LOWER FREIGHT RATES NEED OF STOCK RAISERS

Geary Says Stockmen Of County In Need Joint Through Rates

"Railroad connections have already been established into and out of Klamath county but the full advantages of these have not been accorded the stockmen because of high freight rates," is the statement of Arthur M. Geary, attorney for the Northwestern Livestock Shippers Traffic League and a member of the farm and stock organizations of the Mountain Pacific Northwest in pending livestock freight rate cases. Mr. Geary was in Klamath Falls over the week end.

"What we have been seeking from the Commission in the general investigation of livestock freight rates has included publication of joint through rates via all roads. Stockmen have been greatly handicapped in buying feeders and shipping them feed-in-transit, to Klamath county, due to lack of reasonable joint through rates with feed-in-transit privileges. Also moving to and from Klamath county, Lake county, Nevada and California has been difficult.

"The final decision of the Commission in the livestock freight rate case was expected the first of January but commissioners are still pondering over it.

Packers Have Advantage
"One of the main problems that stockmen face is the contention of Corn Belt packing interests that rates for distances over a few hundred miles should be relatively high. The explanation of this viewpoint is that the average haul of livestock in the Corn Belt is only about 200 miles. Packers with branch plants here and there have an advantage when relatively high freight rates for other than the short haul forces slaughter at the nearest plants.

"The decision in the wheat rate case has also been held in the Commission long past the time that was expected. One feature of this delay is that the Supreme Court has now interpreted the Hoch-Smith resolution in a manner that may require re-consideration of the cases before a final decision is issued.

Healing Service On Program at Klamath Temple

The third divine healing service of the Argus campaign will be conducted tonight at the big wooden tabernacle, at Seventh and Oak streets. Among those to be prayed for healing will be a man with a broken back. This man has been brought from Medford, and has been unable to walk for sixteen months.

"The Quartet That Raised the Roof" will be Rev. Watson Argus's subject. Following, the sermon the sick will be brought to the platform, where they will receive the evangelist's prayers for recovery.

Last night's service saw a record number of converts "hitting the trail." At the call of Rev. Argus about 25 new converts went forward to start the Christian life. This brings the number of converts thus far near the 150 mark.

According to the evangelist, last night's service was one of the most enthusiastic of the campaign. A large audience heard the sermon on "The Seven Spirits of God." Rev. Argus spoke of the spirit of grace, the spirit of adoption, the spirit of holiness, the spirit of truth, the spirit of wisdom, the spirit of prophecy and the spirit of glory.

SWEPT SYSTEM FREE OF POISON

"Sargon swept my system free of dangerous poisons. Bled me with new strength and vitality and gave me a new lease on life."

MRS. O. M. DAVIES

"Pains like neuritis in my hips and legs kept me so crippled that I couldn't walk for days at a time. My blood was impoverished. My system was acid and nearly everything I ate upset my stomach. I was awfully bilious, my skin was sallow and blotchy and pimples were all over my face. I'd suffered with constipation nearly all my life. Sargon rid me of every ailment I had; my skin has cleared up wonderfully and I have a feeling of general well-being."

"Sargon Pills is the only medicine that ever relieved me of biliousness and constipation without the least discomfort of any kind."—Mrs. O. M. Davies, 549 Jefferson St., Portland, Ore. Magill Drug Co., agents.—Adv.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

PORTLAND, July 17, (AP)—As indicated by its recent firmness, especially in top grades, the price of butter, has advanced 1c all down the line, according to quotations at the Portland produce exchange. Extras are now at 35c.

Butterfat has also advanced, the price delivered Portland being 31c.

Egg prices were fairly steady, with a strong tone apparent for the top grades. Retail sales were reported good.

Speaking of the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland bureau of the U. S. department of agriculture says:

"Portland's supply of tomatoes is now coming almost entirely from The Dalles. California tomatoes are now coming up, and few additional arrivals are expected. Heavier receipts of The Dalles tomatoes reduced prices 25-50c per box, to about $1.75 to retailers.

Potatoes are now at their lowest level since last summer, at $1.50-2.00 per cwt. for fine-quality local whites.

Apricots are coming mostly from The Dalles, with a few arrivals from Yakima. There is fairly active demand for apricots for home canning, at $1.05-1.15 per 15-lb. crate to retailers.

"Receipts of red raspberries are lighter than were expected, due to cool weather this week, which has delayed maturity. The trade generally believes that raspberry and loganberry prices will remain at about present levels throughout the season.

"First Crawford peaches from California were received today. Elbertas will be here in a few days. A carload of Thompson seedless grapes from California.
