

ALFALFA PEST HEARING ENDS IN PORTLAND

PORTLAND, Oct. 10, (AP)—Representatives of Jackson, Malheur, Baker and Union counties returned to their homes today after appearing before the state board of horticulture to discuss the economic aspects of maintaining the quarantine now preventing transportation of alfalfa, hay and seed from those counties.

Considerable attention was directed at plans for the prevention of spread of the alfalfa weevil.

H. D. Howell, Josephine county agent, representing the alfalfa growers in his district, testified that much of the alfalfa grown in Josephine is sold in Del Norte county, California and that if the quarantine was lifted against the four Oregon counties, a state-wide quarantine on the part of California would result.

This, he testified, would seriously interfere with disposal of crops and would cause unnecessary hardship to growers not affected by the insect.

The same reason for maintenance of the ban was advanced by numerous other growers from counties not now under quarantine. Unadvised county representatives testified a statewide quarantine would be put into effect in Washington if the Oregon one was lifted.

Malheur and Jackson county representatives sought to lift the ban. They testified the weevil was not so prevalent as before but based their plea to the board for relief from the quarantine principally because their market cut prices.

PORTLAND, Oct. 9, (UP)—A. W. Gillen, 60, was in a hospital here today suffering from a possible fracture of the skull sustained in a collision between a fire engine and his automobile. The fire engine was on its way to a fire when the accident occurred. Gillen's car was totally demolished.

Aborigines On the "Warpath" In Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 10, (AP)—Pale, beef-scented smoke from Indian campfires curled skyward today about the topes of 2000 aborigines assembled here to see their braves take the warpath, which lies between the chalk lines of a gridiron.

For a college football game was the marie which brought together in a common village once hostile tribesmen from widely separated reservations. Present were the Dakotas' prairies, Woodlands of the Northwest, Montana's rugged peaks and desolate Osage hills of Oklahoma.

The braves of Haskell Institute, government Indian school, faced a University of Kansas football team for the first time in 34 years. In keeping with tribal tradition, the copper-hued warriors were inspired on the eve of combat by a war dance. It was staged by more than a hundred braves from a score of tribes.

Pottawatomie, Cheyenne, Sioux, Arapahoe, each danced the ancient war dance of his tribe in a modern school stadium. Illuminated by a silver harvest moon—and football floodlights.

It was a scene of barbaric splendor—half naked, twisting, writhing, wheeling bodies daubed with war paint; throbbing kettle drums and shrill war chants quivered apparently with savage intensity. War bonnets, gorgeous with eagle feathers; beads, wampum, elk's teeth and tinkling bells.

Honor Is Accorded Dairy Benefactor

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10, (AP)—A benefactor of the dairy who scorned to make money has received recognition. The Gapper award for distinctive service to agriculture has been presented by the senator to Dr. Stephen M. Babcock, professor, emeritus of the University of Wisconsin, who in 1890 perfected a method of determining the butter fat content of milk.

The referendum idea isn't new. Noah sent out a dove to see if the land was dry.

Continue Search For Salem Hunter

ROSEBURG, Oct. 10 (AP)—Although several searching parties scoured the Umpqua divide country, no trace of Emory James, Salem policeman, lost since Monday while hunting, had been found today.

The parties concentrated on the Cougar and William creeks where James separated from other members of the hunting group. He is known to be well acquainted with the stretch of country as he has hunted there before.
