiving from U. S. Steel, we would gladly pay him more."

Will Hays, who gets something like $150,000 a year from the Motion Picture Producers' association, is worth so much to the producers that recently they raised his salary. Well, the big money is to be had, but you have to be worth a lot to the group that pays you. You may be worth it in hard work or in reputation or in something that only you and your personality have to give.

Somebody will tell you that a radio star or a picture star or a writing star is not worth a thousand or five thousand a week.
