

COLLECTORS TO ADMIT LUMBER FROM RUSSIA

Proof That Product Is Convict Made Must Be Furnished

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 15. (AP)—Unless actual proof is furnished that Russian pulpwood and lumber imported into the United States are produced by convict labor they will be admitted to this country without hindrance according to a telegram received here by Representative W. C. Hawley. Hawley and Senator McNary sent telegrams to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman protesting against the Russian competition with Pacific coast producers.

Proof Insufficient
Lowman, in a telegram to Hawley last night, said that on account of insufficient proof that Russian pulpwood and lumber were the output of convict labor, customs collectors have been ordered to admit all shipments until further notice. He added that it was not necessary that each cargo reaching an American port be accompanied by evidence that it was not produced by convict labor, but that if a collector had reason to believe it was then the evidence should be furnished.

Hawley protests this ruling in a statement made here. "Unless imports of Russian lumber and pulpwood are accompanied by evidence of manufacture in compliance with the requirements of our legislation," he said, "they should be refused entry. If the importers object to this the courts are open. Russian producers should not be permitted the benefit of our laws while violating them."

HEARING TAKES ANOTHER TURN

Stewart street garage owner, in whose establishment Crowley was employed on the day of the explosion.

Dr. Shane denied having seen Billings or any other man with suitcase in his office that day. He said Miss Smith never discussed such a visit with him as she had previously testified nor did he recall other events of the purported occurrence his former nurse described to the justices two weeks ago.

Claybourne told the court it would have been physically impossible for Crowley to have seen any one at Stewart and Mission streets for at least 45 minutes previous to and at least 10 minutes after the bombing.

The attorney declared Crowley had been working under period continuously during that time and had never left the garage. He said he heard the explosion while Crowley was in that position.

"About ten minutes after the bombing," Claybourne testified, "someone rushed into the garage and told us what had happened. Crowley and I walked to the scene together. We remained there fifteen minutes and returned together. It would have been impossible for him to have seen anyone at the place and time he testified to because he was under my car and in my presence during that period."

During the Billings trial Crowley testified the time he said he saw Billings by looking at his watch.

Watch in Cash Register
Claybourne declared Crowley's watch had remained in the garage cash register a day or two before and a day after the bombing. Crowley had pledged the timepiece as security for a small loan.

Claybourne then told of several men subsequently visiting Crowley at the garage.

"Crowley told me they were detectives and wanted him as a bombing witness," he related. "He told me he was only stringing them along to get some money."

Guardian Seeks To Recover Deed

J. P. McClellan, an insane man, represented by the guardian of his estate, Walter Zimmerman, has filed a suit in the circuit court to recover certain real property which he deeded to Cora Bell Rittenhouse. The property was deeded on July 25, 1929, while Mr. McClellan, who was adjudged insane by the county court on August 8, was of unsound mind.

On August 5 the same property was sold by Cora Bell Rittenhouse and Robert Rittenhouse, her husband, to Ina M. Blackmer. McClellan claims that the deed is void since the property really belonged to him.

The property consists of lots 19 and 20 in block 4 of the original town of Chiloquin. The plaintiff is represented by Ralph Farmer, attorney.

De Lays Visit in Klamath

Luper said that under the law the state department will be required to grant the power rights unless it is found that the development interferes with some public welfare project. It is not probable that such interference will be shown.

Time of beginning and completing any of the projects are not stated in the applications, this is to be determined until all details with the government are completed.

The contemplated development in Douglas county is the second large proposed extension of the California-Oregon Power company's operations in Oregon in recent weeks. Applications covering five developments in the Klamath river in Klamath county at a total estimated cost of over $27,000,000 were filed with the state department about two weeks ago.

New Baggage Service Started by Railroad
For the benefit of passengers passing through San Francisco, a new baggage service was started at one station and departing from the other, who wish to spend the day in the city before resuming their trip, and who do not want to be encumbered by their hand baggage while stopping over, an arrangement has just been placed in effect by T. K. Farnett, general baggage agent, to care for such hand baggage.

Should the passenger arrive at the Third street station, he may deliver his hand baggage to the station master, with advice as to destination, and the train, car and berth to be occupied will be bound. The baggage will be taken by a transfer company during the day to the Ferry station, and at the proper time red caps will deliver it to the space on the outgoing train reserved for the passenger, so that his baggage will be awaiting him when he boards the train at Oakland pier. For passengers arriving at Oakland pier and departing from Third street, the same service may be had by arranging with the station master at the Ferry station.

The only charge involved will be the customary charge for transferring the luggage across the city.

Restaurant Men Form Association

A local restaurant men's association was formed in Klamath Falls at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the Pelican Grille. It is the plan of the association to join the N. R. A. (National Restaurant Association) in the near future.

FLYING TEAM SET NEW GOAL

1,000 Hours in the Air Fliers' Objective For Record

plane factory workers paraded across the field carrying a banner which read "Again Red and Obid." Factory whistles in industrial St. Louis also heralded the return of the flight record to St. Louis with a chorus of shrieks.

The fliers' monoplane, the Greater St. Louis, a sister ship of the St. Louis Robin in which they set their record last year, appeared to the observers and the ground crew to be functioning perfectly.

Wives at Field
The wives of the fliers were among those who stood in the rain to watch the record broken. They were showered with congratulations.

The din of noise continued about twenty minutes.

The Great St. Louis is equipped with a Challenger motor of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing company, the same type of motor used last year. It is 170 horsepower. The plane's gasoline capacity is less than that of the St. Louis Robin, but it is so built as to give the fliers more room. The large fuselage tank holds 167 gallons and the two wing tanks 25 gallons each.

Gas Consumption Increases
At the start of the flight, July 21, the plane used eight gallons of gasoline an hour, but it now is using about ten gallons an hour with about ten gallons of oil a day.

Today the endurance ship had made a total of 125 contacts with the refueler, had used about 5,055 gallons of gasoline and 250 gallons of oil. It had traveled approximately 33,000 miles and the propeller had made over 44,000,000 revolutions.

Alabama democrats apparently selected John H. Bankhead was maintaining almost a two to one advantage over Frederick I. Thompson, Mobile publisher.

VOTERS REJECT CHARTER PLAN

South Sixth street addition and Lot 203, Enterprise tracts, voted 12 to 4 against coming into the city and defeated the measure although the city wards favored their entrance by a vote of 1924 for and 294 against.

As a consequence of the election Tuesday the city retains its council-mayor form of government and an interesting mayor race is being looked forward to in the coming fall election. Another result of the election is that Hillside, Beaumont, The Terraces and Dixon addition sections become a part of the city.

The election climaxed one of the warmest political campaigns ever held in the city. Strong alliances and groups were on each side of the question of whether or not to change the city's form of government.

In November the city will elect a mayor and five councilmen, a police judge and a city treasurer. Already many names have been mentioned and some candidates either announced themselves or declared themselves out of the race during the past campaign.

Mayor T. B. Watters announced that he will not be a candidate for another term. Police Judge U. S. Balentine and Treasurer Lena Dennis also declared that they do not wish to hold office any longer.

Chief of Police Keith K. Ambrose announced that he is "definitely through" as soon as his successor as fire chief and police chief is qualified and takes office.

In the fight against the charter W. C. MacFlea stated that he is favorable to being elected mayor and would accept the office. Councilman Butler also declared himself as a candidate for mayor.

With the proposed charter out of the picture the past campaign brought out the need for a revision in the present charter and many wished it brought up to date with the same form of government as the city now has. Those advocating the defeat of the commission-manager form of government suggested that the matter be put before the voters this fall.

The vote by wards yesterday on the charter was:
WARD ONE—Riverside district—Yes, 45; no, 193.
WARD TWO—Second to Sixth streets—Yes, 91; no, 215.
WARD THREE—Central section—Yes, 71; no, 252.
WARD FOUR—Mill and Hot Springs—Yes, 90; no, 473.
WARD FIVE—Northern Section—Yes, 21; no, 252.

The heaviest vote cast was in Mills and Hot Springs addition where 563 votes were cast. The final official count was completed at 1 a. m. in that district which was the last to report.

much about Clifford. The vote was cast and Clark was removed from office.

Evans Does Talking
"Then we started our discussion of Clifford's case. Both L. A. Wright, chairman and commissioner from Union county and myself were favoring Clifford," Poole continued. "Evans did most of the talking for the remaining three votes—Willard Allen, Grants Pass, J. E. Callison Portland and himself."

"When the stenographer came" Poole charged, "Evans reached into his coat pocket and withdrew four sheets of paper. These sheets contained the findings of this very session and they had obviously been prepared in advance before we had met to make any decisions."

Poole said Evans began reading the notes to the stenographer in a low monotone. Wright leaned over his shoulder to see what he was reading. Poole declared and "since I could not hear him I also leaned over his shoulder."

Cut and Dried
"You've got it all cut and dried," I said, "why don't you get this over with."

Poole declared Evans suggested the five members of the commission spread the report to the press that the decision had been born of an unanimous vote.

"I don't care what you told the newspapers," Poole said he told Evans, "I am going to tell the true story."

Poole said Evans opposed Cliff

YOU NEED ONLY WATER

If YOU have a package of White King on hand, and you want to wash anything, the only other requirement for the quickest, cleanest, most satisfactory washing job that can be done is water.

White King's purity makes it safe for the most delicate colored fabrics, effective for the heaviest woolsens, kind to the tenderest hands. It's made from the same sort of fine vegetable and nut oils used in the manufacture of salad dressing. Fabrics, dishes, silver, glass, floors, woodwork—they're all easy for White King, even in hard or lukewarm water.

Try White King Granulated Soap today. Its economy will surprise you. You need only use a teaspoonful in the wash basin, a cupful in the washing machine. It's condensed. Your grocer has it.
